Dear Sirs,

The answer is No! how many times has the resident's. to put up with removing this toxic waste, we had enouth enough of the waste being put in large lorries and driven on a rough road through the field next to the railway, and washed at top of Murieston valley an then driven down the Murieston Valley loaded with all this toxic earth.

If it is for building houses, we don't need anymore, we need more facilities, and decent bus service. If you don't or able to drive a car, you are isolated.
