Strategic Allocations (including previously identified Core Development Area Allocations) (page 25, paragraphs 5.57-5.61)

Support is offered for the contents of paragraphs numbers 5.57 and 5.60 (page 25) of the Proposed West Lothian Local Development Plan as it mentions and relates to the ongoing regeneration of the major brownfield site at Heartlands, Whitburn via continued residential development. In this regard the specific quotes are as follows : "A key component of the spatial strategy is the delivery of housing and associated development within the previously identified CDAs.....together with the strategic allocation at Heartlands, by Whitburn.....These areas continue to provide for large scale development, principally housing, which will bring forward new and expanded communities." and "The scale of development to be delivered on sites is set out in Chapter 6. Given that these areas (and Heartlands) are delivering substantial housing completions, the LDP continues to support their ongoing delivery subject to the availability of infrastructure.....In addition, the LDP provides support for the longer term development of Heartlands by identifying the area as one which will continue to contribute to development beyond the LDP plan period and to provide the certainty that investors in this major brownfield regeneration project require for their longer term planning of the development." The requirement for and justification of this ongoing support for Heartlands is clearly outlined in the 'additional comments' section at the end of this form.

In all regards SUPPORT is offered for the content of the Proposed West Lothian Local Development Plan as it relates to the ongoing regeneration of the major brownfield site at Heartlands, Whitburn via continued residential development. In this regard the LDP provides support for the longer term development of Heartlands by identifying the area as one which will continue to contribute to development (principally housing) beyond the LDP plan period and to provide the certainty that investors in this major brownfield regeneration project require for their longer term planning of the development. The Heartlands development site is located on lands of the former Polkemmet Colliery, to the south of the M8 motorway, to the west of Whitburn and north of Fauldhouse. The site is almost centrally located between Glasgow and Edinburgh, being only 37km from Glasgow and 34km from Edinburgh. In all regards the extensive decontamination, remediation, reclamation and subsequent re-use of the former Colliery land at Heartlands is strongly supported by all aspects and levels of planning policy including national planning policy in the form of the Scottish Government document 'Scottish Planning Policy', where there is strong support for the development of brownfield sites. This redevelopment of the former Polkemmet Colliery site has also been strongly supported by West Lothian Council, where through the approval of the previously mentioned planning consents it has been demonstrated that there is support for this large scale reclamation of the former Colliery site. In addition to this the current West Lothian Local Plan (page 75, section 5.56) states that "the council fully supports the development initiative at Polkemmet, known as Heartlands, which represents the largest ever private sector investment in West Lothian". The remediation works along have cost Ecosse Regeneration around £120 million and it is estimated that it will take 18 years for the company to see any profit from the development. The West Lothian Local Plan also goes on to state that the Heartlands proposals involve "one of the most problematic contaminated and derelict sites in Scotland" and the Council have stated in previous local plan consultations that the redevelopment of this land is thought to be the best means of securing the rehabilitation of the largest remaining area of dereliction in West Lothian. In light of the above, the long term identification of the Heartlands site for further housing units in this West Lothian Local Development Plan and beyond is welcomed and indeed supported. In all regards it is submitted that the continued identification of Polkemmet as a residential site will provide confidence to developers and will help ensure investment in the overall site is sustained. This flexible approach at Heartlands will provide an element of future proofing for the LDP and will provide the certainty that investors in this major brownfield regeneration project require for their longer term planning of the development". In this regard it is submitted that the suggested flexible approach to the future development of the Heartlands site should be maintained and stated in the emerging West Lothian Local Development Plan. Such flexibility is welcomed and supported, given that it will help to future proof the site in question and provide certainty and encouragement to existing and future investors. Such a commitment, it is submitted, will help to ensure the future and ongoing regeneration for this major brownfield site. A more detailed history of the site and justification for the identification of further housing numbers at the Heartlands site is outlined in our previous submissions to the emerging West Lothian Local Development Plan, the last of which is included as Appendix 3 to this submission. The submission can be outlined as follows: 12th January 2011 - letter and report entitled 'West Lothian Local Development Plan - Emerging Local Development Plan - Representation: Heartlands, Whitburn'; 21st February 2011 - letter entitled 'Expressions of interest in sites for West Lothian Local Development Plan - Heartlands Development Site'; 11th January 2012 - letter entitled 'Emerging West Lothian Local Development Plan Further Representation - Heartlands, Whitburn'; 29th May 2012 - letter entitled 'West Lothian Local Development Plan Call for Sites Submission Follow Up'; and, 16th October 2014 - letter entitled 'Representation - West Lothian Local Development Plan Main Issues Report - Heartlands, Whitburn'.
