Dear Sir

I object to any development on the area of contaminated land covered by the above reference.

This land must be de-zoned for future development as previous investigations have revealed grave concerns about the high level of toxic waste on this site. Any consideration to disturbing or removing the contaminated soil would put every household and neighbouring schools, nurseries and medical centre at high risk, and the Council would be negligent in their legal duty of care by supporting such an action.

The site is best served by de-zoning it from development and allowing nature to take its course over time and let it contribute to the natural amenities of the surrounding area.

There are plenty of other sites which can be pursued with none of this risk.

Regards

William Dobbie
