180	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Agree. Too many paper shufflers with not enough real work to do and time on their hands. Too many "managers" chasing meaningless "outcomes" with no real benefit to anyone. Too many at upper management level on high salaries who no one would be any the wiser if they weren't there. This should be a root and branch ,top down review of the whole council operation. Anyone can make a case for their job being "essential" In reality, very few actually are ,and most could readily be integrated with other services. There's far too much wastage and people hiding in corners with not enough to do and quite happy for it to continue until they walk out with their nice index linked pension, again paid for by the taxpayer. 300	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Improving efficiencies is desirable in any context and using technology to improve effectiveness is a great idea. One specific proposal which is easy to implement and provides excellent returns is to upgrade all computer drives from hard drive to solid state. A ten minute delay in daily start-up is then reduced to ten seconds. This simple improvement multiplied by say 5,000 computer-based staff at an average total hourly cost of Â£30 and 220 working days in a year would produce an efficiency saving of over Â£5 million a year, or over Â£25 million in five years. Factor in the further reduction of inefficient and frustrating blue circle time throughout the working day and the cumulative benefit is very much greater. This is not an automatic Â£25 million budget saving, but it has the potential for knock-on effect efficiencies in productivity and staff well-being. If necessary this could in turn enable some staffing reduction without loss of service. NB I am glad to say that this is an improvement now being implemented by IT Services. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The council is reviewing opportunities for the rationalisation and integration of IT systems.
304	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	It would be useful if staff had access to appropriate technology to make this happen. For example staff are encouraged to work smart but technology not in place to make this happen. Time is wasted trying to access buildings and logging onto to systems. Work smart desks are not prioritised and staff cannot access e mails on their phones which would save time and travel for outreach workers.	ITC infrastructure (general)	1. 307	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	There is a great inefficiency by solicitors have desk top computers and not laptops. Laptops are only given to managers. The committees team have a laptop; however, I can only borrow this when they don't need for a presentation or at a committee. Being a solicitor is not 9-5. I need to prepare for evidential hearings and quite often due to the nature of work in litigation, this is difficult to do during the working week. If I can't take a laptop home, this puts extra pressure on the existing workload and reduces the time that can be spent on cases. If I had a laptop myself the Council could possibly get a good 8-10 hours extra work out of me when I require to prepare for an evidential hearing, for example. In addition, if I am taking a statement elsewhere, which is a very regular occurrence, I could work from home for a period before my meeting thus maximising efficiency. I have spoken with other solicitors in corporate services and they are of the same opinion.	ITC infrastructure (general)	6. This is a positive suggestion. 308	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	In addition, we have old fashioned dictation machines with expensive tapes to replace, and the machines regularly break. If were to move to digital dictation, this would save money and mean that our admin staff could be more efficient and would increase the efficiency of the solicitors. This would also mean that we could look at dictating from our phones when outwith the office (providing we delete as soon as uploaded for data protection purposes). We could also do with an updated version of IKEN case management system. We would be able to do our jobs faster if we were provided with technology which moves with the times. Whilst we can't afford the exact same as private firms, we need to ensure that our solicitors have the correct tools to do their job and make us as efficient as possible. 313	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. We have seen this happen over the years and it is not sustainable.	ITC infrastructure (general)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver an more effective and cost effective service through the centralisation of generic tasks, utilisation of technology and the retention of specialist provision within service.
314	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Reducing man power for more expensive technology won't service the public as effectively as the systems can process requests from us. The dog warden service is a prime example. No longer providing street assistance to noise complaints nor the nrt either. Complaints to be made to police and council send out a letter using their technology. Previously visits by wardens did reduce offending but now people just let their dogs go nuts as nothing will be done. Now if this happens to be services supporting vulnerable people in the community and face to face services are withdrawn this can pose a risk to public health an safety. Mental health services. Drug and alcohol services. Vital support no longer available and the impact on community struggling to cope with the consequences.	ITC infrastructure (general)	2. 316	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Investment in current technology is required. IT systems in place are unreliable - there us a lot of duplicated work with logging on different systems especially for front line staff.	ITC infrastructure (general)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The council has made significant investment in the IT infrastructure and will continue to allocate appropriate resources to introduce new technology where appropriate. The council's ICT Strategy seeks to deliver change in line with advances in technology and changes in council priorities, whilst still having a clear framework within which to operate.
317	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	The said techonology should be tested thoroughly to make sure it actually works.	ITC infrastructure (general)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The council has made significant investment in the IT infrastructure and will continue to allocate appropriate resources to introduce new technology where appropriate. The council's ICT Strategy seeks to deliver change in line with advances in technology and changes in council priorities, whilst still having a clear framework within which to operate.
318	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Can greater use of tele conferencing or video conferencing help?	ITC infrastructure (general)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	All of the council's main office buildings in the main towns and villages in West Lothian have facilities for mobile and flexible working which can be booked through the room booking system. In addition, staff who undertake mobile and flexible working have access to IT technology to facilitate this, including remotely accessing meetings.
319	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	In principal, it makes sense. However, some services have been cut to the bone such that they now don't provide a quality service. Technology changes are always good but they can be costly so a Â£4 million saving doesn't seem all that big. having used your Access 2 Work service, my observations are that the IT technology doesn't support their function given they are sent to different locations which seem to struggle with the IT platform. It also seems heavily bureaucratic and requires the seeker to provide a huge amount of information and follow up requirements coupled with a lack of continuity.	ITC infrastructure (general)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The council has made significant investment in the IT infrastructure and will continue to allocate appropriate resources to introduce new technology where appropriate. The council's ICT Strategy seeks to deliver change in line with advances in technology and changes in council priorities, whilst still having a clear framework within which to operate.
320	On behalf of a Group/Organisation	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Currently council IT systems do not talk to each other so often people speak to the same departments or services about the same things several times, with information being recorded at each point of contact, this is not best use of time and resources.	ITC infrastructure (general)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The council is reviewing opportunities for the rationalisation and integration of IT systems.
321	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	In a changing world, the way services are delivered will naturally change. We need to be efficient and embrace newer technologies and therefore reduce face to face contact centres and go more digital.	ITC infrastructure (general)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver an more effective and cost effective service through the centralisation of generic tasks with the retention of specialist provision within service.
322	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	There is always a need for progression and changing technology. The council should be utilising the facilities they already have, not wasting money by creating purpose built facilities.	ITC infrastructure (general)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Thank you for your response. Your comment has been noted
323	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Something that needs to be addressed to make things better for both the customers and staff are fully integrated systems meaning that there is no requirement to manually add details to separate accounts making this more streamlined, user friendly and improve timeliness. CRM is supposedly a corporate tool however in my experience the majority of services are reluctant to utilise this to its full potential and decide to stick with systems which are antiquated and are in no way integrated with the corporate tool.	ITC infrastructure (general)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The council is reviewing opportunities for the rationalisation and integration of IT systems.
324	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	The use of technology could reduce costs but could also create a barrier for people who do not feel comfortable with technology /do not have the skills/have physical or learning disabilities. Easy read/symbols and pictures might help. Input from communication specialists. Also different languages. How would be people be contacted to let them know enquiries hve been received and are being dealt with and in what timescale?	ITC infrastructure (general)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver a more effective and cost effective service through the centralisation of generic tasks, utilisation of technology and the retention of specialist provision within service. This model still allows the opportunity for staff to engage with council officers on a face to face basis at the most effective and convenient level.
325	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I don't believe technology can improve the services any further. Human beings need to be there to process, communicate and negotiate the different circumstances. We are not in a futuristic world.	ITC infrastructure (general)	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal. 335	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. 337	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	This is great, we should be more green as a council. 340	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	In principle I believe this to be right as the workforce and how we deliver services requires to be modernised. However where this comes unstuck is in the actual IT that we have access to. We have desktop computers that are too old to cope with the new software resulting in lots of slow running systems. I work within Social Policy sector and some of the new IT systems that have been put in place are not appropriate for those practitioners who are not office based throughout there working day. I appreciate that we are required to be compliant with a variety of legislation in relation to sensitive data and information however we cannot only partly invest in technology. This model still allows the opportunity for staff to engage with Council officers on a face to face basis at the most effective and convenient level.
373	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I think the best use of technology to streamline administrative functions and protect frontline delivery of services is a good idea and should be explored.	ITC infrastructure (general)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Thank you for your response. Your comment has been noted
374	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I believe that frontline staff should be provided up with up to date mobile and computer technology that will improve efficiency and time management and take us into the 21st century. There is however still a need for face to face engagement, especially within Social Policy services and this should not be underestimated or minimised. The technology would be to support this work not completely replace it.	ITC infrastructure (general)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the Council can deliver a more effective and cost effective service through the centralisation of generic tasks with the retention of specialist provision within service. This model still allows the opportunity for staff to engage with Council officers on a face to face basis at the most effective and convenient level.
375	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	The Council network speed needs improving along with the reduction of IT updates during the working day. Unless these are an emergency they should be done outwith the staff members working day which would increase a member of staff's time for working. I fully understand the need for these updates but it is the timing of the updates that is affecting productivity.	ITC infrastructure (general)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The Council has made significant investment in the IT infrastructure and will continue to allocate appropriate resources to introduce new technology where appropriate. The Council's ICT Strategy seeks to deliver change in line with advances in technology and changes in Council priorities, whilst still having a clear framework within which to operate.
376	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	If believe that as many office expense as possible should be cut. This includes free and open source software - FOSS should be implemented as it is a good alternative. This could also make the Council more technologically up to date as its free to upgrade FOSS software.	ITC infrastructure (general)	4. The Council is already doing this.	The Council's IT Strategy supports use of open source software where this is the most effective and efficient solution for delivery of Council services.
377	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Why not have a bespoke program software developed by our own IT dept. It would save on Windows system licencing year on year.	ITC infrastructure (general)	5b. It is proposed that this suggestion is not taken forward because it is likely that the costs of this proposal would outweigh the benefit.	The Council does not consider that the establishment of an in-house development team would be value for money.
378	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Too vague to comment - which services, what impact?	No preference given	3. The respondent advised that they had no comment to make.	Thank you for your response. Your comment has been noted

404	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	As stated previously, without any clue as to which kind of business model currently exists, and to which existing measures will be subject to change, I will be unable to provide any intelligent comment as to what my preference would be on this matter, however, if I could be directed to somewhere where I could fully explore this matter, I would gladly offer up any ideas or suggestions which I may think relevant to this specific (vague) question. N.B. I found this particular survey on Facebook, although I have never before seen any other information offered by west lothian council on public opinion of the countless other decisions which are made in your office by your tireless workers on a daily basis. I may be the fool hoping that one day I may stumble on important social matters such as this on Facebook.... although it might just not be a bad idea using this platform more often considering almost everyone in west lothian is a member!? 408	An individual	1a. 409	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. 410	An individual	1a. 428	An individual	1a. Keep the young ones brains busy. Get them working. Contributing to the country which will help all round. Young and old. The OAP's should get a better deal. They have worked for this country for most of their adult life. Stop giving benefits out to the young. If they don't work they'll want. Make them work for their benefits. Afterall the majority in this country work to keep a roof over their heads. Stop tip toing around people. There should be somewhere for the young and old to go to socialise. Get a wee blether. 494	On behalf of a Group/Organisation	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Following consultation with a wide range of Third Sector organisations on West Lothian Council's "Transforming Your Council", the response of West Lothian Third Sector Interface (TSI), Voluntary Sector Gateway West Lothian (VSGWL) is as follows: This consultation should be about cuts in the budget and not about cuts to services. Is that the intention of West Lothian Council? The sector is concerned that some of the changes proposed will adversely affect many of the most vulnerable people in our communities, e.g., the raising of thresholds for support or the amalgamation of facilities and reductions in capacity. How will Council ensure that it protects our most vulnerable people and how can our sector assist with this?	No preference given	3. The respondent advised that they had no comment to make. 495	On behalf of a Group/Organisation	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	However in the spirit of resource maximisation the Sector believes that these matters should be on the table and open for transparent discussion. The sector is requesting this as we can see the potentially very damaging unintended consequences of cuts leading to unconsidered impacts on other budgets and crisis interventions as opposed to preventative measures. The Third Sector is a generator of income and net contributor to West Lothian's economy. Investment from West Lothian Council is often used to leverage in other monies, which is unique to the Third Sector and delivers added value to our public pound. This additional income for West Lothian's communities and its people is, however, often dependant on the stability of Council's core investment.	No preference given	3. 496	On behalf of a Group/Organisation	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Organisations will require time to assess the impact of these decisions and to make alternative plans or plan for redundancies or possible closure. This process must also assess the impact on other budgets and services, any potential unintended consequences and in law there is a requirement to look at the Human Rights impact on all "protected characteristics". The Third Sector is also prepared to explore sector-wide efficiencies. We will explore shared backroom services such as: Payroll services/Joint purchasing/HR/Insurance etc. We will also look at capacity building and skills in: Monitoring and evaluation Measuring value e.g., SROI In addition: We would request answers to the questions already submitted and attached again for your convenience. 516	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Both management and administrative support functions have been greatly reduced in recent times and the concern is that further reduction would be a false economy in terms of re-assigning workload/duties to remaining council officers. Fully supportive of service redesign that results in improved service delivery however, my opinion is that proposals should be measured in both the financial and wider implications (based on recent trends i.e. sickness absence, stress etc) prior to implementation.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Mgt & Admin Support	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The council is proposing to achieve efficiency savings through modernisation of services and reduction of duplication and will maximise opportunities to automate processes to reduce manual processes
517	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The council is proposing to achieve efficiency savings through modernisation of services and reduction of duplication and will maximise opportunities to automate processes to reduce manual processes
518	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. 519	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Bring back a Lothian regional council. 520	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	To be honest, it the Council has been sharpening its pencil for the past 10-years there should be very little to find savings. The one area is management, from the more senior positions. Allowing workers more autonomy could reduce the need for a hierarchical management structure. Why can't the head of finance not be head of HR etc.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Mgt & Admin Support	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The council continually reviews the tiers of management and span of control across all service levels against a target 5 x 5 structure. 524	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Managers who have the knowledge, skills, experience and training to use the technology will have to be in place if administration roles are going to be consolidated as managers heavily rely on administration to use the technology within service areas. The council is proposing to achieve efficiency savings through modernisation of services and reduction of duplication and will maximise opportunities to automate processes to reduce manual processes
525	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Reducing admin could be a false economy and increase inefficiency. With reduced admin , managers are likely to have to perform these tasks , at a higher unit cost than admin personnel , and probably not as efficiently as they are not necessarily trained in expediting admin forms and typing efficiently. Thus they have less time to perform management functions , and so to maintain current management effectiveness there may require to be an increase in management numbers.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Mgt & Admin Support	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	The council is proposing to achieve efficiency savings through modernisation of services and reduction of duplication and will maximise opportunities to automate processes to reduce manual processes
526	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Properly resourced internal functions which support the service to the public are vital. Cutting them is short sighted and will result in a poorer service to the public. If cuts have to be made, they should be confined to support teams for non-statutory functions of the council. Cuts to the support services of statutory functions, which will be likely to report to the Government and to be measured in WLAM, would be likely to have an impact on the council's measured performance indicators. 542	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Not all LA's provide admin support for Elected Members and yet WLC increased admin support staff by 2 FTE with the same number of Elected Members to be supported, why is this and why can a central team of staff not be made available to support all parties - staff shouldn't be recruited for political purposes.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Mgt & Admin Support	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The Council is required to provide efficient and effective support for elective members and has reviewed the staffing complement to ensure that it is as efficient as possible whilst still providing appropriate support.
543	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Good idea to reduce management staffing,	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Mgt & Admin Support	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The council continually reviews the tiers of management and span of control across all service levels against a target 5 x 5 structure. This ensures that the council continues to operate with an effective and efficient managerial structure.
544	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Management structures are already stretched with more and more being asked of fewer people. Quality and efficiency is bound to suffer if even more is asked of fewer staff.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Mgt & Admin Support	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	The council continually reviews the tiers of management and span of control across all service levels against a target 5 x 5 structure. This ensures that the council continues to operate with an effective and efficient managerial structure.
545	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	As a council employee I believe that management cuts should be made, there is too much middle management. Generally speaking most staff should be and understand the importance of carry out their roles in an effective, professional manner - maybe some staff training would be required to assist with this shift in staff/corporate attitude.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Mgt & Admin Support	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The council continually reviews the tiers of management and span of control across all service levels against a target 5 x 5 structure. This ensures that the council continues to operate with an effective and efficient managerial structure.
546	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I understand that administrative cuts may also be required and I would agree that staff in between admin and management levels should do most of their own admin given that huge savings must be made. However, within my service the paperwork/admin has become overwhelming over the last 12/18 months. It most definitely hinders myself & my colleagues in delivering the best quality customer service, and is such a waste of paper/printing etc. I fully understand that we rely on ESF funding, however I believe the way we operate could be much more streamlined. I consider this to be a priority as it causes bad customer service due to customers being asked the same questions over and over again, having to sign numerous forms, it also means the length of the initial appointment being 90 minutes, which is often only for a small amount of required assistance. It also causes staff stress, which can ultimately lead to ill health, time off work etc.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Mgt & Admin Support	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The council is proposing to achieve efficiency savings through modernisation of services and reduction of duplication and will maximise opportunities to automate processes to reduce manual processes
547	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Absolutely. WLC is top-heavy on Management, and good savings could still be made. This ensures that the council continues to operate with an effective and efficient managerial structure.
549	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Disagree with reduction in administrative support as it is not cost effective to pass the administrative support to those tasked to carry out statutory requirements. The Council needs to realise that not everybody has or wants access to online services.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Mgt & Admin Support	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	The Council recognises that not all customers will wish to engage in digital transactions and will ensure that information and services are available in formats to suit all customers, including access to face to face interaction where appropriate

552	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I think it is completely ridiculous reducing administrative support functions, these have been stretched enough and are at their limit. Staff can not be brought in where needed due to the cuts in turn causing a detrimental effect on the whole service the council is meant to provide. Admin support can not be cut. . . ! Having worked in admin all my life I do not feel that management understand the strains these cuts have on admin.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Mgt & Admin Support	2. 555	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. 557	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	With the right management, the number of managers could be reduced, while still maintaining the same standard of services. 563	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Consolidating management and admin support can be an ongoing process, and revisited when every vacancy occurs, and budgets are set. My comment would be that when consolidating management and admin, all external contracts that provide these functions and other services should be equally consider at the same time in the same way.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Mgt & Admin Support	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The council is proposing to achieve efficiency savings through modernisation of services and reduction of duplication and will maximise opportunities to automate processes to reduce manual processes

565	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Cutting internal functions is too simplistic. It might look good on a finance report but the reality is that changes have made staff more ineffective and inefficient because we have cut numbers but not looked at the amount of time staff are spending on work that offers little or no value and little positive outcome to customers. The council needs to really think about what efficiency and effectiveness really is.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Mgt & Admin Support	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	The council is proposing to achieve efficiency savings through modernisation of services and reduction of duplication and will maximise opportunities to automate processes to reduce manual processes
566	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Whilst we are cutting back office support, we're increasing work. As a manager I am happy with that but the council needs to review what you are asking a well paid manager to do. How effective are managers and staff if they are bogged down in admin, inputting data into PIs etc. Managers have to ensure that performance improves of course. However the processes, IT systems and procedures that go with all this are ineffective and inefficient.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Mgt & Admin Support	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The council is proposing to achieve efficiency savings through modernisation of services and reduction of duplication and will maximise opportunities to automate processes to reduce manual processes
567	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Managers should be spending more time thinking about strategy and implementing new ways to improve their services. Not spending a disproportionate amount of time of inefficient systems, time consuming forms and data input.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Mgt & Admin Support	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	The council is proposing to achieve efficiency savings through modernisation of services and reduction of duplication and will maximise opportunities to automate processes to reduce manual processes
568	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Cutting services is an easy hit but the council must ensure that the existing procedures, systems and ways of working are truly modernised. Otherwise the council is going to become more and more bogged down in red tape and reports. For example, if anyone has spent time trying to record and monitor sickness absence recently they will see a prime example of a very ineffective and inefficient system, filled with forms and policies and repetition. We need to look at cutting out what is not really important and focus on ways to make our staff more efficient.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Mgt & Admin Support	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The council is proposing to achieve efficiency savings through modernisation of services and reduction of duplication and will maximise opportunities to automate processes to reduce manual processes
569	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Can't the council ask staff what they think is worthwhile, relevant and useful to them? Can't we do some kind of internal analysis on what works, what doesn't what needs to be improved? We cannot keep doing things the same way with less resource.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Mgt & Admin Support	4. The council is already doing this.	Staff are encouraged to make suggestions and recommendations on service improvement. In addition, staff are being encouraged to respond to this consultation.
570	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I agree with the proposals outlined in bulletin magazine. You should send this as an email to save money further. I think you should adopt a top down approach, where people that get paid the most should receive the most amount of scrutiny. For example, no execs should be paid over 100k.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Mgt & Admin Support	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The council is subject to national pay bargaining, and terms and conditions and the salary scales for officers are determined nationally
571	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	This appears to be job losses. When administrative support functions are lost then other staff have to carry out these duties i.e. PECOS, cheques, scanning etc. and this is not a good use of time for them. It is a false economy.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Mgt & Admin Support	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	The council is proposing to achieve efficiency savings through modernisation of services and reduction of duplication and will maximise opportunities to automate processes to reduce manual processes
572	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Many services rely heavily on PAs, admin support ect - there is no reason staff cannot do these jobs themselves.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Mgt & Admin Support	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The council is proposing to achieve efficiency savings through modernisation of services and reduction of duplication and will maximise opportunities to automate processes to reduce manual processes
573	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Any reduction of administrative support should be implemented with caution and recognition of the opportunity cost that relates to more senior staff being wholly responsible for the administrative arrangements required to support their daily duties.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Mgt & Admin Support	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The council is proposing to achieve efficiency savings through modernisation of services and reduction of duplication and will maximise opportunities to automate processes to reduce manual processes
574	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	1. Stop wasting money on corporate re-branding.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Mgt & Admin Support	7. The respondent's comment was either not relevant to the question, inappropriate and/or contained personal and sensitive information.	The council did not incur any expenditure in developing the corporate brand,. This work was undertaken internally. The new brand shall be rolled out on a phased basis and will be applied when equipment or processes are being changed/reviewed.

603	An individual	1a. 604	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Whilst fine in principle it is known that an over-reduction in management can mean there is no capacity to either develop or innovate services. Additionally pressure on managers may have both a personal and operational impact. Whilst reduction in management may always seem an easy way to achieve savings it can often have an unforeseen, and often significantly detrimental, effect on the operation of services.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Mgt & Admin Support	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The council continually reviews the tiers of management and span of control across all service levels against a target 5 x 5 structure. This ensures that the council continues to operate with an effective and efficient managerial structure.
605	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I agree you would save a lot by cutting down in Managers and Middle staff as there are about as many gaffers as there are the working force and we have been cut to the minimum as it is and we are being worked to the limits	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Mgt & Admin Support	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The council continually reviews the tiers of management and span of control across all service levels against a target 5 x 5 structure. This ensures that the council continues to operate with an effective and efficient managerial structure.
606	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	WLC is top heavy on management & there is a lack of frontline staff. Cutting management would produce greater savings. This ensures that the council continues to operate with an effective and efficient managerial structure.
607	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I agree that redesigning services could improve efficiencies however I also think that reducing administrative support only adds additional pressure to workers. Especially client facing workers should always have admin support to assist them with their workload - administrators can take a lot less time to complete administrative tasks leaving the workers to undertake more client work. Also admin support is cheaper and when used appropriately would save the council money in the long run. An admin worker earning approx. £20,000 benefits more people than a manager on £40,000.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Mgt & Admin Support	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver a more effective and cost effective service through the centralisation of generic tasks with the retention of specialist provision within service. This model still allows the opportunity for staff to engage with council officers on a face to face basis at the most effective and convenient level.
608	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Many areas within the council is still organised in an old fashioned, top heavy pyramid structure that leaves workers with little room for taking initiative within their domains and information being lost within difficult communication structures within the tiers of management. A flatter structure in other parts of Europe, such as Scandinavia, has proven to be more cost effective as taking more responsibility for outcomes increases the effectiveness of the workforce. 609	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	It sounds like the council are employing too many people in these departments and are duplicating work. If this can be streamlined (and by that I mean cutting staff numbers) then it should be done.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Mgt & Admin Support	1. 612	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	There is too many managers including middle management which was a tier created in previous years. In Residential Child Care there should be one overall manager for the houses to ensure consistency and also more importantly the best for each house is at the forefront. At present each house worries only about themselves and do not consider each house and the impact on all but instead just their own. The manager should also be running the houses without being placed in one particular house all day, every day. They should be developing the service and ensuring the best for all houses. 614	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Reducing bureaucracy has to be a top priority. This needs to be done in a meaningful way. Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver a more effective and cost effective service through the centralisation of generic tasks with the retention of specialist provision within services.
622	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Very vague - what is actually proposed? More rigorous management of staff to ensure they are doing the best job they can (reviewing performance annually and not accepting poor performance) would render significant benefits. The council has a number of systems and processes in place which support managers to monitor performance and efficiency.
623	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Although the consolidation of management and admin support functions may be off some cost saving, I believe that this would only be viable through services that overlap at present. If for instance the support function for HR or payroll is going to be moved to line managers, this would directly impact on the line managers being unable to carry out their own duties particularly within operational and building services who have a larger number of employees than other services.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Mgt & Admin Support	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver a more effective and cost efficient service through the centralisation of generic tasks, use of technology and retention of specialist provision within services.
624	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. 625	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I think that reducing management and administrative support can be a short sighted saving. It puts increased pressure/stress on those in work as they are having to complete tasks outwith their training, experience and understanding. This reduces the time they spend on the job which they are trained/qualified to do which lessens their impact in their area of expertise. They also take longer than appropriately qualified/experienced staff to complete administrative/managerial jobs. there is no 'give' in the system as staffing is so tight that if a member of staff is absent it has greater impact. 637	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Bringing in extra staff when we have reductions in staff numbers on the officers side is a bit "do as I say not do as I do". 638	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	The council's internal support services are an easy target for cuts and 'reorganisation'. Administrative support for the council's statutory functions is a vital part of the council's service to the public. Cuts which reduce the effectiveness of these services are short-sighted and harmful, as they invariably pass some support functions on to professional staff who deliver the services, taking up their time and reducing their effectiveness. It might not be immediately apparent, but cuts to support services can have a detrimental impact on performance.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Mgt & Admin Support	2. This should be a central admin function managed by one person.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Mgt & Admin Support	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The Council is required to provide efficient and effective support for elective members and has reviewed the staffing complement to ensure that it is as efficient as possible whilst still providing appropriate support.
660	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	In previous savings you already reduced admin meaning that higher paid people had to do admin along with their own work. This is not cost effective. Pay people the correct rate for the jobs which need done. Remove tasks that are 'add on' or 'created posts' such as the plethora of performance officers and recently created performance team - they add nothing to front line delivery. Make managers responsible for performance.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Mgt & Admin Support	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver a more effective and cost efficient service through the centralisation of generic tasks, use of technology and retention of specialist provision within services.

This ensures that the council continues to operate with an effective and efficient managerial structure.
662	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Admin staff have already been reduced and this does not save much money given their salaries. I feel it would be better to cut some Managers to make more savings. In areas such as Social Policy, the Admin staff are all very busy with lots of work to do. Further cuts would be detrimental to the services provided.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Mgt & Admin Support	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The council continually reviews the tiers of management and span of control across all service levels against a target 5 x 5 structure. This ensures that the council continues to operate with an effective and efficient managerial structure.
663	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Given that admin and support staff have already been significantly trimmed in recent years, I do not see how this can be further achieved without having a huge impact on remaining staff. As a teacher my role is becoming increasingly administrative due to the fact that there is so little admin support, leaving me less and less time to focus on quality teaching.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Mgt & Admin Support	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver a more effective and cost efficient service through the centralisation of generic tasks, use of technology and retention of specialist provision within services.
664	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Reducing management and administrative support functions is risky as the remaining people in these posts may be asked to do more than is possible to cover for the reduction in FTE therefore needs to have a well thought through plan. 672	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I think there would be value in looking at the management structure from top to bottom, there should be no reduction to frontline service staff. However, it feels like there are too many managers on pay grades way above the frontline staff pay grades and a total imbalance on the salaries for managers. 673	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I do not think that we need as many levels on management as the council has. Cut out some management to save money. Also reducing the chief executive Salary. We do not need all these people at the top of the tree. Front line services should not be reduced or cut back any further as the public like and need front line services.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Mgt & Admin Support	1. 674	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Do we need all 3 chief execs - and does the chief exec really need to earn over £100k a year???? The middle management needs to be looked at - there are far too many middle managers - too many layers in WLC. The whole structure needs to be looked at. Front line services should not be reduced or cut back any further. Are there jobs that are overlapping each other.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Mgt & Admin Support	1. 675	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	When considering new processes please consider the workloads of those that may be taking on new tasks and responsibilities. If their role is just expanding more what will the impact be on their well-being. Maximising technology is ideal, when it is tried and tested and outcomes are quantifiable and proven. Can WLC assure us there will be no investment in bespoke computer systems of any sort. Lengthening contracts, thereby reducing the administrative burden of re-tendering for all involved will achieve savings.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Mgt & Admin Support	1. 678	No Response	1a. 679	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	There should be a clear policy of "thinning out" from the top of the pyramid down regarding staffing levels. 680	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Care needs to be taken when reducing the administration support functions as increasing workloads will result in poor efficiency, greater stress and employee absenteeism and a higher turnover of staff amongst other things, which can only impact negatively on the service and customers	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Mgt & Admin Support	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal. 681	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Don't you think we are already working with minimal Admin staff, who is going to complete the work with less staff available? Highly likely remaining staff will be off work with stress related illness. Currently if part time staff aren't in work, another staff member is on holiday and one calls sick into work, the work simply does not get completed within allocated timescale. 684	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	You already employ a lean management structure, there are no opportunities in the organisation for development, as a result good staff leave. It is understandable that you see admin as an area to be consolidated, however you must be mindful of staff such as "technical clerks" who do specialised jobs although they may be on an administration wage, they carry out specialist work. You must be mindful of your statutory responsibilities.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Mgt & Admin Support	2. 687	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	The reduction of administrative support functions seems to be a false economy as their function will have to be undertaken by staff who should be concentrating on their roles e.g. social workers, teachers, and IT professionals. It would be better to ensure that the admin staff are capable of supporting the Council departments by being qualified to meet the technological challenges of modern organisational life. Sincerely hope that "partner organisations" does not mean external suppliers who inevitably charge more for doing less.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Mgt & Admin Support	2. 689	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	there is no reason I can see why departments do not share management systems such as line management- as long as the line management personnel have enough time to properly manage their teams. 693	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Totally agree with looking into function which are not statutory to see if there are any savings to be made there. Why an assumption was made that by reducing admin support staff and reducing management efficiency and effectiveness can be made? Should you not look into the structure to see how can you re design the teams first, before you make a decision that admin staff must go? You should remember that someone will still need to do the job unless you want to pay professional officers and way much higher grades than admin officers for doing more admin work - where is the saving in that? Look into your processes to see who does what and stop people from doing things they should not be doing. 696	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. 720	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	The amount of management and administrative support functions has already been reduced in previous years. 727	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I do not think reducing management levels will benefit service integrations. Integration and redesign of services should see managers within different professions team working to provide safe and efficient services for members of West Lothian Council. Managers are there to provide leadership and encouragement within a team and this is something that should remain. To reduce overall expenditure I think the Council should consider cutting administration costs. Employees should be encouraged to go "paper light"	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Mgt & Admin Support	2. 728	An individual	1a. 729	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	This could be a false economy - We need to be very careful that reducing admin support does not end up costing more to do a job task eg. having professional staff paid on higher rates to answer queries/ direct people and calls/input info which could be done by staff on admin grades. Perhaps 2 experienced practitioners plus admin support could cover same work load as 3 Practitioners less experienced and limited admin support. 730	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. 732	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Do we need all 3 chief execs - and does the chief exec really need to earn over £100k a year???? The middle management needs to be looked at - there are far too many middle managers within WLC - too many layers in WLC. The whole structure needs to be looked at. Front line services should not be reduced or cut back any further. Are there jobs that are overlapping each other.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Mgt & Admin Support	1. 733	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	There has already been an admin overhaul, and it did not meet the needs of the services. taking admin away from service areas and into a pool is not the answer. 742	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Glasgow city council moved to 'tomorrows office' cutting down on the need for paper saving money, streamlining services and cutting down on the huge salaries up the top of the council, who rarely see any impact, would have a huge impact on the savings required. 743	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. 749	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	This isn't very clear, including what constitutes statutory "requirements". The council should look to promote full digitisation of council facilities, removing paper-based communication, and look to work with neighbouring local authorities in sharing services and systems. Planning advertisements (which in fact fail to meet visual accessibility guidelines) should be removed from local printed newspapers and shared online using web pages which already exist.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Mgt & Admin Support	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The council has introduced measures to reduce the production and publication of paper documents through the greater use of electronic documents and related systems. The introduction of print management software will allow managers to assess what is being printed with a view to reduction in repeat prints. The council has an existing shared service agreement with South Lanarkshire Council for a shared IT data centre and will continue to develop opportunities for further shared service arrangements with other public bodies. The council is also progressing with West Lothian College the provision of shared services opportunities across a range of service areas.
750	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Consolidation and reduction can only produce results to a certain extent. If this is done too much then the effect is the opposite in that there is not sufficient staff/resources to be able to deliver services that we are required to do.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Mgt & Admin Support	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver a more effective and cost efficient service through the centralisation of generic tasks, use of technology and retention of specialist provision within services.
751	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	The use of technologies and modernisation will improve efficiency but this will only be able to happen through cross department communication, to share ideas and knowledge and experience. Systems which are shown to be ineffective or poor performing should be scrapped and new ones brought in to replace them. Where there are better alternatives, at a slightly higher cost, these should not be ruled out purely on the issue of cost analysis as the benefits (financial and otherwise) may in the longer term far outweigh the short term cost savings.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Mgt & Admin Support	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The council has made significant investment in the IT infrastructure and will continue to allocate appropriate resources to introduce new technology where appropriate. The council's ICT Strategy seeks to deliver change in line with advances in technology and changes in council priorities, whilst still having a clear framework within which to operate.

754	On behalf of a Group/Organisation	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Mgt & Admin Support	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The council will consult with staff and trade unions on proposals which will result in changes to staffing structures and will provide support and information to staff on opportunities for redeployment and training.
755	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	The council's commitment to avoiding redundancies is a positive objective, especially in light of the intention to increase employment, as a result re-tasking of staff is essential however re-tasking requires re-training in addition to re-location.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Mgt & Admin Support	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The council has been able to delivery significant budget reductions in the last 10 years without the requirement for compulsory redundancies. The scale of the further reductions required over the next five years will be challenging and the council will seek to use the existing range of workforce management and organisational change policies to deliver the required reductions in staffing numbers.

760	An individual	1a. 763	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I may be wrong to assume/expect that The Council management teams constantly examine, redesign, implement and review all their processes. If this is the situation, wins are going to be hard to get. If not, it is a great disappointment and the sooner they get on with it the better. Efficiencies gained will mean there will be no impact on the functioning of management and administrative support. There may be a reduction in staff however. But, if the "quick and dirty" solution is to cut management and administrative support (reduction in staff) I imagine this will effect those requiring the services of council officers in say, housing, building control social work, for example. 789	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. 815	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Reducing administrative support functions can have an adverse effect on financial savings as managers may be required to carry out their own administrative duties, so reducing the amount of time they are available to carryout their substantive functions. This may impact negatively on services if not carefully planned - workload assessment and risk assessment would need to be looked at very carefully. Putting more pressure on already stretched staff may impact on their own health, therefore the ability to carry out their duties. Again this needs to be carefully considered in making changes to services.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Mgt & Admin Support	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal. 816	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Can you explain what you mean by "consolidating and reducing management and administrative support functions"? Has this not been ongoing through various processes over the years and still is, so what further is being proposed? Do you consider this sustainable considering the strain reduced HR and admin support has already placed on services and their staff? There is a distinct feeling among staff that the Council does not understand its own services very well, what is actually required to get from input to output, whilst ensuring a high standard of service to customers.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Mgt & Admin Support	3. The respondent advised that they had no comment to make. 819	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Care needs taken with reducing admin support. This often results in the same job being done at a higher pay grade. 820	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I feel I need more information on what this is likely to look like before I can comment. Centralizing admin support across different service areas, where possible, might be beneficial. I feel centralising/consolidating management might be trickier as there are a number of specialized support areas across West Lothian and so I imagine it would be difficult to have fewer managers managing larger areas, as well as putting more pressure on staff to do more work for the same salary.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Mgt & Admin Support	3. The respondent advised that they had no comment to make. 824	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Modernisation is a positive process and must be pursued if the Council is to operate in an effective and efficient way in the modern business world. It is critical that the Council does not just reduce management and administrative functions without fully considering the role and function of managers and the support staff who support them in the delivery of their objectives. It is easy to reduce numbers if all that happens is a financial exercise identifying cost reduction but the impact on the Council of not ensuring that the appropriate management structure then remains in place will be significant particularly if the overall aim is to reduce the number of managers and/or to increase their role. It is also therefore critical that the right managers remain in roles or are appointed to roles during any transformation process. There must also be a clear vision of what will be required of managers in the transformed Council. Managers cannot function without appropriate support staff, nor can their services and it is therefore critical that a realistic view is taken of the actual support required currently and in the future to ensure that services and all those who are charged with delivering them have access to the right skill set and staff to support them. 825	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I work within a small team in Corporate Services and believe our role is essential. I am all for more control. I would be concerned if there was any further cuts in the service as there is a staffing shortage at the moment. I would also be concerned if management was consolidated and integrated as each manager specialises in a specific area.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Mgt & Admin Support	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver a more effective and cost effective service through the centralisation of generic tasks, use of technology and retention of specialist provision within service.
826	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Reductions in management, and increased efficiency and accountability needs to be factored into these changes. 827	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	balance needs to be that support staff are not reduced too much as this means that frontline staff are then left to carry out these roles in turn being removed from frontline. As this was the case my opinion in the recent admin staff review.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Mgt & Admin Support	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver a more effective and cost effective service through the centralisation of generic tasks, use of technology and retention of specialist provision within service.
828	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	TYC proposals are disproportionately aimed at customer-facing, front line staff who work with and deliver services to the citizens of West Lothian. The efficiency savings proposed to the central support services is too small and should be increased in order to safeguard vital public services which are often focussed on the most deprived communities and vulnerable people. This budget reduction should take the form of a significant headcount reduction rather than service redesign and increased technology.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Mgt & Admin Support	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal. 831	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Consolidation and reduction of management should be done to an extent. Care should be taken to ensure that this is not reduced to the point where services are not able to be provided adequately. Reductions to management and admin functions should only be taken when a count has been taken of the impact that these reductions will have on the existing workforce and if this will create pressures on resources. Staff have to have the staff and resources to be able to deliver their services.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Mgt & Admin Support	1. 832	No Response	1a. 838	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Any measure which can make savings in spending has to be given serious consideration. I feel that the Council could make saving by reducing managers and those providing administrative support functions, however there is a fine line between making savings from restructuring and making savings by eradicating valuable services. Without more detail on which services and sectors would be affected it is hard to give a definitive answer.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Mgt & Admin Support	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The council continually reviews the tiers of management and span of control across all service levels against a target 5 x 5 structure. 842	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Reducing management and admin support is all very well but not if it impairs the ability of front line staff to deliver services.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Mgt & Admin Support	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal. 845	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	"This would include consolidating and reducing management & administrative support" - In 2010 a similar exercise was carried out and the Civic Centre Admin Team was formed to consolidate administrative support. Over the years since then, many clerical/administrative staff have been employed in different departments and this totally defeated the purpose of the Civic Centre Admin Team. Then in 2016 the "specialist" Social Policy Admin Team was formed. Surely, rather than setting up a second admin team, it would have made more sense for team to amalgamate their "specialist" skills with the Civic Centre Admin Team. This would have reduced the costs of managers, team leaders, administrative and clerical staff.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Mgt & Admin Support	6. This is a positive suggestion. 866	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	If you look at Borders Council, they have outsourced their IT Services to an external company due to lack of demand for public sector employment for IT. Due to this, it actually costs Borders more money to outsource than it did to keep it internally managed. There is a similar situation at Edinburgh Council. Their IT Services are outsourced but they now employ almost the same number as they did when they were strictly internal in order to 'manage' the external IT organisation. 868	No Response	1a. 870	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	If it is proposed to centralize functions, this is not always efficient use of resources although on paper it may seem to be a good idea. I am not aware of other instances of ce ntralisation having this same effect but I suspect that there are some.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Partners	2. 875	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I suspect there are many external services provided that have been established practice for a long time and the efficiency and value of these services has not been audited and reviewed in the same way internal functions are. The agreements have been setup and simply allowed to run. We will likely have ongoing agreements with external organisations that have very inefficient practices, we frequently have quality issues, and many will consider the council a soft touch for guaranteed income with little scrutiny.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Partners	4. The council is already doing this.	The Council employs competitive tendering processes to ensure that all contracts are procured in line with relevant legislation and achieve best value for money. The amount of "extra" work that is delivered is enormous and I am sure that if someone actually took the time to analyse this you would see it.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Partners	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	The Council will continue to work with third party providers to deliver services to customers where this is the most cost efficient model and where this can deliver the most effective service delivery model for customers.
895	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Time to combine with Falkirk Council and probably Stirling too	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Partners	8. The Local Government etc. (Scotland) Act 1994 established the local government areas for the administration of local government in Scotland.
896	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Do not get involved with consultants or consultant companies. The council should have enough talented and experienced people to do this internally.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Partners	5b. It is proposed that this suggestion is not taken forward because it is likely that the costs of this proposal would outweigh the benefit.	The council will continue to use internal services to deliver services. The Council engages external contractors where required for specialist works. This approach will continue to ensure best value use of resources available within the council.
897	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. 898	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Partners could include other local authorities.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Partners	4. The council is already doing this.	The council has an existing shared service agreement with South Lanarkshire Council for a shared IT data centre and will continue to develop opportunities for further shared service arrangements with other public bodies. The council is also progressing with West Lothian College the provision of shared services opportunities across a range of service areas.
899	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	There should be integration with other local authorities to provide services. 900	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Working with partner organisations suitably equipped for the purpose may help, as long as cost is not the only driver. 904	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Why should the council give work to partner organisations. All work should be in house, keeping council employees in jobs. There might be a short time saving but will there be savings in the long term.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Partners	2. 911	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	My experience of "partner organisations" is confusion. Why is it better to subcontract? If the functions subcontracted are cheaper than the council employees costs then I worry the quality of subcontracted work is less. Maybe the cost overheads of council employees need to be trimmed.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Partners	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	The council will continue to use internal services to deliver services. The Council engages external contractors where required for specialist works. 912	An individual	1a. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The council will continue to use internal services to deliver services. The Council engages external contractors where required for specialist works. This approach will continue to ensure best value use of resources available within the council.
913	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I would want some details on what "changes to how the council works with partner organisations" actually means.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Partners	3. The respondent advised that they had no comment to make.	At this stage, detailed budget reduction measures have not been developed, therefore there is no specific information on how the savings will be achieved and the timescales for delivery. This will become clearer as the measures progress following the consultation process and approval of the council's budget strategy.
914	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	More collaborative working within departments and possibly other agencies could maybe support this eg sharing of premises, equipment etc helping each department, organisation and saving costs.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Partners	4. The council is already doing this.	The council has an existing shared service agreement with South Lanarkshire Council for a shared IT data centre and will continue to develop opportunities for further shared service arrangements with other public bodies. 915	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	There is no indication here as to what form the changes to how the council works with partner organisations - does this mean a reduction in, for example, transport for people to hospital? Cannot comment without knowing what this means. 'Improvement' does not describe what is really happening - cuts and what those cuts are going to be.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Partners	3. The respondent advised that they had no comment to make.	Thank you for your response. Your comment has been noted

Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Partners	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal. This approach will continue to ensure best value use of resources available within the council.
918	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Partners	5b. It is proposed that this suggestion is not taken forward because it is likely that the costs of this proposal would outweigh the benefit.	The council will use internal Services where possible, with the use of external contractors where required for specialist works. This approach will continue to ensure best value use of resources available within the council.
919	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I think there is always room for improvement but we need to also protect jobs. Work with partner agencies can always be improved and value for money gained. However we also need to protect quality or else this has knock on problems elsewhere for service users and is likely to be less cost effective in the long run. Getting quality services will reduce problems give value for money and will provide effective services reducing waiting lists and improving customer experience. I hope intergration will allow us to use joint budgets more cost effectively. The Council can no longer be expected in my opinion be expected to provide the level of services previously expected when there are financial constraints. Perhaps the joint board should be looking at how savings could be made in both services to ensure the most vulnerable continue to be supported and job losses shared.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Partners	6. This is a positive suggestion. Officers will consider how this could be developed.	The council has an existing shared service agreement with South Lanarkshire Council for a shared IT data centre and will continue to develop opportunities for further shared service arrangements with other public bodies. 920	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Other Councils have gone down the line of shared services but often the reality is not up to the hype & the savings not forthcoming as you lose a lot of local information that can then avoid issues and rework. Whilst shared services is worth looking into, time should be spent in research & analysis beyond the figures to find out if it is working on the ground & saving money.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Partners	6. This is a positive suggestion. Officers will consider how this could be developed.	The council has an existing shared service agreement with South Lanarkshire Council for a shared IT data centre and will continue to develop opportunities for further shared service arrangements with other public bodies. 921	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Partner organisations cannot be expected to start delivering services that the Council stops delivering. Issues with capacity, skills, experiences and agenda match for partner organisations.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Partners	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver a more effective and cost effective service through the centralisation of generic tasks, use of technology and retention of specialist provision within service.
922	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver a more effective and cost effective service through the centralisation of generic tasks, use of technology and retention of specialist provision within service.
924	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I want the Council to be responsible for services and NOT private companies. West Lothian is a good Council and must remain that way. Shocking to think this would be considered.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Partners	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	It is not council policy to outsource service functions. 925	An individual	1a. It is proposed that this suggestion is not taken forward because the council is required by law to deliver this work.	The council engages with third parties to deliver services where it is more cost effective to do so or where there is an element of expertise. The council is contractually obliged to pay for those services. The council regularly reviews the performance of third party suppliers to ensure that they continue to deliver services which meet the needs of customers.

928	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I think that there are still efficiencies to be made with technology resources and integration.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Systems	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The council is proposing to achieve efficiency savings through modernisation of services and reduction of duplication and will maximise opportunities to automate processes to reduce manual processes
929	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Systems	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal. The council has an existing shared service agreement with South Lanarkshire Council for a shared IT data centre and will continue to develop opportunities for further shared service arrangements with other public bodies. 935	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Systems	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The Council recognises that not all customers will wish to engage in digital transactions and will ensure that information and services are available in formats to suit all customers, including access to face to face interaction where appropriate
936	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	however there is also a point when technology cannot manage all the problems under these areas. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The Council recognises that not all customers will wish to engage in digital transactions and will ensure that information and services are available in formats to suit all customers, including access to face to face interaction where appropriate
937	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	One of the first things I would do for technology is to invest in a decent document assembly system. Document assembly systems gather important information which can easily be shared between departments and areas reducing the possibility of mistakes. How it works is that each department enters any relevant information they have gathered on a client - eg name, address, NI number etc, then with the use of well built templates any letters are merged with the relevant data. so, if, for instance, a job seeker whose information is in the system for West Lothian Connected, is offered post in the council much of the information is already stored on the system and HR need only add information about the employee that is not there. That information, in turn, becomes available in the future should the staff member retire and require the assistance of social policy. Good document assembly systems will integrate with most databases.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Systems	4. The council is already doing this.	The Council already has an Electronic Document and Records Management system and will be implementing a new system which offers increased automation in November 2017
938	An individual	1a. 941	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I think it is important to recognise that streamlining these areas may well impact on the work load of others in the service. Further use of technology will also require additional training for staff.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Systems	2. The council is proposing to achieve efficiency savings through modernisation of services and reduction of duplication and will maximise opportunities to automate processes to reduce manual processes
942	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	totally agree with this proposal as long as there continues to be investment in technology e.g. more online applications, better systems for monitoring accounts. City of Edinburgh Council you can see your payments for rent or council tax, letter etc and you have an online account setup. West Lothian is poor in this respect. Believe less managers and introduction of more lower graded staff would assist.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Systems	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal. 943	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	start using IT more for meetings (I can do multi person type Skype calls using a certain app on my pc) these should be used by the council to stop people having to constantly leave offices to travel to another office for a meeting that may only last an hour.....more time in the office, less time travelling between meetings, saving the environment etc.....its the 21st century, we need to do more.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Systems	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	All of the council's main office buildings in the main towns and villages in West Lothian have facilities for mobile and flexible working which can be booked through the room booking system. In addition, staff who undertake mobile and flexible working have access to IT technology to facilitate this, including remotely accessing meetings.

945	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal. 946	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. There are still inefficient processes that could be streamlined by better use of technology and removing obstructions.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Systems	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Staff at all levels across the council are encouraged to engage in the consultation and development of budget proposals
947	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	While it could mean the loss of some jobs more streamlined services that don't overlap and better use of technology is one of the ways forward	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Systems	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver a more effective and cost effective service through the centralisation of generic tasks with the retention of specialist provision within service. This model still allows the opportunity for staff to engage with council officers on a face to face basis at the most effective and convenient level.
948	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Systems	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The Council's IT Strategy encourages re-use of applications where possible and appropriate. The council is reviewing opportunities for the rationalisation and integration of IT systems.
954	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Modernisation and use of technology are the way forward however, employees must receive the appropriate training and refresher training to ensure the systems and procedures work as intended. Managers must manage, if they don't - disciplinary action must be taken by senior management team (and CEO)	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Systems	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The Council will continue to invest in training to provide staff with the skills and knowledge to use the technology which they are provided with and to deliver efficient council services.
955	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	We need to eradicate the attitude of â€seeing ourselves alrightâ€™ while the system is failing to do what it is paid to do.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Systems	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver an more effective and cost effective service through the centralisation of generic tasks with the retention of specialist provision within service. This model still allows the opportunity for staff to engage with council officers on a face to face basis at the most effective and convenient level.
956	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Use more open source software so that you don't need to have multiple expensive licences.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Systems	6. This is a positive suggestion. Officers will consider how this could be developed.	The Council will consider opportunities to use open source software, where this complies with security requirements under the Public Service Network.

The council is proposing to achieve efficiency savings through modernisation of services and reduction of duplication.
960	No Response	1a. 963	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Staff at west Lothian council use far too many different systems such as Open Housing, SWIFT, AIS, Medidio, Objective etc, if there was 1 system that everybody used to access everything and stck with the system, as the council keep implementing new systems and then then stop after the roll out has not been completed. This wastes far too much money on the systems & training staff.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Systems	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The Council's IT Strategy encourages re-use of applications where possible and appropriate. The council is reviewing opportunities for the rationalisation and integration of IT systems.

965	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	The council is not making the most use out of the technology they have and some services could be delivered online which may reduce the need for staff that could be used in services that are struggling. Some services seem to be understaffed and some services are overstaffed for what they actually do. This needs to change.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Systems	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The Council is introducing more online services and will fully utilise the functionality available through the website to direct customers to digitally engage with the council. The Council constantly reviews the staffing structures in services to ensure that they are efficient and can deliver effective council services.
966	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Nowhere near enough people use Covalent. This is a fantastic system that I would be lost without and could cut down the amount of phone calls needed and double backing to decide if you did something and when. It's all recorded on Covalent if used properly and makes working life so easy. It also makes working between services easy too. Why are council staff not told they must use Covalent? Don't understand why we pay for a system that very few use.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Systems	4. The council is already doing this.	The council's performance management system is in use across all council services .
967	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. 970	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	This sounds like more council jobs for the axe and automation. Which is fine If the redesign is going to improve to the benefit of the people who are up to date with technology. What about our elders that are not. Especially the ones without family. It is frustrating enough when they can't get through to enquire about a subject.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Systems	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The council acknowledges that not everyone is able to view information online and that face to face contact is still of value to some internal and external customers.

972	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Continuous improvement should always be researched and system should always be improved. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The council has a number of systems and processes in place which are essential to enable the council to monitor and report service performance and efficiency.
973	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	It makes sense to continually redesign systems and modernise them which is fine as long as the technology used is sufficient to deliver the service easier. To give an example, the iPay system that I use to pay my children's school meals is a good idea. However, it is clunky and slow compared with other payment systems online. I am also paying more for items because of the payment percentage that iPay charges per transaction whereas if I paid in cash to the school I wouldn't have this charge - technology in this instance is more expensive to the consumer as well as being frustrating in its handling. If West Lothian are to use technology more then they must pay the initial cost of setting up appropriate systems to cope.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Systems	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver an more effective and cost effective service through the centralisation of generic tasks and use of technology with the retention of specialist provision within service. The council does not propose to further outsource services as a rule as this is not considered to deliver best value for the customer.
975	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	This should include continuing to generate savings in systems costs.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Systems	1. 976	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	The system that is in place PECOS, is almost certainly a loss of revenue for wlc, obtaining the same equipment, in some cases better equipment through self sourcing could save millions.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Systems	4. The council is already doing this.	West Lothian Council has to comply with national and EU legislation and competitive methods are employed. All appropriate suppliers can bid and contracts are tendered taking into consideration price, quality and total cost for all products contained within the contract. It is always possible to identify what seems a better price but staff costs in sourcing, ordering and administration of other suppliers may negate any perceived saving. The system used by the council for ordering goods is PECOS.
977	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	present systems are not fit for purpose and we are 20 years behind the private sector on efficient IT. IT platforms that can provide the reports and stats quicker would minimize the need for countless desk job roles and thus protect the staff providing the front line services. 986	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I fully agree with this proposal, though speaking as a teacher, I believe you could go further than this. Why not decentralise IT services? The vast majority of your secondary schools have at least one fully qualified member of staff in the Computing Science department, as well as at least one full-time member of on-site technical staff. Surely these two groups of people are capable of managing the network and storage infrastructure in their own buildings without needing any additional input from a higher level of management? This could reduce staffing costs (reduced level of central IT support required), equipment costs (replacement items could come directly from school budgets, with the council still retaining control over the network infrastructure) and streamline the entire process (the current system dictates that I contact our on-site tech, who contacts his boss, who may have to contact someone else, they approve the repair, then the repair is carried out - in most cases, the first and last steps would be more than sufficient!) There are also several ongoing costs within schools that could be better spent elsewhere, however, I have not included these as I am unsure if they are paid for out of the individual school budget or out of the central council budget. 997	An individual	1a. 1007	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	The technology we have at present is far from the best despite it being relatively new and still under integration. The tools provided from IT perspective are extremely poor comparable to other authorities and other businesses who we are benchmarking against. Many of the systems are being introduced hastily by the wrong people without a thorough thought process and knowledge to ensure staff get what they need. If this continues it makes it even more difficult for staff to do their job. Therefore adding to the "waste" - I agree there is room for improvement and empowerment but not without the correct investment and tools to do the job	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Systems	1. 1008	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I think improving our use of technology is positive and can help make the service more accessible to West Lothian. There are probably some roles that technology can do more efficiently or quickly than people. However, I don't think that we should be replacing people with technology just because we can. The long term implications need to be considered (e.g. cost of training people in using the technology, cost of the technology, what happens when it breaks etc) as no technology can replace the benefits of human interaction. 1010	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. 1014	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. 1066	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	The Council needs to continue to improve communication with residents. Bulletin needs to be kept and more focus on engaging on social media. The video explaining the need for cuts was good, more efforts like this to ensure residents are informed about the inevitable cuts before they happen.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Systems	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The Council will continue to utilise all methods of communication to deliver key messages to staff and customers.
1067	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. 1070	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Money has been spent on systems in the past and most recent past and these are not always for the better. The Council has made significant investment in the IT infrastructure and will continue to allocate appropriate resources to introduce new technology where appropriate. 1071	On behalf of a Group/Organisation	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	We do believe that savings can be made by embracing new technology, and that service redesign can bring efficiency savings by reducing duplication, streamlining systems and bureaucracy. Careful consideration of the potential savings and real costs involved in the integration of services both in time and finance. There have been many cases both nationally and some locally where the costs and timescales involved in developing and implementing integrated IT systems alone have went well beyond timescales and expected costs. The Council has made significant investment in the IT infrastructure and will continue to allocate appropriate resources to introduce new technology where appropriate. 1072	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Modernisation is good so long as it is appropriate, There are numerous examples of poorly designed and procured IT systems which are supposed to make things easier / better but in fact have achieved the opposite eg NHS Scotland, Scottish Govt Rural Payments system. If the Council is to redesign services and modernise it needs to ensure that the new systems actually work.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Systems	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal. 1073	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Greater use of technology could reduce the number of short / local trips made by staff.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Systems	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	All of the council's main office buildings in the main towns and villages in West Lothian have facilities for mobile and flexible working which can be booked through the room booking system. In addition, staff who undertake mobile and flexible working have access to IT technology to facilitate this.
1074	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Unfortunately services like ours have found ways to improve service delivery for both customer and staff but have been met with hurdle after hurdle and a lack of support and drive e.g. Beecraigs caravan & Camping site booking system "a very easy and simple system that is still not installed after years of jumping through hoops with IT!	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Systems	6. This is a positive suggestion. Officers will consider how this could be developed. 1076	On behalf of a Group/Organisation	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I welcome any consolidation of services within the Council, and the use of improved technology can assist with this, however, systems need to be linked and effective, it expensive to constantly change IT systems. The Council is reviewing opportunities for the rationalisation and integration of IT systems and business processes.
1077	On behalf of a Group/Organisation	1a. 1079	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. 1082	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. 1084	An individual	1a. 1086	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Service redesign and particularly culture change is key to any changes. Things cannot continue to be done the same way and using the same processes and systems. In order to move forward investment in resources have to be made to enable digital services both internally and externally through changes to end to end processes and ways of working. 1087	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Efficiency can always be bettered but it is not good to reduce front line services and leave an expensive and excessively bureaucratic management structure in place. As strings have tightened, I note that WLC has become more and more officious in its dealings with Council tax payers and organisations. The "third sector" already does a lot and greater support and closer co-operation might just be better than the present confrontation.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Systems	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the Council can deliver a more effective and cost effective service through the centralisation of generic tasks with the retention of specialist provision within service.
1088	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	There are no detailed or specific proposals here and yet an estimated saving has been allocated to this measure - what is the basis for this estimate and why has this not been included in the consultation document? The issue of no detail or specific proposals showing how estimated savings have been arrived at is replicated in relation to most of the measures in the consultation document. This lack of detail undermines the consultation process as it makes it difficult to respond or indeed to offer potential alternative approaches.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Systems	3. The respondent advised that they had no comment to make.	At this stage, detailed budget reduction measures have not been developed, therefore there is no specific information on how the savings will be achieved and the timescales for delivery. This will become clearer as the measures progress following the consultation process and approval of the Council's budget strategy.
1089	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	More detail needed on these proposals. In principal it sounds fine but in reality will that be the case? Creation of more higher graded positions in times of austerity seems to fly in the face of "being in it together"	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation - Systems	1. 1092	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Systems and processes are incredibly complex and cumbersome. A simplification and streamlining of processes, reducing bureaucracy would undeniably reduce time spent by workers and increase efficiency - For example processes for social workers using AIS could be simplified. Any intervention in this respect should involve close planning, involvement and consultation with front line staff, rather than a top down approach from management/consultants with tokenistic consultation. Experience has demonstrated that the Council can deliver a more effective and cost effective service through the centralisation of generic tasks with the retention of specialist provision within service.
1093	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	You could make the Council more efficient by investing in better systems that are easy to use and actually work. IT need to be better and think more efficiently because they have so much control. Has anyone ever logged in to Hr21 and not had to reset their password? HR must have a full time member of staff resetting HR21 passwords. That is just one example. Don't get me started on the IT portal. Objective is a another clunky, time consuming system. How can it be that when IT look at systems they choose to pick systems that actually take longer to work than their predecessors. Are we not meant to be more efficient??? We seem to think that giving our internal customers forms to complete makes us more efficient. When, in actual fact, it depends on the form and the system. Why do we need ten different log in accounts for example? Why do we need different log in accounts for IT and HR portals? You wouldn't have to log in with different passwords for online banking? Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Care at home and costs etc are then raised by the service area but pushed to revenues to collect and if there is an increase in costs being raised but staff already at the limit to recovering current levels of debt then surely service level standards would require to be reviewed and relaxed as you can't continue to meet these with less staff and more work!! 1111	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Service redesign, integration & modernisation. This section refers to internal functions that provide management, business and financial support to services being consolidated and reduced. Within Revenues we have teams ie BSD and BST that provide a support function not only to teams within the unit but to wider council services. Staff within these teams have specialist knowledge which would be diluted if they were to be integrated into a central support function. Work carried out in both Revenues and Benefits is statutory and subject to strict scrutiny by DWP, Central and Scottish Government, therefore it is important that support is kept local so that reaction times to system and administration issues is kept to a minimum which in turn protects performance.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (Finance & Property)	6. This is a positive suggestion. Officers will consider how this could be developed.	Although the council will aim to consolidate service provision to reduce duplication, it recognises that some areas are not suitable for consolidation. The cost benefit of any proposal to consolidate services will be considered to ensure a minimum impact on service performance.
1112	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (Finance & Property)	6. This is a positive suggestion. Officers will consider how this could be developed. It is also recognised that some of the savings mentioned in the proposal document such as additional work coming into the new anti-poverty team, could put these support functions under additional pressure.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (Finance & Property)	6. This is a positive suggestion. Officers will consider how this could be developed.	Wherever consideration is given to centralising services, thought will always be given to specialist advice and support required by specific teams to make sure there is no adverse impact on service delivery. Any proposed centralisation would need to meet service requirements throughout the council.
1119	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	The work carried out by both Revenues & Benefits is statutory and is subject to strict scrutiny by the Department for Work & Pensions, central & Scottish government. By reducing teams which support the unit, that have a specialised knowledge or moving them into a central support group this is going to have an impact on performance.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (Finance & Property)	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal. 1120	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Services within Revenues need to be kept to ensure a good service and prompt delivery to residents - this includes things like dedicated mail room and IT service for Revenues. Without these services would be concerned that the function and the service to residents and other partners within the council would be diluted and not as good.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (Finance & Property)	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	All services will be reviewed based on the impact they have on priorities. It is proposed that future spending will be aligned to the priorities in the Transforming Your Council consultation document.

1121	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Within revenues we have teams such as BSD and BST that provide support to us when required. These teams are well utilised and the staff provide very specialist knowledge. I feel its important for them to be within the same building/service area as their reaction time to system problems is very minimum. As our performance is closely monitored any problems are dealt with quickly protecting our performance.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (Finance & Property)	6. This is a positive suggestion. Officers will consider how this could be developed. 1123	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Whilst it is critical to have the correct level of business, management, financial support, it is also critical that every effect is made to make this the most efficient support. The protection of front line services has to take priority.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (Finance & Property)	5c. It is proposed that this suggestion is not taken forward because it is not consistent with the council's values and priorities.	As the council will have less overall resources, the number of services delivered will have to reduce with services being reviewed based on the impact they have on priorities. This will include changes to service standards, the way remaining services are delivered and a reduced workforce. It is proposed that future spending will be aligned to the priorities in the Transforming Your Council consultation document. The focus will be on posts that support the priorities rather than whether they are front line or back office based.

Some of the savings mentioned in the proposal document such as additional work coming into the new anti-poverty team could put these support functions under additional pressure and have a major impact on the units overall performance if the support functions were centralised. We provide a service in Benefits and Revenues that is subject to close scrutiny due to it being administered on behalf of the DWP and we must keep up service standards. The council will continue to use contractors where best value is demonstrated.
1132	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	This is a hard one for me being that on a daily basis I see people struggle with the little help they receive but I also see lots cheat the system. It's not always families that see the elderly or the disabled struggle it can come from others.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (Finance & Property)	4. The council is already doing this.	There is a page on the council's website on how to report benefit fraud.
1133	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Zero tolerance on Council Tax	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (Finance & Property)	4. 1137	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Use external company to maintain buildings and save on staff.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (Finance & Property)	6. This is a positive suggestion. Officers will consider how this could be developed.	The council is already doing this for hard FM in the case of its largest single building at the Civic Centre and the new Whitehill Service Centre will follow next year. There is the possibility that other buildings will follow subject to best value being demonstrated.
1138	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	The Administration of the Council needs a root and branch review and this should happen before any of the other activity proposed in this document. It is fundamental to have a lean approach. Techniques such as zero based costing, value management and whole life costing should be employed to understand the functions carried out by the Council and then for all necessary functions decide how the function can be fulfilled at least cost. A £4million reduction in staff costs represents 100 jobs over 5 years, about what could be achieved by natural wastage on a staff of 8,000. A more realistic target is 5 times that amount with a £20million saving. The £20million saving is obviously a target which could be exceeded.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (Finance & Property)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The council has established a priority based approach to budgeting which was approved by councillors. All services will be reviewed based on the impact they have on priorities. It is proposed that future spending will be aligned to the priorities in the Transforming Your Council consultation document. 1141	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	This is a comment for all items in section 7 which tend to have Ward by Ward consequences. An obvious solution here is to give each Ward Councillor a budget, rather like the DSM mentioned earlier. It would be then up to each Councillor to selectively protect the services in their Ward. Clearly this would involve a lot of negotiation for things like bus subsidies but it may result in Linlithgow tip remaining open .	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	8. This suggestion is out with the responsibility of West Lothian Council. Where relevant, we will forward these comments to our partner organisations. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver a more effective and cost effective service through the centralisation of generic tasks with the retention of specialist provision within service. 1147	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	It is vitally important that reductions in back office teams and services are measured against the impact on services and customers. Corporate Services, for example, is often seen as an easy hit. It is not. I've seen larger services place a huge amount of blame and accountability on Corporate Services. Often it is unfairly made the scapegoat. Larger services often fail to recognise that whilst some services such as Op Services, Education and Housing, in particular, have been protected, so far, Corporate Services have been significantly impacted upon by savings and "redesign".	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The council is proposing to achieve efficiency savings through modernisation of services and reduction of duplication and will maximise opportunities to automate processes to reduce manual processes
1148	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I would propose the creation of a business information team. Currently the council services report and handle reporting data in many streams with significant repetition and differing quality of analysis and skill. I would be interested to see these streams coalesced into one unit (much like central admin). Would like to see this unit take responsibility for defining single reporting models, updating of data, regulatory reporting and training staff on data input integrity	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	6. 1150	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	This makes sense. The council should always be looking to modernise its services and do things in the most efficient way. 1151	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Step changes need to be integrated before moving to the next stage to ensure that planned change is on track to achieve the expected outcomes. Too often anticipated change is undertaken too quickly or without proving the intended solution which increases pressure on those charges with service delivery and can produce negative and inefficient effects.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver a more effective and cost effective service through the centralisation of generic tasks with the retention of specialist provision within service. 1155	No Response	1a. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The council is proposing to achieve efficiency savings through modernisation of services and reduction of duplication and will maximise opportunities to automate processes to reduce manual processes
1156	No Response	1a. 1157	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	4. The council is already doing this.	The council acknowledges that our customers expect access to council information 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. To enable this, the council will look at ways to improve systems as a tool to provide information on services, but also as a tool for customers to engage with the council, e.g. making automated payments. 1166	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	The council need to drastically lower the cost of outsourcing and wasted roles within the council. Better use of technology and systems which talk to each other throughout all the departments would minimise needless roles. Outsourcing could improve the employment opportunities within the council and reduce the cost of jobs not being done properly or overrunning the time allocated for a job.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The Council's IT Strategy encourages re-use of applications where possible and appropriate. The council is reviewing opportunities for the rationalisation and integration of IT systems. Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver an more effective and cost effective service through the centralisation of generic tasks with the retention of specialist provision within service. 1169	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	There is still too much paper work. There seems to be far too many internal policies, these should be simplified and streamlined	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. 1170	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Suggest there is a review of multi-member wards system to reduce number of councillors and associated costs.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	8. This suggestion is out with the responsibility of West Lothian Council. Where relevant, we will forward these comments to our partner organisations.	The make up of Council Wards is a matter for the Boundary Commission and not West Lothian Council
1171	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	It's fully acceptable to cut jobs in these fields but what is becoming more apparent is that people who have educated themselves and worked hard over many years are now going to be dropped to save money, when without these highly educated individuals places such as care home or schools could fall apart. People work hard to better there life's and there family's and that is being ripped away from them while you add to the unemployment rate. And not with people who have spent there life taking from the benefit system but by people who have paid all there life's into it !	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver an more effective and cost effective service through the centralisation of generic tasks with the retention of specialist provision within service. 1174	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I believe restructuring is vital, however, it is also important that this is done sensitively and with regard to how both citizens of West Lothian and employed of the Council will be supported in the changes.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver an more effective and cost effective service through the centralisation of generic tasks with the retention of specialist provision within service. This model still allows the opportunity for staff to engage with council officers on a face to face basis at the most effective and convenient level.
1175	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Less staff doesn't equal more efficient services. The right frameworks have to be in place with efficient and effective IT systems supporting this for a reduction in staff to be worthwhile. If these are put in place it can be successful. However, reducing staff and retaining the same structures and systems simply puts more pressure on existing staff to do more with less. This is not effective for a council, nor for those who rely on the services provided. Planning and implementation of new structures should be done first along with new ways of working to identify where savings could be made.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	4. The council is already doing this. 1176	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	If this is a fancy way of saying that there will be job losses then maybe they need to look at losing more higher management staff rather than the staff on the ground. Far too much emphasis on paperwork and making things look good from people who are sitting so far removed from the reality of schools and health centres. We need working people who can make a difference not more managers sitting making decisions that are not improving anything!	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The council continually reviews the tiers of management and span of control across all service levels against a target 5 x 5 structure. This ensures that the council continues to operate with an effective and efficient managerial structure.
1177	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Much as I would want to support employment with the council, having worked in a large organisation there are many improvements to how the back office\support areas are ran. Iâ€™m fully supportive of this so long as the relevant investment is made to systems, processed and staff are fully trained. This initial investment, along with the loss of jobs thatâ€™ll go along, must provide a real change to the support service provided within and by the council. If it is not then the initial saving might be delivered, but it will not be sustainable.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver a more effective and cost effective service through the centralisation of generic tasks with the retention of specialist provision within service. 1189	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	This was also undertaken as part of the delivering better outcomes approach to savings required. It was undertaken with mixed results and lessons should be learned from the process. E.g. smart working was a great idea but has not been fully implemented across all service areas. 1190	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	This is a sensible step however the service units still need to be efficiently resourced to ensure that the quality of service is not poorer. This would be a double negative - a reduced service and an under-staffed service of poor quality to the end users.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal. 1195	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	In my experience, in addition to too many managers, there is also an issue of too many unnecessary meetings that do not result in results. The council could be more effective in time management and use of skills.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	4. The council is already doing this.	The council continually reviews the tiers of management and span of control across all service levels against a target 5 x 5 structure. 1197	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Agree but the emphasis has to be on reducing resources means reducing services. A word of caution though, statutory requirements need to be complied with, mess up here and the level of fines imposed could far out way any potential savings.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver a more effective and cost efficient service through the centralisation of generic tasks and utilisation of technology with the retention of specialist provision within service.
1198	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Fewer people working harder is not a better service. Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver a more effective and cost efficient service through the centralisation of generic tasks and utilisation of technology with the retention of specialist provision within service.
1199	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Not that I condone staff redundancies at all, maybe if the services were more streamlined and made better use of technology for making savings too, there wouldn't be the need to employ additional staff. By streamlining services it could potentially highlight where there are services in need of more staff to meet customer demands and those staff could be redeployed to where they are needed if their current role is no longer required.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver a more effective and cost efficient service through the centralisation of generic tasks and utilisation of technology with the retention of specialist provision within service.
1200	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	For the last 9 years the Council has implemented exhaustive 'redesign, integration and further use of technology'. The level of savings required, with more to come no doubt, indicate this approach of more fine tuning will not deliver the financial goal of a balanced budget. Without further detail of the consequential impacts of the £4m Savings it is not possible to comment further.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	3. The respondent advised that they had no comment to make.	At this stage, detailed budget reduction measures have not been developed, therefore there is no specific information on how the savings will be achieved and the timescales for delivery.
1201	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Indeed the councillors have to either show efficiency in their added tasks by taking a pay cut. Where relevant, we will forward these comments to our partner organisations.	Councillors remunerations and expenses are determined by the Scottish Government.
1202	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I believe that this will involve jobs cuts which is regrettable. But if this sacrifice is needed then it should not be at the expense of unreasonably increased pressure on remaining staff and / or it should be measured that the same level of service has been maintained (assuming the service is not completely removed).	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver a more effective and cost efficient service through the centralisation of generic tasks and utilisation of technology with the retention of specialist provision within service.
1203	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Must be the largest employer in WL ask how many ranks of senior managers a council can sustain. 1206	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I am less in favour of cutting jobs, but I would like more detail to this modernisation. If there are duplicated roles in finance and other support functions then looking for consolidation is the right thing to do here. Ideally if this can be lost by natural wastage and performance management procedures this would be more favourable for me.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver a more effective and cost effective service through the centralisation of generic tasks and utilisation of technology with the retention of specialist provision within service. 1207	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Allowing staff to work from home and flexible working would benefit Council staff across the region. This would help with claiming travel allowances and using pool cars when not always necessary. Also, staff are travelling from one side of the county to another to work, when it would make sense where possible, for staff to be closer to home and be able to be in work quicker and saving them money on fuel/mileage.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The council has approved a range of projects that will provide the technology to support mobile and flexible working and home working including tablets and other portable equipment.
1208	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	This is a false economy saving. You keep cutting out teams of people and reducing management only to spread the load on those who are left. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver a more effective and cost efficient service through the centralisation of generic tasks and utilisation of technology with the retention of specialist provision within service.
1209	An individual	1a. 1222	No Response	1a. The Council is continually reviewing opportunities to amalgamate service provision whilst retaining the opportunity for staff to build up knowledge and experience. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal. 1226	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Services that actively engage with and enhance life in the community should be prioritised over large, costly internal services. The council is consulting with the community to confirm that the priorities remain appropriate and will focus services around these priorities.
1227	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Agree with proposal in principle as long as you do not cut too much and the speed of modernisation is at a pace that keeps up with your technology and speed of your community. Remember not everyone is a whizz on a computer, and not everyone has access to one. Don't alienate your community.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. 1230	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	the council might also look for individual cost saving ideas from the public. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	7. The respondent's comment was either not relevant to the question, inappropriate and/or contained personal and sensitive information.	The removal of discounted gym membership at West Lothian Leisure would not achieve a saving for the council
1231	No Response	1a. 1235	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Agreed. A report from the CRM will show just how many are dealt with - they take a lot of time and input from numerous staff members within the council, not just the people dealing with the requests, but the staff in various sections searching through past data. Why are we paying staff to gather the data for Newspaper articles. 1271	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	The absence of a recognisable workforce plan (despite repeated exhortations from Audit Scotland) is lamentable as WLC seeks to redesign/modernise/cut services in the absence of a workforce plan that details: The number of staff required along with the knowledge set, skills and qualifications of these staff to deliver future services. There is very little evidence of public service reform within WLC never mind across CPP services. The finance, payroll, HR and 'performance' teams appear to be overstaffed and ineffective. Given the relatively small size of Scotland's LAs - it is incomprehensible as to why public sector reform has not grouped councils into 'families' or 'regions of 6 or 7 to administer payroll, HR and finance 'back office' support. The impression is that WLC has too many back office employees to frontline providers (e.g. face to face or on the ground employees such as teachers, nursery/EY staff, manual operatives in grounds maintenance etc.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	4. The council is already doing this.	The Council has developed a Corporate Workforce Plan and Service specific workforce plans which monitor staffing requirements and ensure as far as possible that staffing complements and staff skills meet the service requirements.
1272	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Modernising, rationalising and integrating services is an essential part of all businesses and local authorities are not exempt from this. There have already been significant changes in some areas and while there are likely to still be opportunities there, care should be taken not to change them in such a way that services are undeliverable.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal. 1273	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	More options for home working and flexible start and finish times each day. Help to reduce heating & lighting costs.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	6. This is a positive suggestion. Officers will consider how this could be developed.	Thank you for your response. Officers will consider how the proposals in relation to the staff start time can be developed. 1274	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	5b. It is proposed that this suggestion is not taken forward because it is likely that the costs of this proposal would outweigh the benefit.	The Council is consulting on the priorities which should be focused on going forward and does not consider that assessment of priority based on job evaluation is an effective method of allocating resource.
1275	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	£25.3m over five years is nothing to pat yourself on the back about. Seriously - you need to go further and look at the application of a complete operating model redesign and pay/pension structures. Talk to people on the street - sending 5 guys to cut a hedge which can be done with two moderately hard workers. The council is a mess. There are no two ways about it. Start with Exec pay, and then move onto Councillors - their value add is extremely questionable.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	8. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver a more effective and cost effective service through the centralisation of generic tasks and use of technology with the retention of specialist provision within service. This model still allows the opportunity for staff to engage with council officers on a face to face basis at the most effective and convenient level.
1278	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Redesign of the provision of a service is ok provided the aim of the redesign is to maintain / improve levels of service provided. A goal to purely save money will reduce the quality of service and ultimately will increase cost.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver a more effective and cost effective service through the centralisation of generic tasks and use of technology with the retention of specialist provision within service. This model still allows the opportunity for staff to engage with council officers on a face to face basis at the most effective and convenient level.
1279	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	If there is scope to modernise and improve these services saving so much money, why has the council not done this before?	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver a more effective and cost effective service through the centralisation of generic tasks and use of technology with the retention of specialist provision within service. This model still allows the opportunity for staff to engage with council officers on a face to face basis at the most effective and convenient level.
1280	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	The continued reliance on a large manual workforce should be reviewed. It doesn't provide value for money as the effort to keep it makes the work that is done much more expensive than on the open market. The quality of work is no better and when it isn't done right it has to be paid for again.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	5c. It is proposed that this suggestion is not taken forward because it is not consistent with the council's values and priorities.	Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver a more effective and cost effective service through the centralisation of generic tasks and use of technology with the retention of specialist provision within service. 1281	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Make sure that the Council works. A well oiled machine will help everyone. 1282	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	If this service redesign increases efficiency then that can only be good.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. 1283	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I would ask that a 'suggestion box' type of system is put in place for staff within services to be given the opportunity to make recommendations for improvements and cost savings. Staff working in their own service area will have ideas of how processes etc. can be streamlined/changed to make services more cost effective and streamlined.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	4. The council is already doing this.	The council encourages and welcomes suggestions and recommendations from all staff on service improvement. The council regularly undertakes self assessment during which staff are actively encouraged to engage in evaluation of service performance and to make recommendations on service improvement.
1284	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	This consultation is an example of the council's lack of innovative thinking in terms of digital technology. Edinburgh City Council did a really good consultation when we did the DBO consultation. You were able to select an option and it provided information on cost savings and what changes it would mean to customers, thereby seeing the effect of selecting on option over another. With this consultation you are expecting residents of West Lothian to comment on areas that they don't necessarily know anything about. It is very poor and shows you have a long way to go! Also how do you measure opinions when it is all text related. This isn't really a consultation as it would appear the decisions have already been made!	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	7. The respondent's comment was either not relevant to the question, inappropriate and/or contained personal and sensitive information. 1285	An individual	1a. 1287	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	The bulletin must cost a lot of money to print in colour and post to every household in West Lothian maybe having a cheaper cost effective way such as having them in libraries council offices or an online copy you could look at if you wish on the council website.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	5c. It is proposed that this suggestion is not taken forward because it is not consistent with the council's values and priorities.	Officers believe Bulletin remains good value at less than the price of a second class stamp to produce and distribute one copy of Bulletin to every household in West Lothian.
1288	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Ensure all print and mail tasks are appropriately routed so centralized resource so they can be undertaken most efficiently.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	4. The council is already doing this.	The council has introduced measures to reduce the production and publication of paper documents through the greater use of electronic documents and related systems. The introduction of print management software will allow managers to assess what is being printed with a view to reduction in repeat prints.
1289	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	The Council should consider a full close down for the two weeks at christmas. There would need to be emergency service provision but many buildings could close which would save energy and concentrate staff resource over the other 50 weeks of the year. Little productive work is done during these two weeks anyway.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	6. This is a positive suggestion. Officers will consider how this could be developed.	Thank you for your response. Officers will consider how this could be developed.

Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	5c. It is proposed that this suggestion is not taken forward because it is not consistent with the council's values and priorities.	Officers believe Bulletin remains good value at less than the price of a second class stamp to produce and distribute one copy of Bulletin to every household in West Lothian.
1293	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I would like to know how many employees are going to lose their jobs. As not so long ago the council promised not to have people redundant. As usual it will hit the lowest earners, the bottom grade. I would like to know how many exec, manager, under managers, will lose money or their jobs. I suspect none.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	3. The respondent advised that they had no comment to make.	At this stage, detailed budget reduction measures have not been developed, therefore there is no specific information on how the savings will be achieved and the timescales for delivery. This will become clearer as the measures progress following the consultation process and approval of the council's budget strategy.
1294	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	On the face of things this would be a great idea, but I would worry that a reduction in staffing measures at 'the coal face' would impact on the service delivery and more vitally, knowledge attained by experienced staff.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver an more effective and cost effective service through the centralisation of generic tasks and use of technology with the retention of specialist provision within service. This model still allows the opportunity for staff to engage with council officers on a face to face basis at the most effective and convenient level.
1296	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	consolidation of services with other councils should be established as a priority. Scotland can easily adopt central support services such as Legal, Payroll, Recruitment etc., that are provided independent of the councils themselves. There are also wide ranging opportunities for external support of IT functions, housing provision and management, and community facilities like libraries. However, reducing these services has quite an impact on delivering core objectives and there is certainly not enough information here to make an informed assessment.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The council has an existing shared service agreement with South Lanarkshire Council for a shared IT data centre and will continue to develop opportunities for further shared service arrangements with other public bodies. 1299	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	its common knowledge that the councils inefficiency is evident in pretty much all departments. It seems pretty obvious to me that sub contracting and outsourcing on an as and when basis would be a better solution. I would expect that a much greater saving could be made than suggested if a "private sector" view was taken on both systems and people employed.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal. 1300	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	This is a good aim. However this redesign should be done by listening to those who work in the area to get the best design. Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver an more effective and cost effective service through the centralisation of generic tasks and use of technology with the retention of specialist provision within service. This model still allows the opportunity for staff to engage with council officers on a face to face basis at the most effective and convenient level.
1302	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	The council seems top-heavy with regards to management structures. Hopefully redesign of council services would be able to address this.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The council continually reviews the tiers of management and span of control across all service levels against a target 5 x 5 structure. This ensures that the council continues to operate with an effective and efficient managerial structure.
1303	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	The council's existing partnership working seeks to mitigate the duplication of work between partners. At the same time the council seeks to avoid duplication of resource within the council.
1310	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Redesign should be looked to improve efficiency, concern would be loss of jobs.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver a more effective and cost efficient service through the centralisation of generic tasks and utilisation of technology with the retention of specialist provision within service.
1311	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	The proposals do not have a clear headcount target. It would be helpful to set out the current headcount and type of staff employed and how the council sees this changing. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	At this stage, detailed budget reduction measures have not been developed, therefore there is no specific information on how the savings will be achieved and the timescales for delivery. 1313	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Third party is essential for variety transparency and competitive advantages. The council does not provide catering for officers.
1314	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	If jobs are affected they should be redistributed elsewhere.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The council has introduced improved workforce planning and greater coordination of vacant posts, fixed term appointments and employees who have been displaced through organisational change. The council is also reviewing the terms of the Redeployment Policy to offer greater opportunities for the redeployment of employees subject to suitable business need.

1316	An individual	1a. 1320	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	On the face of it this sounds a positive step however further detail is required. 1321	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Staffing levels, skill mix and brain drain must be carefully considered. Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver a more effective and cost efficient service through the centralisation of generic tasks and utilisation of technology with the retention of specialist provision within service.
1322	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Council internal structures are cumbersome and do not reflect the private sector business models that focus on profitability. There is more the Council can do to recognise the synergies between the services it offers and streamlining the governance process so that this is effective and minimises overlap. It is also important for the Councils Elected Members to be sympathetic to the cuts that need to be made and to support the Council in this regard.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	4. The council is already doing this.	The council places significant emphasis on effective internal and external integration and enhancement of synergies between services. The council will look at ways to maximise the benefits of any synergies and minimise duplication or overlap.
1323	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	There are many ways of describing the actions that the Council are proposing whether it is called "downsizing" or "streamlining" a rose is still a rose by any other name. 1330	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	It is prudent that we make our workforce as efficient as possible but consideration must be given to the service levels. Staff shortages are being absorbed but this can only go so far before we cease to be effective.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal. This model still allows the opportunity for staff to engage with council officers on a face to face basis at the most effective and convenient level.
1331	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I think that all departments have to have a tailored approach to redesign, what works for one department will not work for all and upgrades in technology can cause problems especially if there is going to be a lot less support staff to help with any change over.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The council will consider the requirements of each service and customer group in developing proposals for redesign of services. The council has made significant investment in the IT infrastructure and will continue to allocate appropriate resources to introduce new technology where appropriate. The council's ICT Strategy seeks to deliver change in line with advances in technology and changes in council priorities, whilst still having a clear framework within which to operate.
1332	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	The services are already stretched so how will they still function effectively if further cuts are made. 1333	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Would be more helpful if this wasn't so vague and gave a more detailed description of what exactly will be affected so I can give an accurate and better informed case for feedback in this consultation. At this stage, detailed budget reduction measures have not been developed, therefore there is no specific information on how the savings will be achieved and the timescales for delivery. This will become clearer as the measures progress following the consultation process and approval of the council's budget strategy.
1334	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	The proposals overall are difficult to comment on as many come across as quite vague and non-specific. Most sound sensible, although the impact on residents of West Lothian difficult to establish e.g. Some of the proposals involve combining/merging teams without much rationale stated. Which services are actually being cut? No doubt there is more detail and assessments behind these high level proposals. Specifically, the Council does not identify any headcount targets or how the make up of the workforce will change as a result of these proposals. d?	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	3. The respondent advised that they had no comment to make.	At this stage, detailed budget reduction measures have not been developed, therefore there is no specific information on how the savings will be achieved and the timescales for delivery. This will become clearer as the measures progress following the consultation process and approval of the council's budget strategy.
1335	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. 1339	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Will this be similar to the consolidating and integration you implemented recently whereby you made positions redundant and forced employees to re-apply for jobs with less hours, less salary and an impossible workload and increased responsibility. Whereby Hall Management Committees made up of volunteers are now desperately trying to pick up the short-fall and are now facing the prospect that all their hard work and unpaid blood sweat and tears has been in vain as the reality is we will now lose the very services we are desperately trying to maintain while the council has failed us? 1340	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	On page 1 the overview on the future WLC budget is very informative. In the Chief Executive's letter, the penultimate paragraph on the three main areas for our feedback is very clear and focussed. Page 2 provides a clear summary and my interest concentrates on "technology" items. The "key points", "budget proposal 1 to 7" and "challenges ahead" are well stated. In the latter item "transformation programme" should explain more detail on the councils approach. "How the council is funded" on page 4 will create a major impact and may I suggest that those details be prominently displayed in all council premises especially libraries and all schools. 1365	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I'm not sure if this is included further on in the consultation, but it seems relevant here also - stop producing and delivering the Bulletin! It must cost a decent amount of money to colour-print however many thousand copies, not to mention the delivery costs and then the recycling costs when they inevitably get thrown into the bin unread. I would suggest developing some kind of e-bulletin, whilst keeping a few paper copies at local libraries or council buildings	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	5c. 1369	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	As long as services to the public will not be harmed I'm all for transformation to more modern ways, digital and redesigning the services. 1377	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	The council has a very command and control management. Whilst I appreciate that a certain level is required in order to keep control of finances it has disempowered staff all the way down the chain therefore not making best use of resources. In fact it causes more work as staff are second guessing what head of service and directors want rather than asking what is wanted causing duplicate work. 1378	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	The change of the corporate logo. How much did this cost to do when the outcome was really not much different. Square to round and green only. Not only the re-design but also the throwing out old stationery, printing new. Time taken to change electronic documents. Presume logos on vans, signs etc need to be changed. What a waste of money	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	7. The respondent's comment was either not relevant to the question, inappropriate and/or contained personal and sensitive information.	The Council's logo has been revised for the first time in 20 years. Council officers spent approximately one hour designing the new logo. 1380	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	It is hard to comment until we know what areas you are referring to. There are services within the council that are already understaffed. We are relying on good will and staff doing overtime to keep areas/buildings open. On the other hand we have areas where teams seems to be growing. I would rather have frontline staff working to deliver for the community that performance teams checking against targets putting managers and staff under pressure. 1398	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. 1403	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Efficiencies in care should be considered very carefully as it is harder to retract errors than make them in the 1st place. It is especially disconcerting that much of these 'efficiencies' will be made by individuals who have not worked in the environment they are reviewing for a number of years. Remote decision making by people sitting in offices at the higher echelons of management do not work. They cannot practically make the best decisions about the future care requirements of our elderly or our workforce. Numbers do not always quantify care. There are countless hours not recorded and care cannot be quantifiable.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	4. The council is already doing this. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	An area where it would be possible to make substantial savings IF carried out properly and again looking at all staffing numbers. : too many layers in many departments - managers, supervisors, team leaders, charge hands many duplicating the job of their superior. : competency based reviews to ensure that individuals are providing value for money.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The council continually reviews the tiers of management and span of control across all service levels against a target 5 x 5 structure. This ensures that the council continues to operate with an effective and efficient managerial structure.
1408	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	This also just gets rid of minimum/living wage jobs, the people who are targeted most and tend to be more venerable to change each time something like this happens getting them stuck in a cycle. I'd rather keep the smaller jobs that actually play big roles and get rid of stupid roles like the two managers in planning services.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver a more effective and cost effective service through the centralisation of generic tasks, use of technology and the retention of specialist provision within service. This model still allows the opportunity for staff to engage with council officers on a face to face basis at the most effective and convenient level. The council is a living wage employer and staff on the lowest grades will continue to receive a living wage enhancement.
1409	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Consideration could be given as to whether the provision of non statutory services should continue in the context of the councils agreed priorities or if charging could be introduced to ensure that such activities continued on a self funded basis.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	4. The council is already doing this.	The council is consulting on the priorities in respect of which resources should be focused going forward.
1410	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	You should be reviewing those "partnership" organisations to make sure that they are providing value for money - rather than looking to increase partnership arrangements	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	4. The council is already doing this.	The council regularly monitors the performance of third party providers to ensure that they continue to deliver value for money services.
1411	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Genuine efficiency improvement are always welcome. But where performance is affected and some services lost completely the council should be honest about it and explain why. It should also be ensured that the already hard-pressed council staff are not put under too much pressure by absorbing functions previously carried out by others	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver a more effective and cost efficient service through the centralisation of generic tasks and utilisation of technology with the retention of specialist provision within service.
1412	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Fewer support staff = poorer service. A redesign and modernisation are good in principle but, in reality, will it just mean fewer people being expected to provide the same level of service? 1415	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	In order to achieve savings and modernise services the barriers need to be broken down between the different services as some services can be territorial and not open to change. Also some services are seen as enabling services however this is where the delays can happen for progressing and streamlining.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The council is reviewing opportunities for integration and modernisation of services whilst continuing to ensure that effective enabler services are provided.
1416	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I believe there are vast savings to be made by working more closely with our services to ensure compliance i.e. contracts are used, and frameworks are reduced, maverick spend is eliminated. By going out to tender, as or without collaboration, we can secure best value contracts for West Lothian. Although EU Law does not allow us to specify local suppliers must be used, we have ways of ensuring local suppliers are giving every opportunity to tender for the councils business.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	West Lothian Council has to comply with national and EU legislation and competitive methods are employed. All appropriate suppliers can bid and contracts are tendered taking into consideration price, quality and total cost for all products contained within the contract.
1417	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	In my opinion, framework agreements, do not provide best value and are a thing of the past. Suppliers submit abnormally low prices to ensure they are awarded a framework, only to drastically increase prices for non-core spend. It is not uncommon for these frameworks to only provide 20% -30% of the councils core spend; this results in the remaining 80 -70% being purchases on an ad-hoc basis, or a mini competition. Mini Competitions take time to create and award, and we are tied into the suppliers on the framework, which excludes local supply chain, having a negative impact on local economy. It is time to work more closely with our supply chain, by committing business to them through a competitive tendering route. In return we will receive best value, competitive pricing, and a loyal service. Collaboration is and continues to be included in our tendering processes, and it a number of cases this can work very well.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	4. The council is already doing this.	West Lothian Council has to comply with national and EU legislation and competitive methods are employed. All appropriate suppliers can bid and contracts are tendered taking into consideration price, quality and total cost for all products contained within the contract.
1418	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Are you just using fancy words to say you will pay people off and increase the workload and pressure on the one,s that are left thus giving a poorer service??	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	7. The respondent's comment was either not relevant to the question, inappropriate and/or contained personal and sensitive information.	Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver a more effective and cost efficient service through the centralisation of generic tasks and utilisation of technology with the retention of specialist provision within service.
1419	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Whilst it is commendable to investigate improved ways of working and in advances in technology to achieve economy and effectiveness, other measures could be introduced to assist a more dynamic workforce focused on outcomes e.g. quiet areas for working, increasing the flexi time day from 8.00 am - 6pm to 7.00am - 8.00pm. Also, there is no need for every member of the council to have permanent access to a desk. A formal working from home Policy could be developed and increased use of WorkSmart areas should be explored to allow for a reduction in the number of buildings.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	6. This is a positive suggestion. Officers will consider how this could be developed.	Thank you for your response, Officers shall consider how this can be developed.
1420	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	There are duplication of some services within the council that need looked at. for example the call centre staff and admin support in some service areas could be integrated and retrained to do a range of tasks. Therefore providing a better service for the customer and reducing overall numbers of staffing	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver a more effective and cost efficient service through the centralisation of generic tasks and utilisation of technology with the retention of specialist provision within service.
1421	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Any redesign needs to be purposeful and strategic - tinkering for the sake of the bottom line is probably a waste of resources in the long run. A holistic and long-term plan is essential - perhaps the 'arms length' management of services risks making that even more difficult?	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The council has an organisational change policy which will support effective redesign and integration of services. The council's corporate and services workforce plans facilitate long term planning.
1422	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Any changes that can be made to systems and processes to make the Council more efficient should be the focus of change, particularly reducing administrative processes and duplication of information provision for customers.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver a more effective and cost efficient service through the centralisation of generic tasks and utilisation of technology with the retention of specialist provision within service.
1423	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Councils should be doing this as a matter of course not just when massive cuts are needed. A review of all tasks employees do and questioning everything that we all do at work. Do we really need to do each task, can we change the frequency of tasks. Ensure all staff are fully occupied and carrying out tasks that really need to be done.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. 1425	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	In the powerpoint delivered at the school I work in, it was mentioned that a group would be set up to help decide how to make cuts. I presume this group would be made up of council workers and who would therefore be taken out of their depts. and put in a new role created to decide how to make cuts to existing roles. It was also mentioned that consultants would be hired to help make these decisions. It is my opinion, that given the massive amount of cuts, the council should actually focus on ensuring that current services continue to be provided, to minimise change and disruption -- to have services cut, while new roles are created and consultants hired to decide/advise how to make these cuts, is simply unacceptable.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal. 1427	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Being cost effective within the council is vital to delivering high quality customer service. To allow services to be more efficient and effective technology would need to play a big part of this. Awareness across the council needs to happen to change the mind set of people that the council opens 9-5 Monday to Friday, this is not the case the council is accessible 24/7, 365 days per year and technology support is needed over these new periods.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The council has made significant investment in the IT infrastructure and will continue to allocate appropriate resources to introduce new technology where appropriate. The council's ICT Strategy seeks to deliver change in line with advances in technology and changes in council priorities, whilst still having a clear framework within which to operate.

1429	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	There is no doubt that further efficiencies can be made but much has been done already and there is a limit to what can realistically be achieved without eroding provision to an unacceptable level. 1435	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	"Could be" or will be improved through redesign etc? Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver a more effective and cost efficient service through the centralisation of generic tasks and utilisation of technology with the retention of specialist provision within service.
1436	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Keeping these functions lean is sensible. 1437	An individual	1a. 1439	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	The above is rather vague. If you can save money in running costs, why aren't you already doing this? 1445	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Savings need to be made but when doing this you need to make sure you have the correct people in management. Those that are open and willing to change and develop. Those that best understand the services which they work and those who have the respect of staff and colleagues. I believe that the council has a wealth of knowledge and experience within its ranks and if correctly used the council can provide many of the services which they currently fund other organisations to give. An example of this would be CAB. Through my experiences the Advice Shop Service is far superior to CAB due to a forward thinking and customer supportive approach. Organisations such as CAB also have other funding avenues that council service do not. For me it would make sense to develop and enhance good council services which continually deliver results relating to the eight priorities which would make savings as well and protect valuable council services.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal. 1448	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Remote access (Skype, spider phones, webcams) to meetings could save miles.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	4. The council is already doing this.	All of the council's main office buildings in the main towns and villages in West Lothian have facilities for mobile and flexible working which can be booked through the room booking system. In addition, staff who undertake mobile and flexible working have access to IT technology to facilitate this, including remotely accessing meetings.
1449	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	The introduction of new technology does not always mean improvements to the internal handling procedures. In some instances new technology requires systems to be front loaded with data and where there is a reduction in administrative staff, these functions migrate to officer level. It should be remembered that new systems require maintenance and administrators and in the main, the task of set up, migration and maintenance does not fall onto IT specialists but to staff within a service, impacting on those individuals ability to provide the level of service required as their core function. The impact of technology and system failures to the service needs strong consideration and infrastructure investment to ensure stable working platforms for staff and the public where there is a direct input to council systems. 1451	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Community Consultation is vital at each step in the process! Individual communities should be able to stand up and voice their concerns about changes to services, some which may become irreversible. Employment is key to all proposals, the more people in good, well paid jobs equals rent being paid back into the local authority, council tax being paid, money being spent locally within the area. All this will generate revenue to keep our services. We have to invest now in our futures as the past 10 years have been shambolic due to an SNP administration that froze council tax to buy their way into power. They should have concentrated on the day job. We have gone from being UK Council of the year in 2006 to this. Cut backs.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	4. 1462	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	There is a lot of duplication of work between service areas and the work that is done centrally by corporate teams. If the service areas had more ownership then this would prevent the need for duplication of work and cut the risk of error. Example - service areas complete absence reports on spread sheets which are sent to HR to be updated on Chris. If the service areas could add this detail it would prevent duplication and could be monitored centrally	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. 1464	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Agree but there also needs to be work down to break down any barriers and attitudes in relation to services boundaries to ensure joined up working becomes a reality	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The council will continue to review opportunities for service integration and modernisation.
1465	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Surely the council must always be looking to spend my money as cost effectively as possible. 1469	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I think it is imperative that the council drop all council thinking , council practice, council language and seriously allow citizens to take part in process design in a meaningful way. Consultation is great but only if people being consulted think it is truly meaningful and not a tick box exercise. I think WL have a real opportunity to re-design how an effective Council works and operate for the true benefit of their citizens. This will involve staff going through an effective culture change and no longer see themselves working for the council but working for their customers. There are signs that WL are ahead of the game on this but it is by no means deployed 100% throughout the Council and by Council I include Health and education.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver a more effective and cost efficient service through the centralisation of generic tasks and utilisation of technology with the retention of specialist provision within service.
1470	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	The Council has a good track record in this area and it is to be hoped that further measures will be carefully considered and equally effective. 1471	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I am all for making things more efficient and I think there should be more people employed to carry out the jobs rather than too many people being employed to make proposals, create fancy documents and sit at the top rather than actually listening to the people and doing the work.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The council continually reviews the tiers of management and span of control across all service levels against a target 5 x 5 structure. This ensures that the council continues to operate with an effective and efficient managerial structure.
1472	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	This all sounds great, but some detail would be appreciated: what does 'generating savings in systems costs' actually mean, and which partner organisations are you referring to?	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	At this stage, detailed budget reduction measures have not been developed, therefore there is no specific information on how the savings will be achieved and the timescales for delivery. This will become clearer as the measures progress following the consultation process and approval of the council's budget strategy.
1473	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I would have thought this could have been implemented long before now	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. 1474	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation are essential and should always be applied and reviewed as regularly as possible to ensure efficiency. However, it is vital that these efficiencies don't impact on services and notably the wellbeing of staff often realigned as part of them. Job remits, resizing and expected success criteria need to realistically reflect the capacity of teams and departments charged with fulfilling them.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver a more effective and cost efficient service through the centralisation of generic tasks and utilisation of technology with the retention of specialist provision within service.
1475	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I think as long as the statutory services are supported it really doesn't matter how they are delivered. Things change and people need to adapt.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Thank you for your response. 1476	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Would rather council employees provided these services rather than buying in consultants at a high cost. No compulsory redundancies.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	4. The council is already doing this.	The council has been able to delivery significant budget reductions in the last 10 years without the requirement for compulsory redundancies. The scale of the further reductions required over the next five years will be challenging and the council will seek to use the existing range of workforce management and organisational change policies to deliver the required reductions in staffing numbers.
1477	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Don't like to think of job cuts but would imagine there are a number of higher grades with big salaries that could be got rid of!	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The council continually reviews the tiers of management and span of control across all service levels against a target 5 x 5 structure. This ensures that the council continues to operate with an effective and efficient managerial structure.
1478	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	As the council have a statutory requirement to provide services, its vital that there are enough staff to deliver these services. Efficiency savings as seen in other public services such as the NHS are having a detrimental effect on staff wellbeing and moral. Council staff should not be expected to shoulder the burden with unrealistic expectations added to their already growing task list.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver a more effective and cost efficient service through the centralisation of generic tasks and utilisation of technology with the retention of specialist provision within service.
1486	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Too many managers within WLC and WLC should not be tendering jobs outwith Council. The council continually reviews the tiers of management and span of control across all service levels against a target 5 x 5 structure. This ensures that the council continues to operate with an effective and efficient managerial structure. West Lothian Council has to comply with national and EU legislation and competitive methods are employed. All appropriate suppliers can bid and contracts are tendered taking into consideration price, quality and total cost for all products contained within the contract.
1487	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Generally agree There should also be a real hard look at potential to integrate/merge services with other councils to achieve economies of scale and significant savings. EG pay roll. Alternatively, we can negotiate to "sell" our services to other neighbouring councils.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The council has an existing shared service agreement with South Lanarkshire Council for a shared IT data centre and will continue to develop opportunities for further shared service arrangements with other public bodies. The council is also progressing with West Lothian College the provision of shared services opportunities across a range of service areas.

1490	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Within Revenues we have teams ie BSD and BST that provide a support function not only to teams within the unit but to wider council services. Staff within these teams have specialist knowledge which would be diluted if they were to be integrated into a central support function. Work carried out in both Revenues and Benefits is statutory and subject to strict scrutiny by DWP, Central and Scottish Government, therefore it is important that support is kept local so that reaction times to system and administration issues is kept to a minimum which in turn protects performance. It is also recognised that some of the savings mentioned in the proposal document such as additional work coming into the new anti-poverty team, could put these support functions under additional pressure	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	2. 1491	An individual	1a. 1493	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Service Re-design is essential and introduction of efficient methods of working using the most up to date technologies should be at the forefront of the councils redesign. To continue to work with services where there is inefficiency does not make sense. The perception is that the council has a majority of staff who are not fully engaged and occupied on a daily basis. I understand this is not the case but a comprehensive review would not go amiss.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver a more effective and cost efficient service through the centralisation of generic tasks and utilisation of technology with the retention of specialist provision within service.
1494	No Response	1a. Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver a more effective and cost efficient service through the centralisation of generic tasks and utilisation of technology with the retention of specialist provision within service.

1496	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Consolidation of function is good, but centralise services again. Do not have so many community based offices. Centralise everything in Livingston. Outsource services such as IT, Personnel, payroll, parts of finance. This way you can provide the same services with less staff. Could Customer service/call centre also be outsourced? Stop using expensive day rate staff. Only use permanent staff or outsourced suppliers. The use of day rate contractors in Public Services can no longer be justified in these austere times. Do not assume IT will bring cost savings without carefully assessing timescales to implement solutions and hidden costs. Other councils have/are attempting Channel shift strategies and these have generally been expensive failures that drag on well beyond planned delivery dates. West Lothian must avoid the mistakes of others,	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver a more effective and cost efficient service through the centralisation of generic tasks and utilisation of technology with the retention of specialist provision within service.
1497	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Excellent if all of the above are carried out. However on current personally experienced performance it will take a huge effort to even provide an improvement. Further why has the " efficiency and effectiveness" not been applied to current procedures. No real criteria to be reached is actually stated and the starting point for these " efficiency and effectiveness" upgrade to services is not evident. Vagueness in targets to achieve Â£4 million. How will residents know when this is achieved?	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal. 1503	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	In the main I think it would be better to keep all services in-house. 1506	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Although the council shouldn't be wasting money I think there is a need to move away from protect front line/slash support services. People don't realise that without support services such as IT, HR, Finance etc the people on the front line couldn't do their jobs properly. There is no point protecting the front line and reducing support or enabler services to nothing - we could end up in a position where there is nobody to pay the frontline staff!	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	The council recognises the importance of effective support services. Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver a more effective and cost effective service through the centralisation of generic tasks and use of technology with the retention of specialist provision within service.
1507	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	On the face of it, sounds great. The combination of services and functions can work, but you still need people to operate and run the service. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver a more effective and cost efficient service through the centralisation of generic tasks and utilisation of technology with the retention of specialist provision within service.
1508	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Priority probably needs to be concentrated on providing statutory services / obligations and essential services rather than sometimes concentrating on certain individual and 'pet' projects for certain people / groups. And with decreasing budgets in the coming years, more serious scrutiny needs to be given to these type of projects.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. Staff within these teams have specialist knowledge which would be diluted if they were to be integrated into a central support function. Work carried out in both Revenues and Benefits is statutory and subject to strict scrutiny by DWP, Central and Scottish Government, therefore it is important that support is kept local so that reaction times to system and administration issues is kept to a minimum which in turn protects performance. It is also recognised that some of the savings mentioned in the proposal document such as additional work coming into the new anti-poverty team, could put these support functions under additional pressure. Software issues which can be dealt with within Revenues are resolved within a matter of hours however where software issues have to be reported to central IT it can take days and numerous phone calls for the issue to be resolved, resulting in lost productivity.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver a more effective and cost efficient service through the centralisation of generic tasks and utilisation of technology with the retention of specialist provision within service.
1526	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Change is good and can cut costs but at the same time reducing human workforce will have a detrimental impact on unemployment.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The council has introduced improved workforce planning and greater coordination of vacant posts, fixed term appointments and employees who have been displaced through organisational change. The council is also reviewing the terms of the Redeployment Policy to offer greater opportunities for the redeployment of employees subject to suitable business need.
1527	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Sounds like a load of corporate talk to turn the council into an automated call centre. Why not save money through cutting the number of highly paid staff in the council that design these type of questions.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver a more effective and cost efficient service through the centralisation of generic tasks and utilisation of technology with the retention of specialist provision within service.
1528	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I think there are significant savings that the Council could make in how it is being run. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Thank you for your response. Your comment has been noted
1529	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. 1530	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. 1531	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I agree with sensible and intelligence based integration and service redesign, not led by political agendas or to protect funding for departments who do not bear the depth of cuts through protection from Holyrood. Too often non-statutory functions in Education are untouched because it is unpalatable to local politicians.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver a more effective and cost efficient service through the centralisation of generic tasks and utilisation of technology with the retention of specialist provision within service.
1532	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I have not been impressed with how service redesigns have been managed to date, with heads of service being allowed to extract themselves and their establishments from the process as a means of maintaining their service provision. If this is allowed to happen again then it is not an burden shared equally.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	7. The respondent's comment was either not relevant to the question, inappropriate and/or contained personal and sensitive information.	The council has an organisation change policy which will support service redesign. Staff and trade unions will be consulted on any proposals to change service structures.
1533	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Savings can be made through increased efficiency of operations. 1534	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Stop employing consultants. Heads of departments should know how to be efficient or they should not be in the job. In-house works out cheaper in the long term.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The council will continue to use council staff to undertake service delivery with the use of external contractors where required for specialist works. This approach will continue to ensure best value use of resources available within the council.
1535	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I believe more than the suggested savings could be made through improved efficiencies within the council. I have only ever worked in the private sector. I think the public sector could learn a lot about lean operations from looking at the way private organisations are run.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The council regularly benchmarks performance and efficiency with other public and private sector organisations.

1537	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	The council need to take into account that a saving in one spreadsheet, produces a cost in another and could be a false economy. 1538	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. 1539	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	An audit and overhaul of internal functions is possibly a good thing as very often duplication and inefficiency is found and consolidation and redesign of services would bring about a savings.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver a more effective and cost efficient service through the centralisation of generic tasks and utilisation of technology with the retention of specialist provision within service.
1540	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	This sounds good but not if resulting in job loses.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver a more effective and cost efficient service through the centralisation of generic tasks and utilisation of technology with the retention of specialist provision within service.
1541	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	The proposal to amalgamate and streamline Council Services is sensible, and had been ongoing for some time now. However, WLSSEN has concerns that the capacity to provide essential services needs to be maintained. With the best will in the world, there is a danger that Council resources (staff in particular) are overstretched to the point that service provision is badly diluted. WLSSEN would welcome more interaction between Council officials and the Third Sector to build on an increasing understanding of each other's strengths, challenges and weaknesses and to work together to identify opportunities and solutions. The budget proposal and consultation offers an opportunity for honest dialogue and genuine partnership working between the Third Sector and Council.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Any service restructure will be undertaken in accordance with the council organisational change policy and in consultation with the recognised trade unions. The Council has developed a Corporate Workforce Plan and Service specific workforce plans which monitor staffing requirements and ensure as far as possible that staffing complements and staff skills meet the service requirements.
1542	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Communication has got to be improved big time. No one seems to know what they are doing or where they are going.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The council recognises the importance of effective communication with staff, trade unions and stakeholders in developing measures which will deliver the savings.
1543	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Whilst I agree with improving efficiency in existing functions and working smarter, if this results in just a redistribution of the same amount of work to a smaller headcount then its a short-term efficiency which may ultimately lead to higher staff turnover and sickness levels - which in turn is costly. If it results in cutting out red tape long associated with council services, then its a good thing for everyone.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver a more effective and cost efficient service through the centralisation of generic tasks and utilisation of technology with the retention of specialist provision within service.

1545	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	The council newsletter funding could be redeployed to local newspapers in lieu of advertising funding with an expectation that this would support articles of local interest. Planning neighbour notifications - currently done by post - should be stopped and replaced with an online notification system using existing web pages and facilities such as TellMeScotland. This could save around Â£50,000 - Â£100,000 per year based on previous Scottish Government assessments assuming Â£50 - Â£96 notification costs per planning application (2006). The annual budget for the council's Bulletin newsletter (quarterly) was Â£59,000 per annum in 2009/2010 with only around Â£1,000 external advertising revenue received in 2008/2009. In terms of printed advertising, a quarter-page advert in a local newspaper is likely to cost around Â£250 and this could total some Â£50,000 across multiple newspapers per annum, in a media market with a huge shift from print to digital in any case. So a rationalisation of communications from print to digital could save some Â£200,000 per annum, nearly a quarter of the annual saving sought in this regard. The general public expect an increased standard of digital communication nowadays in any case, which is simply not met by print media.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	5c. It is proposed that this suggestion is not taken forward because it is not consistent with the council's values and priorities.	Officers believe Bulletin remains good value at less than the price of a second class stamp to produce and distribute one copy of Bulletin to every household in West Lothian.
1546	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I find this proposal vague to the point where it is impossible to provide comment. What is the current management and function structure? What management and functions are to be reduced and consolidated? What does reducing management look like? Will there be redundancies or re-grading of roles? What will the new, consolidated teams look like in terms of structure, budget and costs? What has been taken into account when considering the consolidation of the functions/teams? What are the current "systems costs"? How are savings to be generated from those costs? What are the partner organisations? How are these relationships governed? How does the council propose to change the working of these partnerships? How can people be expected to provide any useful comments or input into this? If the council has a proposal it should set it out so that it can be examined. This issue is not being dealt with in an open and transparent way.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	3. The respondent advised that they had no comment to make.	Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver a more effective and cost efficient service through the centralisation of generic tasks and utilisation of technology with the retention of specialist provision within service.
1547	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver a more effective and cost efficient service through the centralisation of generic tasks and utilisation of technology with the retention of specialist provision within service.
1548	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Any organisation should review it's service delivery and partnership working. I think with budget constraints it is essential to improve links with the 3rd sector groups to improve and protect services for West Lothian residents.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Thank you for your response. Your comment has been noted. 1550	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	If this is to happen, appropriate training for staff is essential. In the past we have lost older more experienced staff with an abundance of knowledge. It would make sense for the experienced staff to train the staff expected to take on new work. Unfortunately, we have seen all too often in the past when experience staff retire or take redundancy no facility is put in place prior to them leaving to train staff to carry out their duties.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Employees are the council's most important asset and the council will continue to invest in training and development of employees. The Council has developed a Corporate Workforce Plan and Service specific workforce plans which monitor staffing requirements and ensure as far as possible that staffing complements and staff skills meet the service requirements.
1551	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Increasing efficiency throughout the council without the detriment to statutory services should be priority. 1554	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	This seems to already been done and affected a large amount of ppl. Stance has always been no redundancies but as majority of jobs are now short term contracts will still seem to be case but workforce on new contracts do not what is happening to them and this can't be good idea for moral	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	The council regularly reviews the fixed term staff to identify any posts which can be made permanent. Fixed term contracts will continue to be used where this is appropriate to manage temporary, fixed term service requirements.
1555	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	If a service is inefficient then changing to become efficient is a good thing. However if it is just cutting staff to save money and expecting others to do 2 or 3 people's jobs will lead to work not being done and an unhappy workforce.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver a more effective and cost efficient service through the centralisation of generic tasks and utilisation of technology with the retention of specialist provision within service.

Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver a more effective and cost efficient service through the centralisation of generic tasks and utilisation of technology with the retention of specialist provision within service.
1557	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	West Lothian Council should adopt a more "business-like" approach to delivering services. Far too much time is taken up with red tape. Train and educate staff and departments to do a quality job within set timelines and budget. In other words, "under-promise and over-deliver".	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Employees are the council's most important asset and the council will continue to invest in training and development of employees.

1559	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Very difficult to respond to this as absolutely no detail given of which services could be integrated. How many jobs will be lost as a result of this "redesign"? Do you already have plans for which services will be affected? Or will you just "play it by ear" when no objection is made?	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	3. The respondent advised that they had no comment to make.	Any service restructure will be undertaken in accordance with the council organisational change policy and in consultation with the recognised trade unions. The Council has developed a Corporate Workforce Plan and Service specific workforce plans which monitor staffing requirements and ensure as far as possible that staffing complements and staff skills meet the service requirements.
1560	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	It is always a good thing to regularly review costs of providing internal services. Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver a more effective and cost efficient service through the centralisation of generic tasks and utilisation of technology with the retention of specialist provision within service.
1561	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Many services have been re-designing & using technology to improve services on an on-going basis. We have to be careful in reducing staff as there will be a tipping point where this will affect outcomes e.g. collection of council tax. Conversely there are services e.g., social policy that has been ripe for redesign and improvement while for example building services stores needs a complete overall. Concentrating efforts on those services that would really bring significant improvements and savings rather than impacting results of efficient effective services.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver a more effective and cost efficient service through the centralisation of generic tasks and utilisation of technology with the retention of specialist provision within service.

1564	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. The council seeks appropriate advice on defending claims made against the council.

Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Council is top heavy, too many managers and not enough frontline workers, to interested in promoting Council in a positive non productive light e.g organising prize giving ceremonies for staff who pass courses, courses that are not job specific.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The Council continually reviews the tiers of management and span of control across all service levels against a target 5 x 5 structure. This ensures that the Council continues to operate with an effective and efficient managerial structure.
1584	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I agree with streamlining and rationalising processes where this is possible. 1585	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I am all for any efficiency in the use of Council manpower and practices. Do not think there is enough detail in the above comment to make a more detailed response.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	At this stage, detailed budget reduction measures have not been developed, therefore there is no specific information on how the savings will be achieved and the timescales for delivery. This will become clearer as the measures progress following the consultation process and approval of the Council's budget strategy.
1586	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	It sounds like a good idea to try to make savings within the internal structure of the Council as much as possible to minimise the impact on communities by reducing services.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Thank you for your response. Your comment has been noted
1587	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	proper measurement of any savings is essential. Do not ignore consequential impacts of cutting services. eg cutting teaching assistants will likely make it more difficult for teachers to be as effective as they are at present. Such a cut may be a false economy - notwithstanding that it may look attractive on your scoresheet.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the Council can deliver a more effective and cost effective service through the centralisation of generic tasks with the retention of specialist provision within service.
1588	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Much of this is a reflection of the Linlithgow community Council view 1a.The Administration of the Council needs a root and branch review. A £4million reduction in staff costs represents 100 jobs over 5 years, about what could be achieved by natural wastage on a staff of 8,000. A more realistic target is 5 times that amount with a £20million saving.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Thank you for your response. Your comment has been noted
1589	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	The principle is absolutely correct. As with all the initiatives it would be helpful to understand the cost base that the £4M savings aspiration relates to. That context is missing and therefore its impossible to comment on the appropriateness of the stretch or the likelihood of success. Efficiency and effectiveness improvements are the day job of every supervisor, manager and leader in an organisation. Much of the proposed savings should therefore be regarded as business as usual not transformational. Do role profiles and job descriptions within the Council correctly reflect this for all roles?	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	At this stage, detailed budget reduction measures have not been developed, therefore there is no specific information on how the savings will be achieved and the timescales for delivery. 1592	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	This comment applies to many sections in this document - anywhere where the words 'redesign', 'rationalisation', 'restructure' 'streamlining' are included. The saving is given but not the current spend, or the cost required to achieve the 4 million, or the time for return on investment. I am puzzled that after 10 years of cuts the service is thought to still have enough fat to achieve this saving without impact on service. There is a lot of building going on in WL. If the current funding (even with the resulting increase in Council tax) is not sufficient to cater for the increased population this expansion should be stopped, or the developers charged to cover the cost. 1596	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	These cuts will impact on the Council's provision and is not enough to provide the quality public services that residents in West Lothian need and depend on. Previous cost cutting has had an impact and services have already been under real pressure and members are having to take on unrealistic workloads. This will also have an impact on the services that partner organisations provide, especially for marginalised groups.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal. 1597	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	This is a great plan in theory but it needs done properly on the ground. Internal functions and departments tend to be more cost effective than external consultant companies when they are properly trained, staffed and managed. Again redesigning, integrating and changing IT systems can work wonder when done properly and when well managed. In my current job I have seen many of these good intentions turn into petty managers fights and the end results is rarely what was intended at the start. 1600	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Although I agree there has to be an increase in the Council tax I find it ironic that staff have not had more than 1% increase in several years. Its asking for more from people who have less. With the extra work load on staff from staff losses effectively becoming 'Generic' has been a reduction in salary. All workplaces have to modernise to keep up with new thinking and technology and there are areas where cuts can be made but less frontline staff who are too stretched doesn't work to provide the quality service the Council want. 1603	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	This proposal makes good sense. 1615	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	The Council need to look at all services. The "top slicing" approach to reduce Council services budgets is not working. 1626	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Please do not use Management consultancy to deliver this improvements. Having experienced this myself in Public Sector and having watched a recent investigative piece on the use of Management Consultancy firms by Councils I firmly believe that these firms will only focus on the ways that they can take money from the public sector to line their own pockets. Whether that is through "risk and reward" contracts or from technology projects that ultimately rely on management consultancies to continue to have a hold over Councils. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	TYC proposals are disproportionately aimed at customer-facing, front line staff who work with and deliver vital services to the citizens of West Lothian and in particular our most deprived communities and most vulnerable citizens. The Â£4 million budget efficiencies proposed for the central support services must be increased. Furthermore, this should be achieved through significant head count reduction rather than service redesign and use of new technology solutions, neither of which is likely to achieve any savings. 1638	An individual	1a. 1644	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Whilst many think that reviews come around every few years, the reality they are and should be part of the business process, and any business model should naturally routinely be considering opportunities particularly as situations change. The EFQM model is present in many business models and can also be seen in many technical processes. I would suggest that the WLAM process which WLC adheres to does not necessarily follow the spirit of the EFQM model; evidence is provided, analysed, picked over, and yet the current service levels and cost saving (staff/service reductions) measures appear to be founded on the ability of services to be truthful in their resource requirements and their skill in protecting and ring fencing their current staffing levels. 1645	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I would suggest that an external review of each service, and the management hierarchy, should be completed by individual competent private sector consultants. Perhaps then the correct resource levels could be established and service levels and improvements be identified.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	4. The Council is already doing this.	The Council has adopted the EFQM model for the purposes of self assessment. Any service restructure will be undertaken in accordance with the Council organisational change policy and in consultation with the recognised trade unions. The Council has developed a Corporate Workforce Plan and Service specific workforce plans which monitor staffing requirements and ensure as far as possible that staffing complements and staff skills meet the service requirements.
1646	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I would also suggest that a more business like approach would benefit the Council. For example, I understand that I can rent a community centre for a birthday party for a few pounds, which would not cover the staff or utility costs. The same is true for groups utilising Council buildings for any event. This can equally be applied to other services too. The Council should be looking to cover the costs for all events, and whilst this may be unpalatable for a few in the community who wish to continue receiving a service at minimal cost, the reality is the time has come to rebalance this expectation. Councillors need to ensure they engage in this approach also, ensuring a business approach where the budgets go where needed, and not to the detriment of the community to a few groups who shout loudest and have carried favour.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The Council is investigating all opportunities to generate or increase income from use of Council facilities.

1647	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	As part of any review I think some services could be amalgamated and even outsourced. I think there are other National organisations which may provide better hierarchal structures which warrant consideration, and may be a better fit. Any external review may identify if structures could be better realised; providing efficiencies. Many services are fragmented in several different buildings, which warrant reviewing particularly in respect of the management levels needed where this is the case (i.e. finance, social services, planning... them all). An example could also be (but not limited to) outsourcing FM services for maintenance purposes, whilst amalgamating all facilities management services into one service, and exploring efficiencies where service levels are incorrect or where outsourcing can be achieved (i.e. outsource cleaning, and get an income from catering, whilst reviewing caretaker and management levels). Lets have a balanced approach, based on a proper review, taking advantage of identified opportunities - Lets not have arbitrary cuts unnecessarily adversely affecting services.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	4. The Council is already doing this.	The Council has an existing shared service agreement with South Lanarkshire Council for a shared IT data centre and will continue to develop opportunities for further shared service arrangements with other public bodies. The Council is also progressing with West Lothian College the provision of shared services opportunities across a range of service areas.
1648	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the Council can deliver an more effective and cost effective service through the centralisation of generic tasks with the retention of specialist provision within service.
1649	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	It's a good idea as long as existing jobs can be protected and staff have the support and training to implement changes. 1650	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	As a Council employee my belief / opinion is that staff are currently under resourced and over worked, a healthy work and life balance is difficult to achieve hence I am completing this in my own time and not work time. The Council should be more open about redesign or integration if I am to comment on this.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the Council can deliver an more effective and cost effective service through the centralisation of generic tasks with the retention of specialist provision within service.
1651	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I fully support this proposal if it is done effectively with as little impact on grassroots workers as possible. In my own experience of working with the Council I have witnessed several times that a services grassroots workers are cut yet the management tier is expanded.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the Council can deliver an more effective and cost effective service through the centralisation of generic tasks with the retention of specialist provision within service.
1652	On behalf of a Group/Organisation	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Commissioning of services is something to be reviewed, as I believe it is at present. The process however, needs to be streamlined, timely, fair and transparent. large national, external agencies have the infrastructure to present tenders which may appear cheaper to deliver services, as they can absorb core costs at times, something that smaller local organisations can't do. However, local knowledge and trust is important in the delivery of services, therefore cheapest is not always the most economic, sustainable and effective.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	4. The Council is already doing this.	West Lothian Council has to comply with national and EU legislation and competitive methods are employed. All appropriate suppliers can bid and contracts are tendered taking into consideration price, quality and total cost for all products contained within the contract.
1653	An individual	1a. 1655	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I agree with all that is said in the above. However, the devil is in the detail and you do not give the full detail of what services you are proposing to change, what the financial and service delivery implications there will be, what cost/benefit analysis you are employing in order to monitor the effectiveness of any changes made, and what partner organisations you intend 'working' with and how (as opposed to just 'dumping' service needs in the hands of third parties.) Provide the information for the public to make informed decisions.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	At this stage, detailed budget reduction measures have not been developed, therefore there is no specific information on how the savings will be achieved and the timescales for delivery. 1656	On behalf of a Group/Organisation	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	It was acknowledged that West Lothian Council have an excellent reputation for services to young people and adults with additional support needs and in fact people have moved into this area because of the excellent services. Members of the forum wish to thank you for the support to their individual family members but also to the family as a whole as this allowed family members to continue to work and be a contributing member of society. However, we initially would like to remind Council and highlight the needs of the group of people we represent and ask why an accessible version of the consultation was not made available to people with learning disabilities. As not having an Easy Read version excludes people with learning disabilities taking part. Under the council's Equality Duty this should have been done as a matter of course, ensuring all members of the community can have their say, not to mention it does not recognise their Human Rights as citizens of West Lothian. This group of people with disabilities also appears to be omitted from the groups mentioned where alternative versions of the consultation paper could be distributed. Arising from discussion, members' main concerns were that it was very difficult to respond to the consultation document on the information provided opening statements only. The estimated savings under each heading are not helpful given we are not informed of the total budget whereas a % would show better indication of expectation of impact to the current budget.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Thank you for your response. The council is keen to consult with all members of the community and will endeavour to ensure that any future documents communicating key messages or seeking feedback on council proposals are available in accessible format.
1657	No Response	1a. 1659	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Reviews of all services must be urgently carried out. No service should be exempt. There must be enough key staff in IT and legal services to assist with the required reforms of processes. The Council like many public sector organizations has lacked proper modernization and investment. How much does it cost to continually recruit professionals and to outsource those roles when we can't attract qualified staff as we aren't paying enough. Sometimes you need to spend to save. Keeping cutting staff without counting the real cost is wrong.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	8. This suggestion is out with the responsibility of West Lothian Council. Where relevant, we will forward these comments to our partner organisations.	The Council recognises the importance of central support services in the development and delivery of transformed Council services. The Council is subject to national pay bargaining and the salary scales for officers are determined nationally. The Council is subject to national pay bargaining, and terms and conditions.

1664	An individual	1a. 1667	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Job security for all Council employees must be of high importance.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	7. The respondent's comment was either not relevant to the question, inappropriate and/or contained personal and sensitive information.	The Council has been able to delivery significant budget reductions in the last 10 years without the requirement for compulsory redundancies. The scale of the further reductions required over the next five years will be challenging and the Council will seek to use the existing range of workforce management and organisational change policies to deliver the required reductions in staffing numbers.
1668	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I think the Council needs to overhaul of governance and, in particular, performance systems. There is too much time spent on things like WLAM and Covalent. Cumbersome systems and recording data, most of which has no value to anyone. There is less staff now. The Council needs to modernise and ensure that managers and staff spend time on delivering services. Performance is important but the Council is in danger of spending more time logging in and out of systems and writing reports than it does delivering outcomes. The culture needs to look at that culture and change with the times. We can't do all that we used to do. That goes for internal systems and processes also.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	7. The respondent's comment was either not relevant to the question, inappropriate and/or contained personal and sensitive information. 1680	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I think this is an area where a lot of savings could be made as long as the Council employs consultants whose aim is to actually help the Council and leave it in a better position, with the tools that it needs in order to carry on with any changes made. The Council employees need to be part of the change process and own the changes, rather than change being imposed upon them. The employees know where they waste time and where their jobs could be made more efficient, they just need the permission to get on and do it. In this way, the change is more likely to be successful and sustained, with the attendant savings being realised.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. 1690	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I agree to some extent for a customer's point of view as at present customers have to contact each department when requesting an answer to their enquiry or enquiries, however, staff cannot possibly know all of the answers for many questions that a customer will want the answer to as you require, hence the reason we have a Customer Service Unit, where they contact the department concerned to get the correct answer for the customer. If specialised departments are integrated such as IT services, Benefits, Advice Shop, Council Tax and Education, all of which are a support function to a wider Council service, then staff with the knowledge would be diluted, which would not be the answer for the customer. Also Revenues are scrutinised by the Department of Work and Pensions and Central and Scottish Government for performance and this support must be kept local and not Council wide. 1700	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Process improvements and redesign of service delivery is to be welcomed.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the Council can deliver an more effective and cost effective service through the centralisation of generic tasks, use of technology and retention of specialist provision within service.
1701	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Bulletin is a good magazine. Protect that In tough times, communicating with people becomes more important. 1702	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	The above statement is very wide and does not identify which areas, or where reducing management would take place. From my experience it is all very well to reduce staffing for example as long as someone else does not end up doing the extra workload to compensate. This only ends up with overworked, stressed staff who then end up going off sick and the work not being done which leads to poor customer relations. More detail is required for me to give a better answer to this proposal.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the Council can deliver an more effective and cost effective service through the centralisation of generic tasks, use of technology and retention of specialist provision within service.
1703	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	In theory this sounds good. However, though streamlining in the short term may reduce costs, it does not always take into account the full impact financially due to the loss of expertise through skilled and experienced practitioners.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the Council can deliver an more effective and cost effective service through the centralisation of generic tasks, use of technology and retention of specialist provision within service.
1704	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Agree with statement Why not in future state a percentage for savings rather than a figure of estimated savings in a total annual budget spend for the particular item	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the Council can deliver an more effective and cost effective service through the centralisation of generic tasks, use of technology and retention of specialist provision within service.

Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	7. The respondent's comment was either not relevant to the question, inappropriate and/or contained personal and sensitive information.	The council is consulting with staff, residents and trade unions on the proposals.

1707	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	You are a Council living on benefits. Westminster have had to do this to help the bankers, etc keep the lifestyle they are used to. To achieve this, someone has to pay. The people of West Lothian have no choice but to accept your cuts. They will have to pay that price. I don't eny the task you have in front of you, so many people are going to suffer - It's not going to be nice. Think you could start with the top tier of Council employees. a) Are there too many? b) Do we really need them? c) What do they actually do? Good Luck! 1708	On behalf of a Group/Organisation	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	To increase efficiency and effectiveness and the ongoing search for and eradication of duplication is a management function in any organisation. It was stated at our meeting that industry uses lean thinking and zero based costing in which each functional activity has to bid for resources commencing from a zero cost base. Often this activity may result in a requirement for more training but would certainly result in more interesting jobs. Individual front-line workers should be given more responsibility to deal with local areas, instead of having inefficient ever-larger work squads.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the Council can deliver an more effective and cost effective service through the centralisation of generic tasks, use of technology and retention of specialist provision within service.

1709	On behalf of a Group/Organisation	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	It was also stated at our meeting that over the period of Delivering Better Outcomes minimal overall staff reductions had been achieved although very large and noticeable cuts in front-line services had taken place. We suggest that all functions of the Council which are entirely or largely office-based should be subject to a root and branch review. A £4 million reduction in staff costs represents 100 jobs over 5 years, about what could be achieved by natural wastage on a staff of 8,000. A more realistic target is 5 times that amount with a £20 million saving.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the Council can deliver an more effective and cost effective service through the centralisation of generic tasks, use of technology and retention of specialist provision within service.
1710	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	An unenviable task and there are bound to be winners and losers and perhaps all sectors need to take their share of cuts. 1711	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	How can we make comments about different areas of the Council when we don't know about all the cuts for each department. Will West Lothian Council have another restructuring what is the future of the work force when generic working is introduced? Will redundancies be on the way? How many more WLC departments can cope with more cuts to them	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	3. The respondent advised that they had no comment to make.	At this stage, detailed budget reduction measures have not been developed, therefore there is no specific information on how the savings will be achieved and the timescales for delivery. This will become clearer as the measures progress following the consultation process and approval of the Council's budget strategy.
1712	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Services are being modernised and the workforce is generally good. However, the number of Councillors needs streamlining. Lets not move unfit promoted people to another lower post on full pay. If they are unfit, they are unfit.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	8. This suggestion is out with the responsibility of West Lothian Council. Where relevant, we will forward these comments to our partner organisations.	The number of Councillors and wards is determined by the Boundary Commission.
1713	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	If West Lothian Council has to save £73 million, why, at this time was the Council logo changed? Does this mean that stationery, uniforms, signs and vehicles will require the logo to be changed? How much will this cost? Who made the decision to make this change at this time?	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	7. The respondent's comment was either not relevant to the question, inappropriate and/or contained personal and sensitive information.	The Council's new logo was developed internally at no cost to the Council. This was the first change to the Council logo in 20 years. The logo shall be changed on Council publications and equipment as and when these require to be renewed.
1714	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Make the big decisions that's what you were elected to do. Do not pass the buck to the public, who have enough on their plate without making decisions for sit on the fence Councillors.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	7. The respondent's comment was either not relevant to the question, inappropriate and/or contained personal and sensitive information.	Thank you for your response. Your comment has been noted
1715	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Ensure the Council has the best systems to deliver the maximum efficiencies. Review the whole profile of the Council, consider the priorities and make cuts according to priorities (not top slicing or a recruitment freeze - you lose all your best staff).	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the Council can deliver an more effective and cost effective service through the centralisation of generic tasks, use of technology and retention of specialist provision within service.
1716	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Too hard to read all of this and too hard to comment. Not good for people with disabilities / mental health.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	3. The respondent advised that they had no comment to make.	Thank you for your response. Your comment has been noted
1717	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Since staffing is the biggest component of the budget then much greater savings need to be found from this area to make inroads into the unallocated savings of £10.4 identified in 1H.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Thank you for your response. Your comment has been noted
1718	On behalf of a Group/Organisation	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	We don't want frontline staff cut, we want and need to communicate with humans, not IT as many of us can't use IT or libraries many of which have already been cut.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	Experience has demonstrated that the council can deliver an more effective and cost effective service through the centralisation of generic tasks, use of technology and retention of specialist provision within service. His model still allows the opportunity for staff to engage with council officers on a face to face basis at the most effective and convenient level.
1719	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I believe Council staff could be looked at and better managed. Councillors pay, allowances should be reviewed. No Councilor should be in full time employment as well as being paid as a Councillor.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	8. This suggestion is out with the responsibility of West Lothian Council. Where relevant, we will forward these comments to our partner organisations.	Councillors remunerations and expenses are determined by the Scottish Government.

1720	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Not clear to staff on how they will be specifically affected. Is there going to be more restructuring within the council.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	3. The respondent advised that they had no comment to make. 1721	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Apply to all measures - how many people will you be making redundant, even it its "voluntary" including schools? What steps were taken to ensure that the relevant decision makers had regard for equality duty?	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	7. The respondent's comment was either not relevant to the question, inappropriate and/or contained personal and sensitive information.	The Council has been able to delivery significant budget reductions in the last 10 years without the requirement for compulsory redundancies. The scale of the further reductions required over the next five years will be challenging and the Council will seek to use the existing range of workforce management and organisational change policies to deliver the required reductions in staffing numbers. All measures are assessed in terms of the impact on persons with protected characteristics.
1722	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Reduce the number of performance officers and their salaries and transfer routine functions to services.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	7. The respondent's comment was either not relevant to the question, inappropriate and/or contained personal and sensitive information.	The council has a number of systems and processes in place which are essential to enable the council to monitor and report service performance and efficiency. The council's performance officers support services to conduct self assessment and business analysis to ensure that the council continues to deliver best value.
1723	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Reduce stress and sickens through accidents travelling to work and save electricity and pc costs to boost morale.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	4. The council is already doing this.	The council has an IT infrastructure which supports working from home and individuals working from various council sites throughout West Lothian. The opportunity to work on a mobile and flexible basis continues to be available to staff.
1724	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Stop changing council branding...in the last 3 years you have changed your logo 5 times from the original 1996 version!!! Each time you have to update signs, flags, ID cards, liveries, etc. Stop printing a full colour bulletin for every household...colour front page then black and white would be fine! Stop wasting money on silly things and spend it on the important things!	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	7. The council's new logo was developed internally at no cost to the council. This was the first change to the council logo in 20 years. 1725	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Restrict all learning courses to those who require it, and anyone who takes any course/learning opportunity should be reviewed to see if they can make a contribution to costs.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	4. The council is already doing this.	Employees are the council's most important asset and the council will continue to invest in training and development of employees but ensure that learning and development is relevant to the job being undertaken.
1726	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Bring in project managers with proven track records to manage projects to reduce over runs	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	4. 1727	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Ban the use of contractors within the council. Train procurement staff properly so that they can negotiate the best deals possible. Make bulk purchases for geographical location across councils to achieve economies of scale. Promote volunteer opportunities.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The Corporate Procurement Unit supports services to undertake procurement exercises in a way that is consistent with standing orders and legislation. Corporate Procurement is committed to providing information and support to improve users knowledge of procurement processes. The council will continue to use internal services to deliver services. The Council engages external contractors where required for specialist works. This approach will continue to ensure best value use of resources available within the council.

Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Review management spans and layers with view to reduce Introduce Self/Service / AI for Customer queries	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	1. This ensures that the council continues to operate with an effective and efficient managerial structure.
1732	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Ways of working - Lean/Systems Thinking	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	4. The council is already doing this.	The council has adopted the EFQM model for the purposes of self assessment and implements LEAN/Systems Thinking in development/delivery of council services.
1733	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Could easily be black and white and household s could opt into an electronic copy	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (General)	5c. It is proposed that this suggestion is not taken forward because it is not consistent with the council's values and priorities. 1739	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	We need to foster a culture of collective responsibility in west lothian- service providers do not work well in partnership with each other and waste time, therefore money blaming each other when things go wrong rather than trying to find a collective solution. 1746	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	It is good that the Council are building more homes for the elderly and it would be nice if there were more for disabled adults. They will eventually need accommodation when their parents are no longer able to provide it. Of course technology won't work for everyone and they may need permanent support.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (Housing, Construction & Building Services)	4. The council is already doing this.	As part of the council's new build programme a variety of different council house types are being built to meet the requirements of all of our tenants and potential tenants
1747	No Response	1a. 1753	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Also housing for the over 50's is required. Many over 50's have children who have moved out but they continue to stay in 3 and 4 bedroom houses on their own because their is a shortage of housing for that age group. I have a 4 bedroom council house, I stay on my own but I would love to live somewhere smaller. I don't want to risk moving to a 1 bedroomed flat for fear I will have young people who blare music. A development aimed at over 50's would give me confidence to move and remove my fear. my 4 bedroomed property should have a family staying in it.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (Housing, Construction & Building Services)	5c. It is proposed that this suggestion is not taken forward because it is not consistent with the council's values and priorities.	Increasing the availability of good quality, affordable accommodation in West Lothian remains a key priority for WLC. Our new build programme is carefully designed to build and support mixed and thriving communities that meet the needs of all our tenants and potential tenants. This means that communities are home to people with a wide diversity of ages, families, individuals and from a range of backgrounds. This prevents people from becoming socially excluded and encourages communities that are inclusive places to live. We build properties that seek to support older people to live independently in their homes for longer, and we enable mutual exchanges and downsizing assistance for those looking to move somewhere more suitable for their needs. WLC provides purpose build supported and sheltered accommodation for older people who need more intensive support.

1755	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Within Housing - All housing officers should be in control of their own allocations for void properties at the local area housing office where they have extensive knowledge of stock, area, tenants and property type - this would allow for less duplication - reducing the need to send this information to a third party, it would allow for better use of stock - ensuring that families are matched to suitable homes reducing the need and costs for a move on due to be housed in unsuitable accommodation. It would reduce the costs associated with aids and adaptations and the needless costs to remove aids and adaptations from properties. It would allow for greater stability within communities which would reduce costs associated with anti social behaviour. It would also allow provide the ability to generate several moves based on local knowledge which would mean more people on the housing lists needs could be met. It would also allow for increased interaction re arrears/ debts at the early stages of allocation allowing greater opportunity to reduce arrears and ensure tenancy sustainment. It is proposed that this suggestion is not taken forward because it is not consistent with the council's values and priorities.	In order to meet the increasing demand for housing in West Lothian, it is necessary to make best use of good quality housing available where there is no council stock available. This occasionally means working with private landlords to meet the demand, this represents a very small proportion of the allocations of housing that the service makes.
1758	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Building services tradesmen could work in non Council properties and charge a fee, give half to the council (done as OT).	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (Housing, Construction & Building Services)	5b. It is proposed that this suggestion is not taken forward because it is likely that the costs of this proposal would outweigh the benefit.	The costs and liabilities of providing a repairs service to non-tenants in a competitive market does not represent good value for money for tenants - the income generated from their rent payments must be used to benefit tenants only.
1759	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	All you seem to be building are houses, theres not enough space. Two storey flats are just as good. Stop wasting public money.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (Housing, Construction & Building Services)	7. The respondent's comment was either not relevant to the question, inappropriate and/or contained personal and sensitive information.	There is a mix of house types within the new build programme. The funding for this programme comes directly from the income generated by the rent paid by WLC tenants.

1760	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	The council changed from Mira to Triton showers to save money, did they factor in the tiling that was needed now with a shower change as they are different sizes / designs?. Same applies to the various accessories we fit, cheaper and poorer in quality seems to be the order of the day, there should be a happy middle ground. We have team coordinators who are inept and under qualified at the jobs they do. 1761	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I believe the workforce is stretched already. Repairs appointments are continually booked out of target. Trades have retired or left and are no longer replaced due to budget cuts. As this appears to be the way the council is going to operate from now on Senior Management need to make tenants aware of exactly what they are entitled to as council tenants believe if they ask they should get. This has been backed by our councillors over the passed 10 years also. Until this mind set is resolved we are going to fail to provide a basic service. 1766	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	More re-charge of repairs to tenants. Remove some of the repairs service that WLC currently deliver e.g. we should not be fitting internal pass doors to tenants houses (unless elderly or disabled) but yet hundreds (over 1,000 job lines) have been raised for this type of repair alone for WLC properties with very little being re-charged. Review all types of repairs and be more firm on what repairs should be carried out and in addition what should be re-charged. Remove the common stair cleaning service that is provided to common stair properties and make this the responsibility of the tenants in the block. 1786	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	The additional income would be found by reviewing current policies such as; 1. Changing the current housing allocations policy so that anyone who has a debt to the local authority is bypassed on the housing list. This would not only free up valuable housing stock thus reducing homelessness costs, but would encourage increased revenue in to WLC. As it stands just now, in a mutual housing exchange, if either party has rent arrears this would not go ahead. Why should that be different to the current housing allocation policy whereby people can still move in to a new home even if they have current rent arrears or historic corporate debt to WLC.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (Housing, Construction & Building Services)	6. This is a positive suggestion. Officers will consider how this could be developed. 1787	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	2. Changing the current housing KPI on rent arrears. As former tenancy arrears are not reported on (but are still a corporate debt). This would avoid tenancy turnover costs, increased legal costs through cases being sent to court and would significantly reduce the costs to the homelessness service in WLC. As it stands at present, a tenant could be evicted through the court process for rent arrears of say £1500 only to be rehoused via the homelessness service. If children are involved then Shelter Scotland has estimated that this original debt would cost the local authority homelessness service about 15 to 20 times more than the original debt owed. This is all due to the current rent arrears KPI and the pressure on housing staff to reduce this target.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (Housing, Construction & Building Services)	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	The service has a duty both legally, and to our tenants as a responsible social landlord to ensure robust income management processes and targets are in place, and that we strive to meet them. As we are regulated on our performance on both current and former rent arrears, enforcement of this is a legal duty. Our focus on this key area of performance ensures the continued affordability of rents and service charges, and our ability to continue to fund, and provide the services we offer and the good quality housing that we strive to ensure for our tenants. Court action is not the desired outcome under any circumstances, and there are significant resources dedicated to the provision of support to avoid this scenario, however the recovery of current and former tenant debt will remain a service priority, particularly with the threat of further UK Government welfare reforms to our income.

1790	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	It is fair that those who can afford it contribute, but people could be more able to move into suitable accommodation if pensioner style accommodation had not been sold off. In terms of a housing shortage a cap on rents charged by private landlords would go a long way to solving a problem. THEY SHOULD NOT BE ALLOWED TO CHARGE MORE THAN THE COUNCIL FOR SIMILAR ACCOMODATION	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (Housing, Construction & Building Services)	8. This suggestion is out with the responsibility of West Lothian Council. Where relevant, we will forward these comments to our partner organisations.	Right to Buy' was abolished for all council and housing association tenants in Scotland on 31 July 2016 through a change to the primary housing legislation - the Housing (Scotland) Act 2014. WLC was duty bound to abide by this legislation and enable the sale of a council owned property of the tenant was entitled to this. Increasing the availability of good quality, affordable accommodation in West Lothian remains a key priority for WLC. With the abolition of right to buy this year, our investment in stock will see the count of council owned housing stock increase. We will continue to deliver the new build programme whilst seeking to improve all communities fairly across the region, including those areas which have lacked investment and are in need of regeneration. In terms of the private sector, again, WLC must abide by the relevant legislation and imposing a rent cap on private landlords is not within our power. They have the ability to charge whatever rent they choose. We do work closely with private landlords through our administration of the Private Landlord Registration Scheme which encourages responsible landlords, good quality private housing at affordable rents.
1791	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Although I support the increase in Council Tax, there are other opportunities for savings which have not been identified within this consultation. The council currently provides emergency homeless accommodation in hotels and B&B's throughout the area, these individuals are not currently charged for the time spent in these properties at significant cost to the local authority. Any rental liability raised for these periods would be eligible for Housing Benefit which if the rental charge levied was set at a reasonable level would protect the most vulnerable. This is effectively additional funding available on application. Although the introduction of Universal Credit would impact this it is considered highly likely that legislation will be passed which will mean that rental costs for homeless accommodation will remain eligible for Housing Benefit.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (Housing, Construction & Building Services)	4. The council is already doing this.	The service is currently considering a range of options for future service developments in light of the pressures on the service in terms of increased demand for accommodation, budget constraints, and the potential impact of impending welfare reforms on our processes and procedures.

I do prearranged work everyday where a tenant has said ok to us entering their home to carry out renovations but when we show up we are denied access or they don't answer the door, can we not claim money from them not making an appointment? In the private sector landlords specify non smokers only, can't the council introduce a similar policy? 1799	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Increase contributions (rent?) made by those living in council housing. Have those exempt totally from council tax pay something towards it as they avail of all the services the council provieds.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (Housing, Construction & Building Services)	4. The council is already doing this.	The amount of rent that tenants are charged for is based on affordability, tenant views on the rent they pay, and the cost of maintaining existing properties to a high standard. As the cost of goods and services increase, and the demand for new affordable homes increases, we occasionally have to reflect that in the rent that is charged through a modest increase. Our aim is to continue to provide good value for money on rent in comparison to other landlords, whilst improving the standard and availability of affordable accommodation in West Lothian. Income generated from rents can only be used to benefit council tenants. HCBS does not generate income via council tax as this is collected separately and used for the funding of other council services.

Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (Housing, Construction & Building Services)	4. The council is already doing this. 1813	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	The council keep making changes they made changes a year past in April to Community Centre taking away the Centre Co ordinators which was a vital role within a community Centre for the customer.They brought in a Servcie support officer replacing the Co ordinator and they created a post for a Team manager which Centre never had before if they take away the Team Managers and SDO post they created they would save around 2.5million over 5 years	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (Housing, Construction & Building Services)	4. The council is already doing this.	HCBS carefully monitor the performance of all aspects of our service, including customer demand and use of our services and facilities. This helps to guide improvements and offers us opportunities to modernise the way in which we deliver services to customers. This allows us to achieve better value for money.
1814	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Stop decorating and furnishing council houses.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (Housing, Construction & Building Services)	5a. It is proposed that this suggestion is not taken forward because the council is required by law to deliver this work.	Thank you for your comments. Furnishings are only provided for homeless tenants who pay a charge for this provision.
1815	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Boarded up council houses should be a priority for repair and should be rented out ASAP to increase revenue	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (Housing, Construction & Building Services)	4. The council is already doing this.	Thank you for your comments. The quick turnover of void properties are a priority for the service, occasionally large scale repairs are required before the property is of the required standard and can be re-let.
1816	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Reduction in frequency of replacement kitchens / bathrooms / windows for council tenants. 1817	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Why do Building services not work a two shift pattern, Day shift - 8-4 pm / Back shift 12 - 8pm, far too often time is wasted when a tradesman arrives at a building, to effect a repair, only to be told that the level of disruption cannot be justified during office hours that this should be carried out after office hours, which clashes as the trades persons who also only work 9 -5 pm. total luxury and misuse of trade resources	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (Housing, Construction & Building Services)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Building Services will continue to review our operational performance and the workforce planning arrangements we use to deliver this to tenants to ensure we provide value for money, service improvements, and streamlining of our processes. Your feedback and suggestion will be passed to the service manager leading on this work, thank you.
1818	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	It is good that the Council are building more homes for the elderly and it would be nice if there were more for disabled adults. They will eventually need accommodation when their parents are no longer able to provide it. Of course technology won't work for everyone and they may need permanent support.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (Housing, Construction & Building Services)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Increasing the availability of good quality, affordable accommodation in West Lothian remains a key priority for WLC. Our new build programme is carefully designed to build and support mixed and thriving communities that meet the needs of all our tenants and potential tenants. This means that communities are home to people with a wide diversity of ages, families, individuals and from a range of backgrounds. This prevents people from becoming socially excluded and encourages communities that are inclusive places to live. We build properties that seek to support older people to live independently in their homes for longer, and we enable mutual exchanges and downsizing assistance for those looking to move somewhere more suitable for their needs. WLC provides purpose build supported and sheltered accommodation for older people who need more intensive support. Part of the planning process of our new build programme included representatives from Disability West Lothian to ensure we factored in the needs of disabled tenants to provide accommodation that enables, and encourages fully independent living

1836	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	You state that the Council's largest cost is labour. No doubt true. Important savings can be made by applying efficient management of Manpower in Council Services, I think its called Development Services. I draw your attention to the following which demonstrate poor and inefficient management, even to the most uninformed in mangement. 1. It is a disgrace that it takes 2 men and a vehicle to change a plastic bag in a waste bin. the immediate savings that can be made are obvious. 2. During the summer months in particular, I regularly see development Services vehicles parked in discrete locations at around 8,30 am with 2, 3 or even 4 men inside the cab reading newspapers, playing games on a phone?, or eating. I pass them regularly on foot walking to collect my newspaper. As a taxpayer I am appalled by this disgraceful "scrounging" and lack of management. 1838	An individual	1a. 1843	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	As both a West Lothian resident and employee, one of the biggest drains on our funds is the DLO. Their services in my opinion are vastly overpriced and not to the standard available from the private sector. There is a large push put on us to 'make best use of internal resources' but I don't feel that using them for work is the best use of resources as the work they do is generally not up to standard and has to be done more than once! 1844	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	What service redesign? There is no detail available. Productivity and attendance of workforce could be maximised as could the use of council equipment (see operational services gully cleaning equipped lorries that are underused). Infrastructure services such as roads and highways should be merged with other LAs for economies of scale or, if contracted to AMEY or others - based upon clear contract specs with sanctions written in for failure. 1846	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. 1847	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Not sure its the internal functions that need to be redesigned - what about looking at the efficiencies of the functions that are delivering the services themselves. Good recent example of this for me was when i was playing golf at the Balbardie 9 hole course and came across 4 of your parks attendants strimming an area of rough on the side of the 6th hole. I played the whole course and they had cleared an area of less than 10m square and also had almost a 1hr break (i know this as i watched them as a played the 5,6,7,8& 9th holes. This isn't efficient working and feels more like jobs for the boys !	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (Operational Services)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal. 1848	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Hi Following the briefings I have receive this week I would like to raise the point/s below Given the potential severity of implications attached to saving 73m over the next 5 years could I ask if ALL non-statutory services will be identified as areas for reduction or even sacrifice to ensure the maximum protection is afforded to maintain the essential and already strained statutory services. In my own service area the example I would give is The School Crossing Patrol service I do think this service is very important and can fully understand where there is sufficient evidence of need relating to the route or traffic volumes that this service is maintained, however I don't think where we have crossing guides placed at sites which have existing 24/7 provision via a pelican or puffin crossing with a green man the service should not continue. Having both a green man and a crossing guide in the same location contravenes the ROSPA national guidelines which advises against this practice as it causes dangerous confusion for both pedestrians and drivers (do you take direction from the lights or the crossing guide) this practice should be streamlined to make savings where the duplication exists and deploy these resources to fill the vacant posts where they are need most reducing the overall number of guides and make savings wherever possible.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (Operational Services)	6. This is a positive suggestion. Officers will consider how this could be developed.	Thank you for your response. 1849	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	On top of this with slight investment it better plant/materials we could reduce or use or external contractors and regular repairs due to inferior products. 1850	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Generic email to the council does not work. If you have such huge email data base, why on Earth you cannot send pre-alerts that BINS WILL or WILL NOT BE collected on for example windy day. You look for savings, but NOBODY bothered to pick you food waste bins from our street and council website did not say anything, when you are going do to so, therefore our food waste bag landed in the landfill bin. Is it that difficult to provide such automated system. I can leave the bin for another day, but what if it was not emptied?	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (Operational Services)	6. Stop the practice of returning to each depot well before the shift ends. Employee a few staff per service on a Thursday - Monday basis to reduce overtime costs. 1857	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	This comment applies to many sections in this document - anywhere where the words 'redesign', 'rationalisation', 'restructure' 'streamlining' are included. The saving is given but not the current spend, or the cost required to achieve the 4 million, or the time for return on investment. I am puzzled that after 10 years of cuts the service is thought to still have enough fat to achieve this saving without impact on service. There is a lot of building going on in WL. If the current funding (even with the resulting increase in council tax) is not sufficient to cater for the increased population this expansion should be stopped, or the developers charged to cover the cost.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (Planning & Economic Development)	4. The council is already doing this.	Part of the planning process and approval is to factor in developer contributions which are used to pay for increased vital council services.
1858	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	House builders should be asked to contribute more towards our services. They are having a big impact on the number of residents in the area.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (Planning & Economic Development)	4. The council is already doing this.	Part of the planning process and approval is to factor in developer contributions which are used to pay for increased vital council services.
1859	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Why have the developers not been made to contribute more to the related services?	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (Planning & Economic Development)	8. This suggestion is out with the responsibility of West Lothian Council. Where relevant, we will forward these comments to our partner organisations.	The council seeks to secure developer contributions to capital works where that work is required as a direct result of a development proposal. However, the council cannot ask developers to meet the revenue costs of running a service including internal council services.
1860	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	It is important to recognise that public perception of what is important does not always recognise services which operate and provide services which significantly benefit health and wellbeing. Food safety, air quality, water, public health, pest control etc. are all delivered for the benefit of wider community. Reducing and removing such services will increase detrimental factors to public health and our communities. Sadly it will be when things get bad, people get hurt, or worse, that people will recognise their importance.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (Planning & Economic Development)	4. The council is already doing this.	The council will continue to deliver its core responsibilities include its statutory duties and obligations. However, it is important that these duties are undertaken effectively and efficiently and any reviews will seek to ensure that this is the case.
1861	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Measures in support of commerce must surely feature highly in the council's thinking. There is a ratio between turnover in the industrial & commercial sector and the jobs that these generate. Employment means prosperity and prosperity leads to wellbeing and diminishes the need for external support from local government services thus freeing up budget for needy areas which do not benefit from the employment sector.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (Planning & Economic Development)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Thank you for your response. Your comment has been noted. It is proposed that supporting business and economic growth in West Lothian, and helping people into employment, will remain as priorities for the council in the future.

1862	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Look for more to be done to ensure housing developers are keeping to promises for funding to local communities in which they are building - for example school buildings in Winchburgh	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (Planning & Economic Development)	4. The council is already doing this.	The council continues to require developers to meet the cost of additional infrastructure necessary to support development proposals. In some instances works may need to be forward funded by the council but the requirement for developers to meet the capital and borrowing costs will be retained.
1863	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Increase employment opportunities by having major employers locate to West Lothian	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (Planning & Economic Development)	4. The council is already doing this.	The council will continue to promote West Lothian as a place for employers to establish and grow businesses.
1864	No Response	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Generic email to the council does not work. Nobody bothered to reply to me from planning team either, so why they do not reply? Please ask them, not me.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (Planning & Economic Development)	3. The respondent advised that they had no comment to make.	Thank you for your response. Your comment has been noted
1865	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	In the detail provided in pages 6 to 10 there are a number of items that I will highlight upon. In general, the emphasis is on cost saving issues. However to achieve these savings, the council will need to provide funds, especially "further use of technology". For example: The new Planning Act 2017 will propose many procedures in Planning functions that will involve additional funds to implement staff training in new uses of technology, empowering the community, improved online access and communications, etc.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (Planning & Economic Development)	4. The council is already doing this.	The council will continue to support staff in order to respond to changes in procedures and priorities.
1866	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Planning services - Do we need a planning service function and if so why? European countries do not have this function and this is left to Communities to manage to a degree. Although this will involve significant behavioural and cultural change the benefits would be significant if planned and executed correctly.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (Planning & Economic Development)	5a. It is proposed that this suggestion is not taken forward because the council is required by law to deliver this work.	The requirements for a planning system in Scotland are defined by legislation. The council will, however, continue to work within the legislative framework to ensure that the legislative requirements are delivered as efficiently and effectively as possible.
1867	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	What provision is council making for ever increasing population demands with ever increasing private house developments. I commend the council for keeping your citizens involved in decision making. However it is a pointless exercise if council don't act on proposals.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (Planning & Economic Development)	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The council's budget model takes into account anticipated future demographic pressures.
1868	On behalf of a Group/Organisation	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	As a manager, I am involved in many partnership meetings, although beneficial for sharing information, there are many of us attending a lot of meetings, costing time and money. Attention should be given to streamlining and combining some of these. For example many organisations are attending a large number of Regeneration meetings, I understand the need to involve community members and organisations in the consultation and implementation process of the Community Empowerment Act and regeneration of communities, however, it is costing a lot of time and money.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (Planning & Economic Development)	6. This is a positive suggestion. Officers will consider how this could be developed.	The relative merits of a range of approaches to partnership working will be explored as part of the work on this proposal.
1869	An employee of West Lothian Council	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I'd suggest that too much time and effort is spent on community planning. Nobody actually has a clue what it is or what it achieves. What does it actually deliver?	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (Planning & Economic Development)	5c. It is proposed that this suggestion is not taken forward because it is not consistent with the council's values and priorities.	The council will continue to support community groups and organisations. However, support will be focused on the priority areas identified in the Transforming Your Council consultation. Support will also be focused on those groups and organisations which can demonstrate the greatest impact on the overall priorities. □
1870	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	improve job opportunities reduce those on housing benefits, rent benefits etc etc etc save money there.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (Planning & Economic Development)	4. The council is already doing this.	The council will continue to promote West Lothian as a place for businesses to locate and grow and to focus on maximising job opportunities in West Lothian.
1871	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Could use more volunteers which helps gain experience for people out of work	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (Planning & Economic Development)	6. This is a positive suggestion. Officers will consider how this could be developed.	The council will continue to work with third sector and voluntary groups in order to maximise the opportunities for volunteering.

1872	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Removal of red tape to allow more community support via volunteering, raising funds, donation from developers etc for local services.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (Planning & Economic Development)	6. This is a positive suggestion. Officers will consider how this could be developed.	The council will continue to support community groups and organisations. This will include continuing to work with groups and organisations to explore alternative funding streams.
1873	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	The Council should at least double its aspiration for income during the financial plan period. Things to consider are: Lobby the Scottish Government for an immediate increase in planning fees, particularly for major projects, such that Development Management becomes self-funding.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (Planning & Economic Development)	6. This is a positive suggestion. Officers will consider how this could be developed.	The council has responded to the consultation on the review of the planning system and will continue to press for increases at every opportunity.
1874	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Bring more businesses, companies, events, festivals to the west lothian and by charging them for use of facilities etc we can create an income + the gov should help the west lothian to flourish like Edinburgh or Glasgow cities	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (Planning & Economic Development)	6. This is a positive suggestion. Officers will consider how this could be developed.	The council will explore options to attract new events and build upon existing events such as Party in the Palace, the annual music festival in Linlithgow
1875	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I would ensure that Development Planning is fully resourced so that infrastructure improvements associated with growth is achieved as far as possible, while being fair and reasonable can justifiably be made with developer obligations.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (Planning & Economic Development)	4. The council is already doing this.	The level of resources in each service area will be matched to the workloads in those teams. It is likely that changes to the development planning system will be progressed through the forthcoming Planning Bill and this may impact on the work carried out in the team. Securing appropriate developer contributions will continue to be a focus of the work in Planning Services.
1876	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	Perhaps if some limits to development were put throughout West Lothian not so very much money would be needed. There is rather a spawl of development all over the place. Do we really need so much? The more roads that are built the more cars which means the more maintenance by the Council. Of course it also means more damage to the environment. What about really pushing the use of public transport? The more houses built means more people who will demand services which the Council will have to pay for. All this activity damages our natural environment - we will never get it back!! It is important to look further and at the bigger picture. It hopefully is not immediate but a rise in illness will occur with too much development ect...	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (Planning & Economic Development)	4. The council is already doing this.	As part of the council's Local Development Plan and planning process and approval all aspects of the proposed development are considered including the impact on the environment and other council services.
1877	An individual	1a. Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation	I wonder if the council could encourage private builders to build some bungalows which would be attractive to older people. I notice some have been built in "heartlands" whitburn and in Blackridge. Is some bungalows were available it would enable older residents in large houses to downsize, making more family homes available and also enable older people to prepare for perhaps care at home in the future. I am not talking about one bedroom tiny bungalows but perhaps similar to those in whitburn and blackridge which would be owner occupied- not council houses. I really feel this would enable older people to remain in their own homes rather that require to go it care homes in the future.	Service Redesign, Integration & Modernisation (Planning & Economic Development)	4. The council is already doing this.	As part of the council's Local Development Plan and planning process and approval private builders are required to build a number of different house types to cater for a variety of needs and requirements. This is also very much the case for all council built new properties as well.

1976	An individual	1b. 2050	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Business Support Managers are a fundamental part of the running a school. It is the Head Teacher's job to help to facilitate children's learning and support both staff and children - not managing funding.	Business support managers	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	Headteachers are expected to exercise a high degree of autonomy and responsibility for all areas of school life, and increases are anticipated as part of the national governance review. The clear direction of travel nationally is for increased decision making and therefore responsibility and accountability at school level, and so national development may start to increase bureaucracy again, as tasks previously centralised are devolved.
2052	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	This is all very well if the head teachers are able to manage funding. Our local primary has playground bins to throw at people, but no books.	Business support managers	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Headteachers are expected to exercise a high degree of autonomy and responsibility for all areas of school life, and increases are anticipated as part of the national governance review. This reflects the freedom Headteachers have to prioritise within their own budgets.
2053	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Business support for schools is essential as HTs are over stretched trying to keep education viable with shortage of staff already. If they have to take on the responsibilities of business support in addition, you will lose some excellent people from the council.	Business support managers	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	Headteachers are expected to exercise a high degree of autonomy and responsibility for all areas of school life, and increases are anticipated as part of the national governance review. The clear direction of travel nationally is for increased decision making and therefore responsibility and accountability at school level, and so national development may start to increase bureaucracy again, as tasks previously centralised are devolved.
2054	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Even with the present support services it is my experience that Head Teachers do not make advised decisions and it is always helpful to have officers who can arbitrate and measure quality in the decisions made before it is to late,as is the case if it has to wait on a school failing an inspection	Business support managers	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	Headteachers are expected to exercise a high degree of autonomy and responsibility for all areas of school life, and increases are anticipated as part of the national governance review. The clear direction of travel nationally is for increased decision making and therefore responsibility and accountability at school level, and so national development may start to increase bureaucracy again, as tasks previously centralised are devolved.
2055	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Restructuring of management will have a harsh effect on schools especially in additional needs school where a lot of staff are already stretched to the limit and putting in over and above there hours as it is. .	Business support managers	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	The Council must consider budget reductions across the whole range of its activities, and within all groups of staff, and prioritise appropriately..

2059	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Head teachers and senior staff within the school team can be responsible for budgeting for their school, and make best use of all resources. I have witnessed a local school giving way boxes of brand new jotters at the end of term surely this money could be better spent?	Business support managers	3. The respondent advised that they had no comment to make.	Thank you for your response. Your comment has been noted
2060	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Corporate structure does not require independent business support. Education/school business support should be centralised.	Business support managers	4. The council is already doing this.	Support is centralised where this is more efficient and effective. Where support is required on site, school based Area business Support Managers will be retained.
2061	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	If business support provision to schools is downgraded, how are head teachers to cope with increasing administrative and management demands?	Business support managers	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	Headteachers are expected to exercise a high degree of autonomy and responsibility for all areas of school life, and increases are anticipated as part of the national governance review. The clear national direction of travel is for more decisions to be taken at school level, with the consequence that this is where responsibility will lie.
2062	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Head Teachers are that head teachers, they are not business managers, financial experts, HR Consultants or Health and Safety experts and as such they should be allowed to teach and manage teachers and improve on the "education" of the child. Already too much is expected of head teachers and teachers in general. .	Business support managers	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	Headteachers are expected to exercise a high degree of autonomy and responsibility for all areas of school life, and increases are anticipated as part of the national governance review.
2063	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	d Head Teachers are not trained Financial Control experts, so it is a big assumption that they will provide sound budgets.	Business support managers	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	Headteachers are expected to exercise a high degree of responsibility and autonomy, and increases are anticipated as part of the national governance review.
2064	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Business support provision and admin are central to the school community.	Business support managers	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	The council is committed to implementing agreed proposals without detriment to pupils. The proposals seek to reach an appropriate balance between front line and support functions, recognising the importance of each.
2065	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Get rid of "Business Support Managers" they are schools, NOT businesses!	Business support managers	7. The respondent's comment was either not relevant to the question, inappropriate and/or contained personal and sensitive information.	The proposals seek to reach an appropriate balance between front line and support functions, recognising the importance of each.
2066	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I am concerned that reduced business support will negatively impact on an already stretched school. This support is key to head teachers being able to manage the school. I can see other ways to manage quality assurance, music and other aspects but cannot foresee managing without adequate BSM support.	Business support managers	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	The proposals to rationalise central support to schools seek to balance the important contribution of professional, support and managerial staff, all of whom make an important contribution to the service. They recognise the increased autonomy to be given to headteachers, who will have the ability to prioritise budgets to meet the individual needs of their school.
2067	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Many people do not realise that Administrative Assistants in schools generally begin work due to their children attending school and therefore the holidays and hours suit them. These people are intelligent and could easily take on a finance role within the school. This would give them a pay rise, e.g. Admin Officer instead of Admin Assistant, and alleviate the role of Area Business Support Manager (ABSM). The work of the ABSM was originally done by the school, finance division, property and Education Central. There is no reason why the finance cannot be done by the Admin Assistant, property continuing with the property area and Education Central taking on the remaining 12 secondary schools for Annual FSRAs; some of these have already been done by Education Central anyway. This would give the Council a £480,000 saving and the cost of promoting the Admin Assistant would be minimal. A rise from one grade to the next is roughly £500. Half of the ABSMs are temporary and the other half are either at retirement age or a couple of years away from it. Therefore, this post could easily go and I believe this post is funded centrally.	Business support managers	6. This is a positive suggestion. Officers will consider how this could be developed.	The proposals to rationalise central support to schools seek to balance the important contribution of professional, support and managerial staff, all of whom make an important contribution to the service. They recognise the increased autonomy to be given to headteachers, who will have the ability to prioritise budgets to meet the individual needs of their school.
2068	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	The business support managers have already been reduced to work between primary and secondary schools therefore I do not feel a further reduction is feasible.	Business support managers	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	The proposals to rationalise central support to schools seek to balance the important contribution of professional, support and managerial staff, all of whom make an important contribution to the service. They recognise the increased autonomy to be given to headteachers, who will have the ability to prioritise budgets to meet the individual needs of their school.

2069	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Schools cannot reduce the input from current business managers following the changes made before.	Business support managers	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	The proposals to rationalise central support to schools seek to balance the important contribution of professional, support and managerial staff, all of whom make an important contribution to the service. They recognise the increased autonomy to be given to headteachers, who will have the ability to prioritise budgets to meet the individual needs of their school.
2070	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I think the impact of this proposal should be very carefully considered.Reducing business support and quality assurance is likely to have a much bigger impact on pupil learning overall. Head Teachers should have a clear focus on improving outcomes for pupils in order to achieve the council's key priorities. Quality assurance support is essential to achieve high standards in schools. Business support is vital to ensure Head Teachers are not spending too much of their time dealing with HR/admin/finance tasks instead of improving learning. The business requirements are unlikely to reduce so therefore, reducing support in this area will result in Head Teacher workload increasing.	Business support managers	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	The proposals to rationalise central support to schools seek to balance the important contribution of professional, support and managerial staff, all of whom make an important contribution to the service. They recognise the increased autonomy to be given to headteachers, who will have the ability to prioritise budgets to meet the individual needs of their school.
2071	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I feel that this devolution of power to head teachers could be beneficial to them, the students and the parents if handled properly. I fear though that the handing of responsibility may only be cosmetic and that the council or Scottish Government will seek to retain control over the basic curriculum. I feel that they must "take people along with them" if it is to be successful.	Business support managers	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The proposals to rationalise central support to schools seek to balance the important contribution of professional, support and managerial staff, all of whom make an important contribution to the service. They recognise the increased autonomy to be given to headteachers, who will have the ability to prioritise budgets to meet the individual needs of their school.
2072	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I believe that this is the correct measure to be taken as the Head Teacher should be able to control the funding on what is best for the particular school.	Business support managers	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The proposals to rationalise central support to schools seek to balance the important contribution of professional, support and managerial staff, all of whom make an important contribution to the service. They recognise the increased autonomy to be given to headteachers, who will have the ability to prioritise budgets to meet the individual needs of their school.
2073	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	In my opinion it is a mistake to reduce business support unless head teachers are retrained. You cannot just keep condensing and reducing these crucial roles without it having a negative impact on the service.	Business support managers	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	The proposals to rationalise central support to schools seek to balance the important contribution of professional, support and managerial staff, all of whom make an important contribution to the service. 2075	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I agree with proposal of increasing headteachers responsibility for attainment and more direct control over funding but would suggest increasing the skills and training of school secretaries to assist headteachers thereby enabling a reduction in business support provision. 2078	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Head teachers are not business graduates and I believe the role of business support would be vital in guiding head teachers in managing school funding effectively. Education services are already very thin on the ground! We cannot fill the staff vacancies we have in schools and resource stocks are abismal. Teaching staff are already spending their own money to provide resources for the children they teach.	Business support managers	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The proposals to rationalise central support to schools seek to balance the important contribution of professional, support and managerial staff, all of whom make an important contribution to the service. They recognise the increased autonomy to be given to headteachers, who will have the ability to prioritise budgets to meet the individual needs of their school.
2080	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	This will have to be managed extremely carefully - business support is crucial to schools. West Lothian already has significantly less time than other authorities. Educational Psychology is already stretched thin.	Business support managers	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	The proposals to rationalise central support to schools seek to balance the important contribution of professional, support and managerial staff, all of whom make an important contribution to the service. 2081	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	The team at the council are stretched too thin as it is reducing it further may be a saving but will cost more in terms of meeting outcomes and stretch aims	Business support managers	2. The proposals to rationalise central support to schools seek to balance the important contribution of professional, support and managerial staff, all of whom make an important contribution to the service. 2082	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I DO believe a particular school should have more autonomy over it's own particular needsdepending on the community it serves.	Business support managers	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal. 2084	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Fail to see how business support sevicees and quality assurance etc etc impact positively on schools. 2085	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	By stripping back the support that individuals such as business support managers, support assistants and the instrumental service will be devastating to schools who are already having to cope with a strain on their resources. The reduction of active school co-ordinators will also be detrimental to the culture and opportunities children receive at school.	Business support managers	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	The proposals to rationalise central support to schools seek to balance the important contribution of professional, support and managerial staff, all of whom make an important contribution to the service. They recognise the increased autonomy to be given to headteachers, who will have the ability to prioritise budgets to meet the individual needs of their school.
2086	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	This can be a double edge sword! A Head teacher job is to run the school, teachers job is to teach. Reducing business support provision means they now have to make business decision that these Head teachers are not necessarily best suited for. I expect the head teacher to spend time running the school and making it better, not spend time learning computer hardware technology because suddenly they have to decide which computer they should buy for the student or spend time learning about financial pitfalls they could fall fool off because the business support that use to make these decision for them is now gone. Yes they should have flexibility on how they run their school but some aspect should be left with specialists in their field. Head teachers should be given business support from procurement specialist, IT specialist . . . etc They can't be expected to know all these things. Head teachers job is to run the school! Teachers job is to teach!	Business support managers	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	The proposals to rationalise central support to schools seek to balance the important contribution of professional, support and managerial staff, all of whom make an important contribution to the service. They recognise the increased autonomy to be given to headteachers, who will have the ability to prioritise budgets to meet the individual needs of their school.
2087	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I think Head Teachers have enough responsibility and need the support of Business Managers to help over the numerous financial and HR issues that occur in schools. Although there have been new systems in place in school for the collections of money etc it has resulted in duplication of tasks within the administration of the office. I would hope that any new infrastructure would take into account the demographics of the area as not all parents are able to access information online.	Business support managers	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	The proposals to rationalise central support to schools seek to balance the important contribution of professional, support and managerial staff, all of whom make an important contribution to the service. They recognise the increased autonomy to be given to headteachers, who will have the ability to prioritise budgets to meet the individual needs of their school.
2088	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Head teachers should still be supported with business support to allow them to focus on core teaching and learning.	Business support managers	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	The proposals to rationalise central support to schools seek to balance the important contribution of professional, support and managerial staff, all of whom make an important contribution to the service. They recognise the increased autonomy to be given to headteachers, who will have the ability to prioritise budgets to meet the individual needs of their school.
2089	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I see this could prove beneficial, I believe the size of school & context should also be given consideration. Working in a school with over 700 pupils, over 50 staff & having no BSM available is extremely challenging (the position is currently a vacancy). In times where there is a national shortage of teachers, leaders in schools are already filling that absence gap on top of their increasing remits giving them less & less time to focus on the expectations of competing demands such as HR, responsible person duties, learning & teaching, curriculum, raising attainment etc. We must try to get a careful balance if this is to have a positive impact without creating a negative one on staff & pupils.	Business support managers	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The proposals to rationalise central support to schools seek to balance the important contribution of professional, support and managerial staff, all of whom make an important contribution to the service. They recognise the increased autonomy to be given to headteachers, who will have the ability to prioritise budgets to meet the individual needs of their school.
2090	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I would express concern about Head Teachers having a reduced amount of business support. Head Teachers are rightly trained in education - not in buildings management, financial management or other business affairs. They already juggle a very varied, intense and complex workload with an already large amount of responsibility.	Business support managers	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	The proposals to rationalise central support to schools seek to balance the important contribution of professional, support and managerial staff, all of whom make an important contribution to the service. They recognise the increased autonomy to be given to headteachers, who will have the ability to prioritise budgets to meet the individual needs of their school.
2091	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Business support provision to schools has already been slashed, can it really be cut further? The original aim of the business manager function was to manage all non teaching functions to allow head teachers to focus on learning and teaching and raising attainment. Surely this proposal is going to add to head teachers workload and risks taking focus away from raising attainment, positive destinations and so on.	Business support managers	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	The proposals to rationalise central support to schools seek to balance the important contribution of professional, support and managerial staff, all of whom make an important contribution to the service. 2092	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Reducing levels of service here do not seem sensible. There is already a skeletal level of staff within schools with little to no support for teachers. This is at a time where there is an increased number of children with additional educational learning needs and additional support needs.	Business support managers	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal. 2093	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Head teachers are not necessarily business focused. Their focus is on the development of the children in the schools. 2094	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Would there be the strategic and operational expertise left in the council to advise and support schools? 2095	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Surely having a specialised business manager for the authority who supports all schools is more efficient and would allow HTs the opportunity to get on with managing their school/staff/pupils rather than balancing accounts and budgets.	Business support managers	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	The proposals to rationalise central support to schools seek to balance the important contribution of professional, support and managerial staff, all of whom make an important contribution to the service. 2097	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Some aspects of this proposal are sound, giving Head Teachers more responsibility for their schools performance is a good point as long as there is support still provided.services.	Business support managers	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	The proposals to rationalise central support to schools seek to balance the important contribution of professional, support and managerial staff, all of whom make an important contribution to the service. 2098	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Headteachers have an enormous amount of areas to cover and I feel any reduction in business support would be detrimental.	Business support managers	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	The proposals to rationalise central support to schools seek to balance the important contribution of professional, support and managerial staff, all of whom make an important contribution to the service. 2099	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Giving Head Teachers more responsibility for budgets is a good idea but it does involve additional pressures on what is already a very high pressured job. A lot of HD are educationalists and have reached the position of Head Teacher as they excel in this area. The new developments are increasing the strategic pressure on HTs and the reduction in the support for these areas provided by the council will only surely increase the pressure on HT Teachers.	Business support managers	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	The proposals to rationalise central support to schools seek to balance the important contribution of professional, support and managerial staff, all of whom make an important contribution to the service. 2100	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	This would mean that less central management would be required but the existing budgets should, at least, be ring-fenced if the services are to be devolved.	Business support managers	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal. 2101	An individual	1b. 2104	On behalf of a Group/Organisation	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	We would suggest increasing the skills and training of school secretaries to assist headteachers thereby enabling a reduction in business support provision.	Business support managers	6. This is a positive suggestion. Officers will consider how this could be developed. 2106	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I would agree that such services as business support could be reduced, however head teachers could not be asked to shoulder the responsibility of managing the duties of business support. In my view this would entail additional administrators.	Business support managers	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	The council is committed to implementing agreed proposals without detriment to pupils. The proposals seek to reach an appropriate balance between front line and support functions, recognising the importance of each. The respondent's comment was either not relevant to the question, inappropriate and/or contained personal and sensitive information.	The proposals focus on all areas of support to schools.
2109	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I would suggest the following to be considered.; 1.Pupil Equity Funding (PEF) monies allocated for each education establishment is put into the DSM school budgets under a separate subjective/cost centre as this will reduce administrative costs/time for schools and administrative costs in the Civic Centre as the schools business support could undertake this task.	Business support managers	6. This is a positive suggestion. Officers will consider how this could be developed.	Rules for the administration of PEF funding are set by national government.
2110	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I feel that Head Teachers vitally need the support of a Business Support Manager. They need the expertise and knowledge of the BSM to help them to run an efficient, cost effective, safe school. With a reduced provision Head Teachers will have to spend a great deal of their time engaged in administration duties taking them away from being leaders of the delivery of curriculum in their schools.	Business support managers	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	The council is committed to implementing agreed proposals without detriment to pupils. The proposals seek to reach an appropriate balance between front line and support functions, recognising the importance of each. Headteachers are expected to exercise a high degree of responsibility and autonomy, and increases are anticipated as part of the national governance review.
2111	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	HTs are not business managers or accountants. They are being stretched beyond an acceptable level of expertise. 2112	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	The lack of business support contract for head teachers also concerns me. Head teachers are surely teachers first, not business managers. I appreciate that it is important for heads to have more say in how their budget is spent, but only with support and advice from a BSM.	Business support managers	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	The council is committed to implementing agreed proposals without detriment to pupils. 2113	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	All seems reasonable providing music provision does not suffer unduly.	Business support managers	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	All pupils will experience Instrumental Music Tuition in Primary School through the Youth Music Initiative. It is proposed that some access to tuition will remain. All children will retain appropriate music provision through curriculum for excellence.
2114	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Cut the management structure and have a business person oversee the money etc side of a school and have a head in charge of the staffing and pupils. This would reduce the need for DHT and PT in the roles and being non-teaching. I think PT should all be teaching at least four days a week rather than some schools having an HT a DHT and PT all non-teaching. Surely this would save money and allow arts to be funded and mental health.	Business support managers	6. This is a positive suggestion. Officers will consider how this could be developed.	Headteachers will shortly have more powers to set their own management structure, as a result of the current Governance Review, and will be able to consider this suggestion on a school by school basis.

2115	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I would question the reduction of business support provision to schools. This is a necessary part of the schools support network and in an increasingly complex financial environment, robust and knowledgeable information and guidance around budgeting is essential, especially if the aim is to embed touch wide reaching and essential resources as indicated above in schools. HTs and school leaders require guidance in best use of finance as it becomes increasingly more devolved.	Business support managers	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal. 2117	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	My concern would be that head teachers are not business managers and few if any come from a business background. I would also be concerned of how money would be spent with head teachers giving priority to different areas. Would children in more deprived areas then be provided with less opportunities than kids the more affluent areas?	Business support managers	2. The council is committed to implementing agreed proposals without detriment to pupils. The proposals seek to reach an appropriate balance between front line and support functions, recognising the importance of each. 2118	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Agree there needs to be an overview for Schools and Teachers and especially surrounding the volume of paperwork they need to complete on a day to day basis. 2119	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Head Teachers should not have more control over funding. Most Head Teachers started their careers as teachers not accountants and not all are good with finances in fact I think they have more control on funding than they should have at present. Schools really need a business support function to help them.	Business support managers	2. The proposal is not about 'business education' which will be unaffected by the proposal.
2121	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	The focus of Head Teachers over recent years has shifted from solely on Education to finance, compliance, legal responsibilities etc. so taking Business Support away from the Head Teachers will put additional pressure on them. I would suspect this will need to be counteracted with support below the Head Teacher so that deputy staff can assist them with the increased responsibilities. Again i'm not sure this will provide savings but will just be shifting the cost elsewhere and are the Head Teachers and support staff qualified enough to deal with the same responsibilities as the Business Support Managers?	Business support managers	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	The council is committed to implementing agreed proposals without detriment to pupils. The proposals seek to reach an appropriate balance between front line and support functions, recognising the importance of each. Headteachers are expected to exercise a high degree of responsibility and autonomy, and increases are anticipated as part of the national governance review.

2123	An individual	1b. 2124	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I do not agree with a reduction in business support. Teachers are already over worked and teaching across Scotland is poor. 2125	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	The reduction in business support provision will mean Head Teachers having to play a greater administrative role coupled with the possibility of their own admin staff reductions.	Business support managers	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	The proposals to rationalise central support to schools seek to balance the important contribution of professional, support and managerial staff, all of whom make an important contribution to the service. 2126	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	business support to schools at present is very limited, referrals to psychology takes along time .	Business support managers	3. The respondent advised that they had no comment to make. 2127	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I understand there may be some benefit to giving Head Teacher's more responsibility, control and freedom, however I feel there is a real danger that they will be asked to increase their work load and to manage more, while at the same time their budget and resources are cut. This will actually limit their decision making re staff and spending rather than increasing their freedom to make decisions. In a way, passing the difficult decisions to Headteachers while their hands are tied, and increasing their stress and workload at the same time. I would be very concerned on the health implications to already overworked and stressed staff.	Business support managers	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	The changes to Devolved School Management will increase the autonomy of Headteachers and teachers to make decisions at a local level to benefit pupils in their school. The Council is still responsible for providing support services.
2128	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Head Teachers and staff are already dealing with heavy workloads and excess paperwork. 2129	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	1b: Business support to schools ensures that Headteachers are supported with aspects of the role that they are not experts in, financial management and health and safety etc. The BSM's link with the centre and ensure that policy is consistently applied in schools. There has already been a reduction in BSM support and our school senior management teams are already very lean. It would be detrimental to schools to take this support away, as Headteachers would be unsupported to deal with the issues, and would spend less time focusing on learning and teaching. 2130	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	My concern is who supervises how these head teachers spend their funding and some head teachers may favour one subject over another creating an unfair system.	Business support managers	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	The Education Bill proposes giving Headteachers this greater autonomy.
2131	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	There needs to be co-ordination between schools to ensure that they are not all spending money individually which could be more expensive than doing joint work. With regards to the music provision - maybe there could be a charge for people who are able to pay with subsidies for those who are not able but still ant the opportunity to learn a musical instrument. Also this needs to be phased in as it would be unfair for those who have already started.	Business support managers	6. This is a positive suggestion. Officers will consider how this could be developed.	Collaboration between schools will continue and grow. Charging for music tuition could be examined.

2136	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I think that increasing the level of direct control head teachers have on their own budgets is a good thing. 2137	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Schools are at the heart of communities. centralisation should only be implemented when necessary and appropriate. 2144	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Staff in schools - both teaching and non-teaching are already over-worked and massively under appreciated. Reducing the services that are provided to school will place an even bigger burden on our staff, leading to an even bigger workload, pressure and could ultimately end up in endangering health and wellbeing. Staff seem to be the least of the council's worries.	Business support managers	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal. 2146	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Funding for schools is essential and central services such as music and sports services are an excellent use of resources. 2151	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. The respondent's comment was either not relevant to the question, inappropriate and/or contained personal and sensitive information.	The proposals do not impact on the retention of teachers.
2156	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	. One area where the Council could streamline provision is integrating some specialist courses at high school. For example a language teacher for Italian could be used to cover multiple schools. It would mean that timetables may need to be adjusted to accommodate the travelling teachers schedule.	Changes to teaching and administrative activities	4. The council is already doing this.	Thanks you for comment. Your feedback has been noted. This reflects the current 'campus model'.
2157	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Each school produces its own lesson plan and timetable etc. which takes up significant staff time. Surely a maths lesson in one school should be the same as a maths lesson in another and the preparation of these could be rationalised across all schools and in doing so improve both efficiency and consistency at the same time. Do we have too many schools?	Changes to teaching and administrative activities	7. The respondent's comment was either not relevant to the question, inappropriate and/or contained personal and sensitive information.	This comment reflects council practice in relation to collaboration between schools. The proposals do not contain any plan to reduce the number of schools.
2158	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Again, these measures will add pressures to the HT and school management remits. People are already working way beyond their contracted hours trying to keep schools open.	Changes to teaching and administrative activities	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	Headteachers are expected to exercise a high degree of autonomy, and increases are anticipated as part of the national governance review.
2159	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Again, this sounds reasonable to me. As I stated above, I believe that there is a lot of duplication of provision in may areas of council business and this should be reviewed.	Changes to teaching and administrative activities	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Thank you for your response. Your comment has been noted
2162	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Essentially this will mean spreading staffing over more functions which will cause less efficiency in the long run	Changes to teaching and administrative activities	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	The proposals are designed to increase efficiency.
2163	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I would be concerned that Headteachers would not have the support they currently have which is needed to run their schools and as a result even more of their time would be taken away from their core role which is to lead, and ensure, high quality learning and teaching.	Changes to teaching and administrative activities	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	The Council will continue to produce and deliver a statutory Community Learning and Development plan, with delivery increasingly through the learning communities based on non-denominational school catchment areas, and greater partnership between schools and the third sector. This will ensure maximum co-ordination between school education and youth services.
2164	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	This proposal seems to be covering a range of suggestions! Perhaps deliberately? Head teachers should be focussing more on the quality of teaching and not obsessing about budgets and telling pupils what can and can't be afforded!	Changes to teaching and administrative activities	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	Headteachers are expected to exercise a high degree of autonomy, and increases are anticipated as part of the national governance review.
2165	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Give no head teachers more space for the budget is a good idea as they know best where the money is needed to be spent in their school.	Changes to teaching and administrative activities	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Headteachers are expected to exercise a high degree of autonomy, and increases are anticipated as part of the national governance review.
2166	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Head teacher workload must surely be an issue with the reduction of centralised support and increased work in schools. How is this being addressed.	Changes to teaching and administrative activities	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	Headteachers are expected to exercise a high degree of autonomy, and increases are anticipated as part of the national governance review.
2167	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Will this place more of a burden on teachers?	Changes to teaching and administrative activities	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	Headteachers are expected to exercise a high degree of autonomy, and increases are anticipated as part of the national governance review. Teachers in West Lothian are employed to deliver curriculum for excellence, as directed by their headteacher, within the confines of national conditions and their working time agreement.
2168	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Giving head teachers larger amounts of control, especially over funding may lead to spend inefficiencies such as off-contract spend and non compliant spend, which in the long run is more expensive to rectify.	Changes to teaching and administrative activities	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	Headteachers are expected to exercise a high degree of autonomy, and increases are anticipated as part of the national governance review.
2169	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Head teachers have no control over pupils ability to learn. It is the Council's responsibility to ensure that the teaching standards are the same throughout the region. They are in a far better position to correctly allocate funding.	Changes to teaching and administrative activities	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	Headteachers are expected to exercise a high degree of autonomy, and increases are anticipated as part of the national governance review.
2170	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	More emphasis is needed on teaching the basics, reading, arithmetic, writing, physical education, etc.	Changes to teaching and administrative activities	4. The council is already doing this.	These subject areas are at the heart of curriculum for excellence, and the council had allocated significant additional resources to literacy, numeracy, and ensuring 2 hours of quality PE. Pupil Equity Funding will enhance this provision.
2171	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Headteachers are not accountants - they will still require guidance from officers on the correct field.	Changes to teaching and administrative activities	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	Headteachers are expected to exercise a high degree of autonomy, and increases are anticipated as part of the national governance review.
2172	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	It is a good idea to give schools more direct control as they are the ones who know what is required.	Changes to teaching and administrative activities	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Headteachers are expected to exercise a high degree of autonomy, and increases are anticipated as part of the national governance review.
2173	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I think this proposal makes complete sense. By giving the individual schools autonomy on all aspects of their service, this should make them more efficient and streamlined. This will also mean that the staff in each area have real say in how they meet future challenges. This will be helpful as they are often the people who have the in-depth knowledge of what is required on the frontline.	Changes to teaching and administrative activities	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Headteachers are expected to exercise a high degree of autonomy, and increases are anticipated as part of the national governance review.

2174	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Head teachers should be given more autonomy over the running of their school, as they are the best people to take all their individual circumstances into account. 2179	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	This seems fine on paper. 2180	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Non teaching staff i.e. Support for Learning staff are grossly under valued, underpaid (cheap labour)and in some cases, are doing teaching work which is not part of their job description! Without these staff members, teachers will not cope! Senior Management must ensure schools are staffed appropriately and not be blasé and take non teaching staff for granted (some senior managers do!)	Changes to teaching and administrative activities	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	Non-teaching staff are employed to undertake important roles within schools, and are valued by their teaching colleagues, including senior management. The Scottish Government has made maintaining the Pupil/Teacher ratio a condition of funding, and so the council and schools are compelled to focus on the employment of teachers where, in some cases, they may prefer to increase non-teaching staff in preference to this.
2181	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	This should not result in teaching staff having to undertake more administrative functions. 2182	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	attainment seems to change on an almost daily basis according to news outlets, why cant teachers be allowed to teach without the constraints of government interference letting the schools / council set methodology	Changes to teaching and administrative activities	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	Attainment will remain a key priority for the Council. Headteachers are expected to exercise a high degree of autonomy, and increases are anticipated as part of the national governance review, giving individual schools greater ability to plan for raising attainment, but also increasing responsibility on them for the outcome.

2192	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Completely agree with this. Every school (or possibly cluster ?) should be responsible for their own funding so that they can ensure that money is spent on what their school needs.	Changes to teaching and administrative activities	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The changes to Devolved School Management will increase the autonomy of Headteachers and teachers to make decisions at a local level to benefit pupils in their school.
2193	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	The business support managers provide a much needed service in schools and have already been reduced. Further reduction to support in schools means increasing teacher workloads for teachers who are already over stretched and underpaid.	Changes to teaching and administrative activities	2. The changes to Devolved School Management will increase the autonomy of Headteachers and teachers to make decisions at a local level to benefit pupils in their school. Changes to teaching and administrative activities	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	The Council has put forward proposals relating to all areas of its responsibility.
2195	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Stop redesigning the curriculum and let teachers actually teach! They do not target applicants by only accepting those with greater abilities to increase their attainment levels. 2202	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I think teachers are at their limit. More bureaucracy is the last things they need and more control doesn't always make things easier. The people that need to be asked here is the teachers. 2226	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	It is key that both head teachers and teachers are given more trust in their work - they are the ones best trained on how to deliver effective teaching and management of their school. Overloading them with needless paperwork and bureaucracy induces increased costs and effects the teachers at the point of delivery. They haven't been to university or worked in the system for as long as they have just to be inundated with paperwork in order to justify their work.	Changes to teaching and administrative activities	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	Headteachers are expected to exercise a high degree of autonomy, and increases are anticipated as part of the national governance review. With greater responsibility comes greater accountability.
2227	No Response	1b. Headteachers are expected to exercise a high degree of autonomy, and increases are anticipated as part of the national governance review. 2230	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	To reduce teaching time at schools will reduce the likelihood of being able to put each child at the centre of education. 2233	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Furthermore, teachers are already stretched to capacity, heaping more responsibilities onto their heads will not only lead to loss of morale, but increased stress, which in turn will lead to long-term sick problems thus incurring further expense to the Council and schools with substitute teachers. This seems like a very short-term solution which is unlikely to make meaningful savings anyway and will incur greater cost in the long term. I don't see how this is in any way compatible with at least two of your stated eight priorities in terms of giving school children options and increasing attainment.	Changes to teaching and administrative activities	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal. 2235	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I would assume that giving more powers over procurement and funding to those within individual services could be an efficient means of ensuring that funds are appropriated by individual facilities where they deem them to be most appropriate. I would have concerns over the extra pressures that this may place on Head teachers and whether measures would be required to provide appropriate business management training to ensure that the responsibilities are appropriately managed. The reduction in central services could also make rolling out council wide initiatives more challenging.	Changes to teaching and administrative activities	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Headteachers are expected to exercise a high degree of autonomy, and increases are anticipated as part of the national governance review.
2236	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. 2238	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Giving head teachers more control over funding is not the solution. Headteachers are already overworked and underpaid. Making them more accountable will increase pressure and make the job even less desirable and as such make headteacher posts even harder to fill. It's also important to note that headteachers should not become employers. This would undermine the role of the LNCT, which a vitally important framework for teachers and working conditions across Scotland.	Changes to teaching and administrative activities	2. 2241	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. 2243	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	There are significant gaps in Education establishments where there seems to be no accountability. What happens if the Head Teachers do not have the financial skills or knowledge - sure Head Teachers should be there to ensure they are raising attainment and their staff are supported to meet the needs of the service and someone else with the right financial skills should be there to support staff. Sadly in my experience the current policies and procedures are not effective and placing a further financial burden on Head Teachers is not going to support raising attainment. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Whilst supportive of the empowerment of head teachers to run their own schools, a framework of control and monitoring must be maintained to ensure schools maintain standards.	Changes to teaching and administrative activities	4. The council is already doing this.	The Council has a robust internal quality assurance programme.
2245	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Head Teachers are not all of the same standard this needs addressing!	Changes to teaching and administrative activities	4. The council is already doing this.	All Headteachers meet the national standard for headship, and are chosen by representatives of the Council, parents and education professionals following competitive interview.
2246	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I am of the opinion that Schools/Teachers have too much paperwork to complete on a day to day basis which impacts on their ability to do their day job. Which is to teach and support the children in their classes. There should be a review of this, and the budget each school is given.	Changes to teaching and administrative activities	4. The council is already doing this.	The Council has participated in the national taskforce aimed at reducing bureaucracy in schools, and has taken appropriate action.
2247	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Embedding teaching resources within a school has to ensure each child is nurtured and achieves their potential, even if it might reduce the schools academic rating. Schools should be supporting and educating our child to work and contribute back into the community, not just achieve good exam results. Vocational teaching must continue along with the partner agencies already involved, developing and creating strong links to the community.	Changes to teaching and administrative activities	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	The Council intends to implement the proposal whilst still fulfilling its duty to meet the needs of every child.
2249	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Jargon. I would not like to think this would shift a large administration burden onto head teachers.	Changes to teaching and administrative activities	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	The changes to Devolved School Management will increase the autonomy of Headteachers and teachers to make decisions at a local level to benefit pupils in their school. The Council intends to implement the proposal whilst still fulfilling its duty to meet the needs of every child.
2250	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	It seems that the support staff will be effected and in all school admin staff are essential but are finding their work loads increased and having to take on tasks they have no training in.	Changes to teaching and administrative activities	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	The changes to Devolved School Management will increase the autonomy of Headteachers and teachers to make decisions at a local level to benefit pupils in their school. Individual Headteachers can consider this suggestion within the context of the needs of their school.
2251	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Administrative staff have already been cut in most schools meaning more responsibility being put onto senior management in schools which will detract from their main purpose of delivering the curriculum.	Changes to teaching and administrative activities	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	The changes to Devolved School Management will increase the autonomy of Headteachers and teachers to make decisions at a local level to benefit pupils in their school. Headteachers will have the ability to determine where resources should be spent for the benefit of children, although a continuation of the Pupil/Teacher ratio may result in expenditure on teacher posts where support staff would have a greater impact on learning and teaching.
2252	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	This is a bad idea. I think music is really important to mental welfare of children and should not be reduced. 2281	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Why not remove schools completely from Council control, or at least allow 'opting out'? Removal of Council control has worked very well for the FE college sector, and opting out seems to be producing positive results in English schools. Totally opposed to reductions in instrumental music tuition - the long term educational and social benefits of music tuition are immense.	Education Services (General)	8. This suggestion is out with the responsibility of West Lothian Council. Where relevant, we will forward these comments to our partner organisations. 2282	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I have a great deal of admiration and gratitude for the educational psychology provision provided by the council. 2287	An individual	1b. 2288	No Response	1b. 2290	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	No more cuts in this area. There is already a teacher shortage due to overworked, underpaid teachers who are stretched to their limit. Advisory services for educational psychologists are just removing more support from children who have ASN. Inclusion only works if properly supported and resourced. It is already seriously lacking in those areas as it is. This will only put pressure on teachers who are already thinking of leaving the profession due to these problems.	Educational psychologists	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	The council must look at opportunities for efficiency and service transformation in all areas of its responsibility. 2293	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Already schools are seeing the effects of supports being withdrawn ie no mental health link workers. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	The Council's Transformation Team is examining a joint approach between education and social policy in order to ensure appropriate services are maintained.
2294	No Response	1b. The Council intends to implement the proposal whilst still fulfilling its duty to meet the needs of every child.
2295	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	You can't get hold of an educational psychologist anyway, they are paid far too much and half the time they attend meetings without ever having met the kids, the teachers themselves have better ideas for strategies and learning support teachers can do the testing. Yes I agree with this.	Educational psychologists	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	Educational Psychologists are paid according to a national scale, and their contribution is valued by parents, schools and by the council.
2296	An individual	1b. 2298	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	It is impossible to comment when such language is used. 2301	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Ed Psych is already an "advisory" service, with our Ed Psych very rarely in school working with children. 2304	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I would also like to voice my concern over the proposed advisory approach to educational psychology. 2315	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	An advisory approach to educational psychology may cause alarm but I think this gives us great scope to be more innovative and proactive. 2318	On behalf of a Group/Organisation	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	What are the changes to how the council will work with partner agencies - not enough information to make an informed comment or decision. Will the council be required to spend more money in the short term to make long term savings - if so what does this entail. The council have not made each of the proposals very clear and no specifics, savings appear to be estimated, what is the clear background information relating to each saving, what are the staff/employee implications as well the implications for service users and the community. 2319	No Response	1b. 2320	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	GIRFEC becomes a bit of a joke if you further reduce psychologist input, it is too stretched as it is. There are increasingly children with additional needs in main stream settings, it is extremely difficult to meet these children's additional needs effectively without proper expertise and support provided by specialist services.	Educational psychologists	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	Thank you for your response. Your comment has been noted. The proposal would continue to fulfilling the council's duty to meet the needs of every child.
2321	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Being a teacher in a school which would benefit greatly from support for (several) pupils with additional needs, I worry that the reduced Education Psychology service will impact on this. I also worry that funding to support these pupils which isn't available now will definitely not be available in the future. This means schools and ultimately class teachers will just be expected to cope. This is detrimental not only to the staff (and their mental health) but also the other pupils who don't get the learning experience they deserve because teacher's time is spent elsewhere.	Educational psychologists	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	Thank you for your response. Your comment has been noted. The proposal would continue to fulfilling the council's duty to meet the needs of every child.

The proposal would continue to fulfilling the council's duty to meet the needs of every child.
2323	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Educational psychologists are so vital in schools. We are already under resourced in this area. Pupils mental health is at risk of educational psychologists are cut further.	Educational psychologists	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	Thank you for your response. Your comment has been noted. The proposal would continue to fulfilling the council's duty to meet the needs of every child.

The proposal would continue to fulfilling the council's duty to meet the needs of every child.
2325	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Schools are already stretched as it is. There is a growing number of our young people who are slipping through the cracks as it is. If educational psychology is to be moved to an advisory capacity I dread to think what will happen. As for reducing instrumental music provision - it is a well known fact that music and playing music is therapeutic!	Educational psychologists	2. 2326	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	One of the focuses of the council is to improve attainment and without the vital help that educational psychology and other services provide, this will become extremely difficult for schools, as well as having a huge detrimental affect on our young people. 2327	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Again with educational psychologists, they are rarely seen in schools already as a result of their caseloads. If fear that most already have an advisory role (against their wishes) as they simply do not have the hours to work through their cases in school.	Educational psychologists	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	Thank you for your response. Your comment has been noted. The proposal would continue to fulfilling the council's duty to meet the needs of every child.
2328	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	An advisory approach to educational psychology sounds like a direct cut to the service.	Educational psychologists	2. The proposal would continue to fulfilling the council's duty to meet the needs of every child.
2329	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I imagine each school has its own requirements and that there is therefore no one size fits all so how can we say whether an advisory approach is acceptable or not. Generally, as a parent I am very disappointed that there is not regular consultation with parents about school budgets at a school level. If you are going to give Head Teachers (even) more responsibility for their funding then there has to be more involvement with parents about priorities for their school at a granular level. This could allow parents and school to consider how to have more involvement from parents assisting with school clubs etc. We had a "communication focus group" at our school over a year ago and have heard nothing since.....communicating with parents does not appear to engender any co-production and giving over more responsibility for localised personalised spending must therefore be matched with better engagement about how to spend it.	Educational psychologists	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	The Education Bill is likely to increase the responsibility of Headteachers with regard to parental involvement.
2330	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Educational psychology should not be cut, as it will lead to issues not being identified, and this will lead to problems, and more expense for the Council later, when trying to fix the issues. False economy.	Educational psychologists	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	Thank you for your response. Your comment has been noted. The proposal would continue to fulfilling the council's duty to meet the needs of every child.
2331	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Educational Psychology is already stretched thin.	Educational psychologists	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	Thank you for your response. Your comment has been noted. The proposal would continue to fulfilling the council's duty to meet the needs of every child.
2332	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I think there is already a shortage of educational psychology services with a lengthy wait for assessments, the availability of an advisory service in addition should be considered and may prevent the need for further, more lengthy input.	Educational psychologists	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	Thank you for your response. Your comment has been noted. The proposal would continue to fulfilling the council's duty to meet the needs of every child.
2333	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I think educational psychology is important and should be available for all children if so required.	Educational psychologists	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	Thank you for your response. Your comment has been noted. The proposal would continue to fulfilling the council's duty to meet the needs of every child.
2334	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	It is further concerning that an advisory approach to psychology would've taken. It is not clear what this would mean? A reduction in ability to support diagnosis of additional needs pupils?	Educational psychologists	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	Thank you for your response. Your comment has been noted. The proposal would continue to fulfilling the council's duty to meet the needs of every child.
2335	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Given the current focus on young people's mental health, reducing education psychology provision sounds unwise. Your comment has been noted. The proposal would continue to fulfilling the council's duty to meet the needs of every child.

2337	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I oppose any reduction in educational psychology. 2339	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Education should be protected to ensure positive outcomes for learners. The curriculum should be supported by continuing support from educational psychology to ensure the best outcomes for the pupils of West Lothian. The opportunity for children to gain specific skills provides pupils with a wider range of skills.	Educational psychologists	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	Thank you for your response. Your comment has been noted. The proposal would continue to fulfilling the council's duty to meet the needs of every child.
2340	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Educational psychology services are hugely important for the children with additional support needs or learning differences. It is a specialist service and teachers are not trained to take that on (never mind that they are already under huge pressure). Reducing the educational psychology service would be a total let down of the children who needs it most and clearly the opposite of GIRFEC.	Educational psychologists	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	Thank you for your response. Your comment has been noted. The proposal would continue to fulfilling the council's duty to meet the needs of every child.
2341	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I think reducing educational psychology to an advisory role will have a detrimental impact on the mental health and education attainment of some children. Has the impact of this been assessed and discussed with local CAMHS, who will undoubtedly see a rise in their waiting lists as a result of these cuts? These young people will still require input, you will just stretch someone else's system/waiting list by cutting this. We need a joined up approach.	Educational psychologists	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	Thank you for your response. Your comment has been noted. The proposal would continue to fulfilling the council's duty to meet the needs of every child.
2342	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	There is a real risk that a focus on attainment at an individual school level means that those who don't achieve in terms of traditional academic expectations will be left behind. A wider understanding of the positive impact of arts on the resilience of children and therefore attainment must be retained, particularly if the council wants to meet their priorities around reducing inequality and increasing the number of young people who reach positive destinations.	Educational psychologists	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	Thank you for your response. Your comment has been noted. The proposal would continue to fulfilling the council's duty to meet the needs of every child.
2343	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Given the recorded increase in mental health difficulties any reduction in ed psych services will have a negative effect on the councils ability to meet their priorities as teaching staff will increasingly struggle to understand and meet the needs of children with asn, thus reducing young people's chances of reaching their potential.	Educational psychologists	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	Thank you for your response. Your comment has been noted. The proposal would continue to fulfilling the council's duty to meet the needs of every child.
2344	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I am concerned about further reductions in educational psychology provision and a reduction in the skills of staff around additional support needs, whilst increasing numbers of children are requiring support and not receiving it.	Educational psychologists	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	Thank you for your response. Your comment has been noted. The proposal would continue to fulfilling the council's duty to meet the needs of every child.
2345	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	there should be more support from mental health workers in schools e.g. psychologists, counsellors etc. The more mentally healthy a child is, the more likely they are to be able to concentrate on education and have motivation to gain employment. 2347	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	As a teacher in a secondary school in West Lothian, I am seeing the impact of increasing mental health on our children and young people. The referral system already in places takes long enough and pupils attainment can be severely impacted within this time, however, changing to an advisory approach, I believe will have a negative impact on the pupils.	Educational psychologists	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	Thank you for your response. Your comment has been noted. The proposal would continue to fulfilling the council's duty to meet the needs of every child.
2348	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I feel this would then increase pressure on our psychological and CAMHS services which is just transferring a cost and increasing the wait list times, also educational psychology remit differs dramatically from clinical and may be a less valueable use of clinical psychology from healthcare	Educational psychologists	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	Thank you for your response. Your comment has been noted. The proposal would continue to fulfilling the council's duty to meet the needs of every child.

What is the current approach to educational psychology? What would be the impact of changing this? How would the saving be made? Does this fit with improving attainment and positive destinations for school leavers? Does it impact early intervention for young children?	Educational psychologists	2. It is proposed that this suggestion is not taken forward because the council is required by law to deliver this work.	Thank you for your response. Your comment has been noted
2353	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	With an increasing concern for child mental health it would be foolish of the council to withdraw the support educational psychology provides. The mainstream curriculum is already spread too thin with Literacy and Numeracy being pushed as priorities for raising attainment. With this already happening in schools the council can expect the mental health and wellbeing of children and school staff to become a bigger issue in the future.	Educational psychologists	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	Thank you for your response. Your comment has been noted. The proposal would continue to fulfilling the council's duty to meet the needs of every child.
2354	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I'm also concerned about the restructure, redesign and reduction in the provision of educational psychology support for pupils and schools. By definition these services benefit those children and young people most in need of support and any reduction in this service would be a false economy storing up problems for the Council in future years, especially with the number of pupils in schools increasing every year, as well as the number of pupils (and reduced age of pupils) within nurseries. Education psychologists perform an essential role in supporting pupils, teachers and schools and they should not be seen as a service which can be cut without consequences to vulnerable people. Moving to a purely consultation model would significantly reduce the impact EPs can have with vulnerable pupils within schools and would put increasing pressure on schools to assess and support vulnerable pupils with additional support needs within education.	Educational psychologists	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	Thank you for your response. 2355	On behalf of a Group/Organisation	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Educational psychology changes "on the back of changes to mental health link workers over recent years could be detrimental to the wellbeing of children & young people. Upskilling teachers and the third sector staff in mental health awareness is welcomed, however, access to expert services must continue. CAMHS support is at times poor, although I assume due their financial constraints. Expert advice and intervention is crucial for some young people. Teachers cannot be experts in everything. That said, partnership working can and does improve the situations of many young people, therefore a multi agency approach to the delivery of services within schools, including local businesses and the third sector is already happening and should continue.	Educational psychologists	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	Thank you for your response. 2359	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I would like to see a continuance of external specialised support for schools as children's needs are complex and good early years support is critical to achieving good, honest, well educated young people who will go on to make positive contributions to our future.	Educational psychologists	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	Thank you for your response. 2363	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	rs. 2368	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Educational psychologists are an integral part of the council's integration of children with additional needs into mainstream education and within social education. 2369	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	If ed psychs will only be involved in an advisory capacity who is going to deal with real functional analysis? 2370	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Please don't make educational psychologists advisory only. 2371	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	With mental illness amongst young people worse than it has ever been, is it really acceptable to be removing any of the already flimsy support offered by educational psychologists? Surely it should be increased? We do not want to be in a position in the future where we are having to dig deep into the coffers to reinstate lines of support that were short-sightedly cut. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	With reference to educational psychology, I am less sure as I don't understand what this involves - but I do know that many complain that accessing help for children with mental health problems is very difficult. 2374	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Taking away resources, provisions and support from those who are vulnerable is surely going to amount in more future loss for the council through troubled behaviour, unemployment and crime. Without actual support from Educational Psychologists for example, are schools not going to feel even more under pressure and less able to meet targets, and frustrated at the lack of help for our most vulnerable children and families? What would happen to training and in school interventions delivered by the EPS team? Would schools have to buy in additional resources, and pay for private companies to deliver training that is currently provided by the psychology team?	Educational psychologists	2. 2377	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I do not agree with an advisory educational psychology service. There is increasing demand for support for mental health conditions and teachers are struggling to support children with complex histories. We need a robust educational psychology service to support children with autism, aspergers, ADHD but also our children who are looked after or who have suffered abuse or neglect. 2378	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I can imagine that people have benefited from educational psychology therefore I think it is important that users of this service still have a service to use. The council may not provide this but should ensure that people know where to go to get this or a similar service.	Educational psychologists	2. 2381	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I am not entirely sure what "advisory approach to educational psychology" will mean, but am sure it is less than the current, very stretched service. Currently there is a long wait to have a child spoken with and then an even longer wait for a parent to have a meeting and be given feedback. This is unacceptable for our young people, more of them are being exposed to events and situations that are putting their mental health at risk. Cutting the service, or making it more remote will cause delays or reduced effectiveness and will lead to more young people being failed by the education system.	Educational psychologists	2. 2382	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Effective educational psychology is vital in ensuring that all children and young people are receiving the best education possible. 2389	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	There are increasing numbers of children presenting with ASN, including but not limited to, ASD, ADHD, ADD, Attachment Disorder: these children are vulnerable and need active skilled support to integrate successfully into mainstream education and to thrive there. if choices are to be made then surely the greatest benefit to the greatest number of children who need it most will be to retain the current educational psychology provision. 2394	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	As someone who works in a school with deprived children who need intensive intervention, the move to "advisory" roles for educational psychologists would be very detrimental, especially in a time when staff are dealing with an increased number of children suffering from mental health issues. Staff are not trained enough and do not have enough time to deal with more complex issues and children need assessment by and educational psychologist in person, not via a phone call. 2395	On behalf of a Group/Organisation	1b. 2398	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Educational Psychology is an integral part of getting it right for every child, we already miss many of the mental health issues in young people in the school system because this is so stretched. It is absolutely mad to think that cutting anything to do with this this will help. 2404	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	However, with presumption of main stream it would not be beneficial to the school and young people if central services such as Psychological Services were reduced. 2407	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Support to pupils who are not reaching their full potential is essential. 2413	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	The Pupil Equity Fund (PEF) should not be viewed as a mechanism for shoring up local authority budget cuts. The Scottish Government is quite clear that the EPF funding is to be an additional support to schools and has the assumption that certain basic supports will continue to be provided at local authority level. It will be important to ensure that key support services such as Educational Psychology continue to be able to support schools and families and our most vulnerable young people. Careful consideration should be given as to how this will be managed and how parental expectations will be supported should a significant change in service arise.	Educational psychologists	2. 2417	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	What exactly does 'an advisory approach to educational psychology' actually mean? If it means reducing the number of trained educational psychologists and requiring those few who are left to cover more schools, then this is a huge mistake and completely at odds with the educational aims of the council laid out on the previous page. Surely the link between improving attainment, closing the gap and ensuring all students reach their full potential and a comprehensive and well staffed educational psychology provision is obvious? 2424	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	It seems counter intuitive to decentralise services which are shared by all schools. This will only constitute a saving if the services are not provided on a school by school basis. My son, who is dyslexic, has benefited from the excellent support provided by the educational psychology team. Without a central team specialising in such areas, the specialist teachers working in schools will not be able to provide the same level of care and this support is crucial in mitigating the effects of learning disabilities on attainment throughout education and beyond. The proposal would continue to fulfilling the council's duty to meet the needs of every child.
2437	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	With the increase in the number of young people with issues around mental health and well-being, I see educational psychology as a very important role in schools, particularly following the changes that have occurred in previous years in the way mental health link workers are no longer as accessible.	Educational psychologists	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	Thank you for your response. Your comment has been noted. The proposal would continue to fulfilling the council's duty to meet the needs of every child.
2438	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I completely disagree with this proposal. Staff in school are already working with reduced resources and provision. A further reduction in regard to the educational psychology service would impact on our most vulnerable and needy students. Specialist professional staff like our educational psychologists are need to work WITH our pupils, not merely to provide an advisory service.	Educational psychologists	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	Thank you for your response. Your comment has been noted. The proposal would continue to fulfilling the council's duty to meet the needs of every child.

2441	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Provision must be provided to support teachers to better enable them to raise attainment within school. Services like behaviour outreach, educational psychology, etc. must have adequate funding for them to be able to adequately support teachers and schools however at the moment these services appear to be stretched too thinly, leaving teachers having to deal with situations and behaviours which they have not received the specialist and appropriate training needed to do so.	Educational psychologists	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	The changes to Devolved School Management will increase the autonomy of Headteachers and teachers to make decisions at a local level to benefit pupils in their school. This will include the appropriate mix of staffing, although maintaining the pupil/teacher ratio may require the employment of teachers in preference to support staff.
2442	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	HTs can not be responsible for outside services such as educational psychology. They are specialist areas for a reason. It would be unacceptable to see these reduced further.	Educational psychologists	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	Thank you for your response. Your comment has been noted. The proposal would continue to fulfilling the council's duty to meet the needs of every child.
2443	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Support services should not become the role of teachers and should be retained. Education psychology play a vital role in supporting young people achieve in a safe and healthy manner - very important role.	Educational psychologists	2. The proposal would continue to fulfilling the council's duty to meet the needs of every child.
2444	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I am also concerned as a teacher and as a parent with the reduction in the educational psychology provision. It is a vital service provided to our young people and with the limitations on teacher's time, the lack of provision of ASN support, this is essential to ensure that all our young people have the very best start in life.	Educational psychologists	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	Thank you for your response. Your comment has been noted. The proposal would continue to fulfilling the council's duty to meet the needs of every child.
2445	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Support such as music etc is vital for pupils and must not be reduced.	Instrumental music provision	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	All pupils will experience Instrumental Music Tuition in Primary School through the Youth Music Initiative. It is proposed that some access to tuition will remain. All children will retain appropriate music provision through curriculum for excellence.
2446	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Music provision should be reduced as this isn't a priority.	Instrumental music provision	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	All pupils will experience Instrumental Music Tuition in Primary School through the Youth Music Initiative. 2447	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Pupils in West Lothian are very privileged to have the free music tuition they get, however taking this away may prevent some musicians from flourishing. Many great talents have come from West Lothian already, this may produce revenue, but you are looking to cut the tuition which helped them get to where they are now. I understand that tuition costs a lot, however it is a great benefit for those who cannot afford it and have hidden talents.	Instrumental music provision	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	All pupils will experience Instrumental Music Tuition in Primary School through the Youth Music Initiative. It is proposed that some access to tuition will remain. It is proposed that some access to tuition will remain. All children will retain appropriate music provision through curriculum for excellence. Opportunities to increase access for all pupils should be explored.
2449	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I do however feel music is an influential part of education from a very young age it is a therapy for a lot of children and in turn results in many careers. Perhaps spending less on computing in schools and things such as fancy art work or architecture along with expensive auditoriums, projectors etc there would be a lot more funding available for educational things. Schools are meant to be there to educate not for children's social life's with cafes in schools etc	Instrumental music provision	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	All pupils will experience Instrumental Music Tuition in Primary School through the Youth Music Initiative. It is proposed that some access to tuition will remain. All children will retain appropriate music provision through curriculum for excellence.
2450	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Perhaps parents could be asked to contribute towards music provision? Music has been proven to help support children from disadvantaged areas and increase attainment levels. There are many bands, especially brass and pipe, throughout the County and maybe the way forward is to reduce, slowly, music from schools but the Council to work in partnership with such bands to provide music instruction. I believe education psychology can play a big part in school life, especially in socially disadvantaged areas	Instrumental music provision	6. This is a positive suggestion. Officers will consider how this could be developed.	This comment will be considered in the development of the proposal. In relation to instrumental music, this comment demonstrates the positive impact of the service, which will continue.

2456	An individual	1b. Instrumental music provision	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal.	All children will retain appropriate music, drama, sport and art provision through curriculum for excellence.
2459	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	My sons only play the guitar because they were given the chance to do so in primary school. Indeed they were given the guitar as the orchestra instruments such as trumpet and cello were given to the middle-class children. Yet, despite this prejudice I am grateful (as a non-musical person) they had this opportunity. Without it they wouldn't be studying music as a Highers subject. Those who got the "posh" expensive instruments, the majority didn't continue with them. These should be for families who can't afford lessons or instruments. Easy way to make savings. And I don't mean just for those on benefits but for families, like mine, on a low wage. Too often we fall between the cracks as things are given to benefit recipients only.	Instrumental music provision	6. This is a positive suggestion. Officers will consider how this could be developed. 2470	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	This is a good idea if properly audited. 2475	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. 2477	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	There is sense in displays and funded course being centralised for customers beyond school age. Instrumental music provision	6. This is a positive suggestion. Officers will consider how this could be developed. 2478	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I think we need to ensure that the quality of tuition is not then diluted. 2500	An individual	1b. 2504	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Individual Instrumental music provision is sadly probably a luxury the council can no longer afford but as its something that privately is very expensive maybe its something that could be available at a cost in a central location by our experts thus bringing money in. 2505	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I don't understand most of this proposal, however, reducing the instrumental music provision does seem to be an obvious, and possibly easy, way to make cuts. I was fortunate to have an instrument at WLC P.S but I understand that there just isn't the budget to support so many young people with this opportunity anymore.	Instrumental music provision	1. 2509	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Finally and importantly - really - reduce music provision - in a culture where music is not only important to our country's culture but where music brings a future and opportunities to many through both business and pleasure - bit short sighted - think of all the festivals, events and arts (world famous) local, national and international - come on - it is not a big part of the budget - cut weedkilling instead?!?!? 2511	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Reduced instrumental music provision, whilst nice is not necessary. 2512	An individual	1b. 2514	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Reducing music provision allows staff to work directly with pupils in school - but relies on their ability in each instrument which will disadvantage a number of pupils. 2517	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Music is a integral part of the school programme and is very useful in giving pupils another outlet the express themselves by learning to play instruments. Reducing this or asking pupils/parents to pay for this could impact on families who are unable to pay.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2518	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Instrumental music is a very important area in schools. I would like this area to be kept as it has positive benefits for those children who are involved. And also for the community with participation in local events and concerts. West Lothian has a great heritage of music in schools and it would be very sad to see that go. Other ways to helping to supporting this should be found, for example a small charge for the concerts could perhaps raise some money for band funds, or a small charge, not for the tuition, but for hire of instruments.	Instrumental music provision	6. This is a positive suggestion. Officers will consider how this could be developed.	All pupils will experience Instrumental Music Tuition in Primary School through the Youth Music Initiative. It is proposed that some access to tuition will remain. 2522	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I came into this with the idea of proposing small payments of private school music lessons with the current fear that they will disappear entirely. Understandably if we have to cut more luxury spent budgets to increase the budgets for more important things such as health care and poverty then theres not anything to complain about. The idea still stands though. Perhaps instead of completely scrapping private music lessons in school small fee's could be payed either weekly or per term just to keep it going as I know from experience how useful lessons are when it comes to learning instruments. Trust me, would be sad to lose them.	Instrumental music provision	6. This is a positive suggestion. Officers will consider how this could be developed. 2523	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Reducing music provision will directly affect our children. Music builds confidence and helps ASN pupils feel a sense of belonging. Reducing provision is hugely short sighted.	Instrumental music provision	2. All pupils will experience Instrumental Music Tuition in Primary School through the Youth Music Initiative. It is proposed that some access to tuition will remain. 2524	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Removing or reducing instrumental provision in schools would be an absolute disaster for many pupils and families. In an environment where attainment is of fundamental importance, instrumental tuition allows many pupils who cannot access the curriculum in other subject areas a chance to succeed, achieve, build confidence and feel included. Instrumental music provision in schools provides pupils with experiences, skills and qualities that cannot be accessed elsewhere in school. The extra curricular opportunities provide pupils with focused activities out of school hours, preventing them from getting bored and getting involved with anti social behaviour out of school. The opportunities and learned skills makes these pupils stand out when applying for jobs, college, university etc which has a direct impact on attainment and employment. The sense of inclusion in a thriving Music department can have such a positive impact on pupils' health and well being. Reducing this resource in schools will have a worrying impact on the priorities West Lothian Council have set themselves.	Instrumental music provision	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	All pupils will experience Instrumental Music Tuition in Primary School through the Youth Music Initiative. It is proposed that some access to tuition will remain. All children will retain appropriate music provision through curriculum for excellence.
2525	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	This measure is very controversial in that the schools in economically deprived areas will loose central funding for their wider curriculum. In more affluent areas parents may be able to seek things like music tuition outwith the school environment.	Instrumental music provision	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	All pupils will experience Instrumental Music Tuition in Primary School through the Youth Music Initiative. It is proposed that some access to tuition will remain. All children will retain appropriate music provision through curriculum for excellence.
2526	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Music lessons in school are a crucial support system which supports me and my peers during the exam period. By cutting the music lessons out you will notice a massive difference in music exam results. Good luck to yous	Instrumental music provision	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	All pupils will experience Instrumental Music Tuition in Primary School through the Youth Music Initiative. It is proposed that some access to tuition will remain. All children will retain appropriate music provision through curriculum for excellence.
2527	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	The loss of instrumental instruction would be a tragedy, given its undoubted benefit across all areas of children's development and the curriculum. The instrumental music staff give way more of their time over and above what is contractually required in order to support West Lothian's young people, and they can point to countless ex-pupils of the service who are successful in all walks of life, including but not limited to music. There are instrumental service alumni in all professions - doctors, lawyers, dentists, vets, musicians, engineers, business owners. To subsume the work of instrumental instructors into schools delivers a sub-standard, non-specialised service that will not serve our young people. It will also mean that those who wish to benefit from this will be forced into the private sector, severely limiting the reach of this type of musical education so it can only be accessed by those who can afford it. This only serves to push the gap between the rich and poor further apart, and will put those who cannot afford instruction at a disadvantage through no fault of their own.	Instrumental music provision	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	All pupils will experience Instrumental Music Tuition in Primary School through the Youth Music Initiative. It is proposed that some access to tuition will remain. All children will retain appropriate music provision through curriculum for excellence.
2528	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	"Into the mainstream curriculum" is a vague statement - and if it requires music teachers to subsume the work of instructors then the service really would be sub-standard. Music teachers in classrooms are doing a wholly different job. If they play to their own specialisms and for instance, teach whole classes "their" instrument, they are not meeting the curriculum principle of personalisation and choice. This absolutely would not work. Instrumental lessons are specialised and focused, to remove these would hinder West Lothian's musical development significantly, and would have a ripple effect into the workforce and economy in later years, as future performers, creatives and audiences deplete, and music would once again become a pastime of the wealthy few.	Instrumental music provision	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	All pupils will experience Instrumental Music Tuition in Primary School through the Youth Music Initiative. It is proposed that some access to tuition will remain. All children will retain appropriate music provision through curriculum for excellence.
2529	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Integrating instrumental music provision would be problematic for teachers and would rob musically talented young people of an important means of improving and practising.	Instrumental music provision	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	All pupils will experience Instrumental Music Tuition in Primary School through the Youth Music Initiative. It is proposed that some access to tuition will remain. 2530	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	The arts should not be seen as a viable method to save funds. This outlet is important to the younger generation and it's development, cutting resources in these fields is a short term solution that will cause further expense in the future.	Instrumental music provision	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal. 2531	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I am angry that you are proposing reducing instrumental music tuition to schools. My daughter has had the opportunity to have cello tuition at her school and to be part of the school orchestra and this has greatly enhanced her life. It would be as if other children were not given the same opportunity. Perhaps a better way of managing this might be to introduce a small fee for lessons, means tested so that those who can't pay don't loose out.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2533	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Absolutely no reduction in instrument instruction! You need more money to be given to schools	Instrumental music provision	2. 2534	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Music is very important. It provides a way for students to escape, gain confidence, mix with different year groups, improve listening and many many more things. For me it has been an important part of my life in and out of school. It's has helped me a lot in many aspects of my life and I cannot imagine not going to band or going to lessons. I think music needs to get as much support as it can to keep going and do that for others. I think departments such as physical education should be restructured and redesigned instead as it gets much, much more attention than music.	Instrumental music provision	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	All pupils will experience Instrumental Music Tuition in Primary School through the Youth Music Initiative. It is proposed that some access to tuition will remain. 2535	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I think the instrumental services are a great resource having had a child use the service at primary school level and to continue this on to high school the effort put in by pupils and teachers is great to see especially when they are recognised when they win awards nationally this also builds their confidence and helps them to develop socially	Instrumental music provision	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	All pupils will experience Instrumental Music Tuition in Primary School through the Youth Music Initiative. It is proposed that some access to tuition will remain. 2536	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I understand the necessity for changes to services and recognise how difficult it is to find proposals. I am most concerned about the reduced instrumental music provision as this will impact directly on children. Children and young people will miss out and I find that hard to accept. Achievement is as high on the national agenda as attainment after all.	Instrumental music provision	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal. 2537	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Removing services such as school instrumental tuition won't improve attainment, it could make it worse. All children will retain appropriate music provision through curriculum for excellence.
2538	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	When I was at school, I generally did not really enjoy being there but the instrumental music tuition was what made me enjoy school and I feel my attendance would not have been as good as it was. Changing how this is currently would downgrade the level of qualifications students are leaving school with.	Instrumental music provision	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	All pupils will experience Instrumental Music Tuition in Primary School through the Youth Music Initiative. It is proposed that some access to tuition will remain. All children will retain appropriate music provision through curriculum for excellence.
2539	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Although it is great to have instrumental music provision, again, reducing this will not impact on a large number of pupils. Pupils and parents who are interested in playing instruments will be able to seek out opportunities outwith school. The school music curriculum could be adapted to include opportunities for experiencing music tuition.	Instrumental music provision	6. This is a positive suggestion. Officers will consider how this could be developed.	All pupils will experience Instrumental Music Tuition in Primary School through the Youth Music Initiative. It is proposed that some access to tuition will remain. All children will retain appropriate music provision through curriculum for excellence.
2540	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Numerous pieces have been done which suggests that music education can increase attainment in other subjects, so it is counter-intuitive to be cutting services in this area. However, if the Council does cut these services, it would be useful for them to work with voluntary sector providers such as local bands who can help to fill this gap in service provision.	Instrumental music provision	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	All pupils will experience Instrumental Music Tuition in Primary School through the Youth Music Initiative. It is proposed that some access to tuition will remain. 2541	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Music is just as important as anything else you canâ€™t cut this down - it gives children a way to relax and feel calm, opens up career opportunities for those who feel music is really for them (like I did once given the opportunity to play in primary school) itâ€™s also keeps children out of trouble and concentrated due to all the different elements of playing and learning music. If you need more proof of just how beneficial music is look at the El Sistema project and all the good work that has done over the years for troubled and poverty ridden children to keep them out of trouble. Having music as a lesser option than other subjects just isnâ€™t fair and takes away amazing and life changing chances from the kids.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2542	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Please keep the music education funding for school children who otherwise would not have had a chance to learn an instrument and take part in orchestras. I believe this falls firmly into the categories: improving attainment and positive destination for school children, improving the employment position in West Lothian, delivering positive outcomes on health and minimising poverty, the cycle of deprivation and promoting equality. The music education provides students opportunities to cultivate social and team working skills, as well as being a fantastic boost for students and young people when it comes to the creation of a CV and the first steps onto the working scene. It helps students to practice commitment, public performance as well as providing opportunities for pupils to work individually and collectively. Not to mention the benefits of students interacting with each other is good for the health and helps to develop relationship skills which will undoubtedly help in their working careers. 2543	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	NO TO REDUCING INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC PROVISION. With the job market being ever so competitive, the instrumental music programme gives the edge to pupils who otherwise would not have access to music. There are many positive outcomes to the instrumental programme - such as developing skills related to team work, individual work, commitment to work. It provides the students with opportunities to meet with other students and to develop relationships - skills which will be vital to their eventual progression into the Scottish work force. By getting reducing the music provision, you are taking away a vital part of education. Not only does the music education help those who eventually will go on to pursue music as a career, but it helps those who will go on to work as part of teams, individually and internationally. Personally with the music programme, I have made friendships that have lasted throughout and beyond my high school career, I have had the chance to travel with the wind band to national competitions and I have had the chance to learn how to perform in front of an audience. The education service has provided me with key skills and I would not like the chance to learn an instrument to be taken away from the next generation of students in West Lothian. 2550	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	My child very much enjoys music lessons. During the difficult transition between primary school and high school, music lessons has been the one constant and a subject where she feels confident and able to express her creativity - It is a subject that she very much looks forward to, so much so that she takes cello lessons during lunch! The knowledge she gained on stringed instruments at primary school has opened doors for her in high school and she is able to choose guitar, drums & keyboard in high school. Not all children are naturally academic, but excel more with their creative side, whether it be sport, music etc. I think it would be a shame to take this away from them.	Instrumental music provision	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	All pupils will experience Instrumental Music Tuition in Primary School through the Youth Music Initiative. It is proposed that some access to tuition will remain. All children will retain appropriate music provision through curriculum for excellence.
2551	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I disagree with Section 1B and think its very sad that the instrumental music lessons are under threat. This is fantastic opportunity for kids to learn how to focus and learn about their individual creativity. My daughter played cello all throughout primary school and now in 1st year at high school her musical knowledge has opened further doors for her - she not only continues with cello, but also guitar, keyboard and drums (including lessons during lunch). With the difficult transition between primary school and high school, music lessons is the one constant for her and what she very much looks forward to in the school week. I think it would be a tragedy to take away this opportunity to express creativity and to learn discipline and focus.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2553	On behalf of a Group/Organisation	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	What are the changes to how the council will work with partner agencies - not enough information to make an informed comment or decision. Will the council be required to spend more money in the short term to make long term savings - if so what does this entail. The council have not made each of the proposals very clear and no specifics, savings appear to be estimated, what is the clear background information relating to each saving, what are the staff/employee implications as well the implications for service users and the community. Music within schools should remain as children and young people use it as a way to express themselves in a positive manner in terms having positive impacts on mental health, confidence, communication, self belief etc. Have Equality Impact Assessments been completed relating to these savings? 2554	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	West Lothian used to have an excellent musical reputation. Music is as important a subject as those that are considered to be more academic, would you ever consider reducing mathematics or chemistry provision?!	Instrumental music provision	2. 2555	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I would be extremely disappointed if the reduction in instrumental tuition is implemented. The benefits children, including our own, gain from playing in an orchestra and Folk Group are immeasurable. If these opportunities were taken away from children in West Lothian it would be an absolute disgrace and a poor reflection on the council.	Instrumental music provision	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal. 2556	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I think the reduction in music provision is a good idea. While this is a good service to provide and allows children to have a new experience, it is not an essential service.	Instrumental music provision	1. 2558	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Music instrumentalists also provide a new path for pupils who may have a talent. Not all pupils get the opportunity to get music tuition and it would be devastating to see this going in schools.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2563	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	As a pupil who has been involved in the instrumental music programme for the last 8 years of my life, I believe that cuts to this could cause large problems. The instrumental music programme helps students to grow their confidence in performing arts and also helps them to overcome many problems in their life. It has personally allowed me to become the young person I am today and has given me multiple opportunities to show my skill and grow my confidence, as a young person who struggled with confidence issues in my primary years I am now in my 5th year of high school and I am now able to speak and perform in front of crowds of people without feeling self conscious. 2566	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Waffle. There is irrefutable evidence of the positive effects instrumental music tuition provides to all pupils in terms of behaviour, social integration and general intelligence. 2579	An individual	1b. 2580	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Instrumental Music. I wonder what "integrating a reduced provision" into the curriculum actually means. If this service (which is only provided to a small percentage of pupils??) is part of the curriculum then that infers they will receive timetabled tuition? Surely that means more expense as schools would have to factor this in when timetables are allegedly already struggling to offer all subjects at high schools. Charging for the service would seem to be more fair, BUT, there are numbers of kids who get access by default to things like school ensembles who do not get taught through instrumental music so there would need to be consideration given to EVERYONE making a contribution to the instructors costs. Why is it only music that is being considered here - what about Active Schools co-ordinators and staff?	Instrumental music provision	2. 2582	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Not sure what an advisory approach would achieve. Class Music teachers would notice the huge increase in workload if the instrumental music is absorbed. This would not give pupils much choice. The ensembles would disappear. 2583	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I completely disagree with the reduction of musical tuition. Music provides many benefits and should not be underestimated. It can benefit mental health, social inclusion, and for those who struggle academically another avenue of study and future employment. As a former music pupil of a West Lothian school I can offer a first hand account of how music removed me from the cycle of bullying and avoiding school. It increased my confidence, my self worth, my self belief and prevented me from the spiral of depression I was falling into. I gained a place on a prestigious music course at university and it has allowed me to love a fulfilling life. It also taught me many skills including study skills. To reduce this would be detrimental to so many pupils.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2584	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Saying 'integrating a reduced instrumental music provision' when you mean cuts to practical music classes is not helping anyone. Arts are always the first thing to be cut and by doing this we are doing young people a disservice, they help those that don't get on well academically to have something they are good at and enjoy, they improve our mental health and our abilities in other areas like communication (key for boys in terms of mental health). However, if there are ways of keeping music and other arts whilst making savings this should be done, e.g. school bands, choirs etc instead of individual teaching. The Brazilian youth orchestra movement is hugely successful.	Instrumental music provision	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal. 2586	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Reducing the chance for pupils to try extra curriculum activities will lead to a future generation of narrow learned leavers. Not all students excel academically and should be given the opportunity to find their own specialised niche - where would our entertainment industry be without people from all backgrounds being given all opportunities.	Instrumental music provision	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal. 2587	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Music lessons have allowed me to grow significantly in confidence, and to learn how to play an amazing instrument, as well as make new friends and memories to last forever. I would not only be heartbroken if I could no longer get my lessons and attend the fantastic orchestras I currently do, but I would feel heartbroken for all of the young people who will no longer have the chance to get the wonderful opportunities in music that I have. So I ask you please, don't deprive these potential musicians of all the brilliant chances you are offering at the moment, as they are truly life changing and I am so, so glad that I have, and have had the chance to do this.	Instrumental music provision	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	All pupils will experience Instrumental Music Tuition in Primary School through the Youth Music Initiative. It is proposed that some access to tuition will remain. All children will retain appropriate music provision through curriculum for excellence.
2588	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I would urge extreme caution at moves to reduce instrumental tuition. Music is a gift to the whole of society and denying access to quality tuition to a generation has implications not just for the children but for the wider community longer term. 2589	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	However, I am very, very firmly against the reduction in music provision. Three of our four children benefitted from free one to one tuition in clarinet, saxophone and flute and I think those lessons and their involvement in school and West Lothian bands and orchestras was a hugely successful part of their education. Music has been shown in SO many studies to help raise attainment in other parts of the curriculum. Why, in an era when music has been shown to be so successful in low attainment areas such as the Raploch in Stirling, would our council, whose "lifting out of poverty" and improving our young peoples' life chances is one of their 8 stated aims, consider reducing music support.	Instrumental music provision	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	All pupils will experience Instrumental Music Tuition in Primary School through the Youth Music Initiative. It is proposed that some access to tuition will remain. 2591	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Although embedding these resources into themselves is a good idea, it becomes increasingly difficult for the school to solely provide these functions by itself, as well as the other countless things expected of them. Especially musical tuition. Musical ability is a key and very important factor in a teenager and young child's personality and growth. As many tutors are currently paid by the council, of this area is put into the hands of the school, there is no doubt many children will lose one of their most prized, and confident building lessons due to the fact that most schools will be unable to keep every tutor under its payroll. Music tuition is not only an instrumental lesson, it is so much more. It provides pupils with a variety of skills they can use later on in life, and also in their other classes. To prioritise things such as PE, geography or French over music is ridiculous. Music tuition is extremely important in character building, and without instrumentalists and singers, Scotland would not be the society it is today. Many parents can not afford to pay for their children to receive tutoring outside of school if these tutors were to leave due to this budget cut. This denies people who aren't necessarily academic with an opportunity to express themselves in something they find enjoyable. As well as this, music tuition can be a calm place for those with high academic expectations, and can relieve stress from them, as well as build skills necessary for their other classes and exams. As well as this, music tutors spend a lot of time with their students one to one and often offer them so much more than just a lesson. As well as this, the government and council simply cannot expect students to achieve high examination marks, in music specifically as well as others, without the access of music tutors if the schools were unable to pay for them. Music tutors contribute massively to the workings of the schools, it's music departments, bands and local authority bands. Students taking music couldn't pass their practical exams without the help of their tutors as their class teachers are simply unable to help them with every instrument. They are specialists who allow students to reach higher and higher, above the standard of just academic subjects. Having the council pay for music tuition is important because music is a gateway for so many things, and we simply cannot get there without our tutors teaching us the ways of our instruments. Music Tuition may not save lives like the NHS, but it makes people who do.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2592	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Instrumental music provision in West Lothian is rightly recognised as exemplary. It is open to all and provides our children with a truly rounded, first class education. Cutting education provision in this way may prove superficially attractive but will do great harm to the future of so many children in West Lothian. Education is more than just passing exams and music provision should be supported in order to continue to provide an educated society. By cutting this service, the council will be deliberately destroying something that West Lothian is rightly famous for. It would be an act of "educational vandalism". How can the council claim to support excellence in education if it were to scrap one of the key elements in which it has achieved excellence? Providing services centrally currently frees up frontline school teachers to teach. By scrapping central support, the functions will be passed on to teachers and heads. This will simply distract them from the classroom and reduce effectiveness. It may be attractive but will be a false economy.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2594	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I do not believe a reduced instrumental music provision is in the children's best interest as for some children that is the only area they do well in. It has also been well documented how music helps brain development and how it can help over all development. This service should not be taken away, I understand how much the council needs to save and working in a primary school within the council I see this daily. So I am suggesting instead of taking it away from children altogether you give parents the option to pay for the tuition as other council successfully do.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2595	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Please do not reduce instrumental music provision to schools. The current music service is outstanding, the benefits to the children are enormous. Playing a musical instrument in school is well documented as being a potentially life transforming experience for young people from all backgrounds. Their experiences through tuition and playing in school orchestras and bands will contribute vastly to their well being which benefits society. I have two children who have music lessons in school and play in school music ensembles - they look forward to every lesson, practice, and performance. It is by far their most positive experience of secondary school.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2596	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Please learn from the mistake of changing the 5-14 curriculum for the curriculum for excellence. Don't take away the music lessons. Taking away "instrumental music provision" from school pupils. If that means stopping the music lessons to pupils that make up the school bands, perform the school concerts then this is mad. Many of these pupils have found friends and gained confidence through playing music in a group then onto the band. They that this confidence and it fuels the learning in other subjects, leading to better attainment levels. As a former teacher, I have seen the difference this can make to kids that struggle making friends. They were not ignored they just didn't say anything to anyone as they had no common ground. Then after getting an instrument then into one of the bands, they had topic that they used and could talk to some people, and these people had friends and soon this poor kid with noone to talk to had a little group of friends. So to remove the music lessons would have a negative affect on some pupils currently receiving these lessons, not only academically but also and possibly more importantly socially. 2597	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Only someone that has no musical background or education could suggest that instrumental music provision could be part of mainstream curriculum. Or simply someone who sees music as an easy option to cut! It has been proven that children who play are more likely to succeed generally in school and that there is a link to better health and well being. All the council wide activities of various bands would cease to exist which are invaluable to musical education. We will end up back with the pre-standard grade scenario that only children of well-off parents will be able to learn to play. There will be no one to represent WL at high profile events such as the pipeband playing at the opening of the Queensferry crossing. WL has had an exemplary reputation regarding music education up till now. Many students have gone on to RCS and various universities and colleges to study music and build themselves careers and lives within the creative industries. 2614	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I am horrified that the council are considering reducing access to music for these children. My daughter has played the trumpet. She is now in second year. She has learned so much from access to this not only learning how to play a musical instrument but also socializing and being part of a team. She has progressed so much since becoming part of the junior and then senior band within this programme. I do believe my daughter wouldn't have been at the stage she is at the moment without this music provision. There are not enough resources to teach music as part of the mainstream curriculum. My children continue to benefit from instrumental tuition. If it wasn't for this, they would not have been taught how to read and play music fluently. Playing an instrument has benefits for children beyond music. 2621	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I am very much against a reduced instrumental music service. West Lothian council has a strong tradition in instrumental music and many of our young people, many of whom may otherwise not be able to afford private lessons, benefit greatly from the service provided. Anyone who has attended the showcase Spring Concert Series will have witnessed the talent and dedication of both the young people and staff of the instrumental music service and the great sense of pride and achievement the young people gain from it. 2622	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	This seems like a common sense approach but I am concerned about the reduced music provisions: what about children and young people who are not necessarily academic, that find a release through mediums such as the arts including music. Music is a very important part in the curriculum and although I was not musically gifted, the music teachers (as well as CDT) tend disseminate their passion onto pupils and have fabulous relationships with all pupils regardless of the musical talent. Again this is a common sense approach as long as the Head Teacher has an open dialogue and respect for the communities in which they work.	Instrumental music provision	2. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Plans for Instrumental music are buried in this initiative which is a concern and suggests less transparency than previous failed attempts to reduce or abandon this historic and unique cultural provision in west lothian. IMS delivers something far more than simple ability to play an instrument. The importance of team dynamics, confidence building, discipline, commitment, the sense of responsibility and simply giving some young people a greater sense of purpose should not be underestimated. The cost are very small in the context of education budgets and the service must be protected.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2628	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Reducing instrumental music provision would be extremely detrimental to the education of children in West Lothian. WLC has been rightly proud of the instrumental provision up until now - many children have benefited hugely from free music tuition from extremely dynamic and enthusiastic teachers. They have played music with kids from all over West Lothian and have travelled to other countries to experience music there. WLC should be aware of the huge educational benefits of playing music and should not disadvantage kids from more deprived backgrounds from the benefits, which is what will happen if Head Teachers are responsible for budgets. Any reduction in funding for any area of education would be detrimental - WLC should remember that with maximum educational opportunities come improved employment and reduced poverty - hence reducing the need for many council services. 2629	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	If music provision is decreased any further (as a parent I have seen it decline) you will not maintain the current standard. That is fine, just so long as this is acknowledged and made public in the consultation. I do find it a bit odd given the evidence on the benefits of playing an instrument and the take up of the sistema system by Stirling. It would be preferable to charge for music than to let the standard fall. Of course this would mean that you would have to guarantee sufficient staffing to ensure that lessons were the agreed length. 2630	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Until recently, when cuts started to be made - WLC instrumental music service was one of the best in the country - and WLC quite rightly bragged about it. Centralising this service in schools and from their budgets will be disastrous to this service. Music should be considered a hugely important area to be encouraged for all children - it helps to improve attainment in all areas of education - and the service has helped many disadvantaged children in West Lothian to experience music, and playing with others in the area. If anything, more money should be spent on expanding this service - expand and improve the education of children and employment goes up, poverty goes down. If the council needs more money to provide decent services then they should be lobbying central government for more funding instead of quietly lying down and making huge cuts in the hope of gaining favour in future elections. 2631	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	However, I am appalled to read of the proposal to reduce the instrumental music provision and integrate it into the mainstream curriculum - whatever this indeed means. A centrally managed instrumental music service is crucial to improve the life chances of the young people in West Lothian. Studies are consistently highlighting the benefits of learning to play an instrument for our young people, which includes improving their wellbeing, mental health and attainment. Playing with their school bands and ensembles gives pupils a positive reason to come to school, an outlet for their creativity and a strong sense of social identity. West Lothian bands and ensembles lead the way in national competitions and festivals - recent achievements by the Brass Band, Pipe Band and Wind Ensemble speak for themselves, and are not matched anywhere else in Scotland. Pupils need more than 5 As at Higher to get in to terrifically competitive University courses in the current climate, and our pupils need the skills and experience they get learning instruments from specialist teachers to set them above the applicants from elsewhere. If this opportunity is denied to our young people then University places will be offered to those pupils from North Lanarkshire, East Dunbartonshire, City of Edinburgh etc who can demonstrate an additional skill set which can only be learned through playing in bands and ensembles. The instrumental music service also plays a significant role in Primary - Secondary transition, in helping introduce primary pupils to secondary school in a familiar environment through cluster bands and ensembles, music camp days / weekends away, and also giving secondary pupils vital mentoring experience. To reduce the instrumental music service would be the death knell of all cultural activities within our schools. Pupils would no longer be able to participate in events such as performances, school shows, tours and exchange trips, and all of the things which create long-lasting memories for our young people would be lost. Our pupils would not be able to access any career opportunities within the creative industries, unless they could afford private tuition, and the ability to access opportunities offered by such organisations such as the Royal Conservatoire of Scotland would be exceptionally challenging at best. This is a short sighted proposal which is aimed at an easy target, and would damage the educational and life opportunities of a generation of West Lothian children.	Instrumental music provision	2. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I strongly believe that instrumental music provision should not be reduced for music takes a very important role in the lives of many students and can be of good use to their education. It is scientifically proven that people who know how to play an instrument are more successful educationally. It improves attitude and develops many important skills that may be of good use in their studies and career. According to research, playing an instrument can increase IQ by 7 points in both children and adults. It improves multi-tasking skills, enhances the memory and gives a sense of determination. The persistence and complex thinking which goes into playing an instrument changes the shape of the brain making it more powerful and thus developing the it. Learning how to play an instrument can also improve mental state. Music relieves stress and creates a more calmed attitude which is needed in the life of a student. It also develops patience, discipline and perseverance. Many musicians also perform which boosts confidence and performance levels that could serve very useful for later opportunities. Playing an instrument can also give a feeling of satisfaction which then leads to a tremendous sense of self-achievement. This creates a determined attitude that helps accomplish more in other areas of ones life. Overall, I believe that musicians make better students and that instrumental music provision should not be reduced for it serves too useful and is very important especially for a student and their education. 2633	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Cutting instrumental tuition and attempting to integrate it within timetabled music classes is impossible and very unfair on music students trying to pass practical exams on their chosen instruments. Firstly music class high school teachers do not and cannot teach many instruments, most are limited to keyboard and glockenspiel, not very inspiring! I have 2 children studying music and it would be impossible for them to continue their practical side of music exams without instrumental teachers. I cannot believe that West Lothian Council would contemplate cutting a most necessary and worthwhile area of the broad curriculum in their schools. Children have the right to opportunities in all subjects and to deprive them of the chance to excel in music if they are talented, is unforgivable. West Lothian Council must reconsider this backwards proposal and be proud to show other Scottish Councils that they can be progressive and value the fantastic resource they have in nurturing music students. I urge those with the decision making powers to stop and think carefully before destroying the potential of the many super talented, musically gifted young people of West Lothian.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2634	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I have been made aware of your intention to review / withdraw funding regarding musical tutors and their associated activities within the school setting. With this in mind I would like to inform you of my objections to this for the following reasons. There is a side to music, which you may not be familiar with. Music can be of benefit to the individual both mentally and physically, not just musicians but their audience also. Music is a discipline that uses all of the brain and has been shown to have a positive impact upon memory, focus, coordination and development as well as negative physical symptoms as confirmed by many scientists including Nina Kraus, Jane Hornickel and Dana L. Strait. Many people, not involved with music, may not appreciate the benefits of listening to music or playing an instrument however it has been shown that advantage exists through positive cognitive improvement. It is not possible to cover every benefit in which music can assist herein, therefore the following areas have been highlighted; Hand eye coordination, Communication, Self esteem, Mathematical ability and social awareness from which it is hoped you will come to realise the importance of this topic and the long term damage that could be caused if withdrawn. Many pupils are known to struggle with hand eye coordination resulting in their involvement in sports therapies however there are those that still encounter difficulties. Studies, carried out by the Northwestern Universities neuroscience laboratory, university of Toronto and Dr. Eugenia Costa-Giomi show that musicians have above average hand eye coordination, which evolves from the necessity to read music coordinate hand movement and breathing simultaneously. Moreover when reading sheet music the brain subconsciously changes what it reads to movement or specific action, consequently the performance of the brain controlling this function is enhanced. The above studies also revealed / acknowledged that musicians have a better understanding of verbal and non-verbal communication skills as their thought process is often more complex resulting from the requirement to understand and utilise these attributes more frequently. As a musician, verbal communication skills and self esteem are also improved, through successful peer interaction, due to the requirement to perform in groups an example being: teachers bringing students together from different geographical areas and denominations to perform countrywide thanks to organizations like the Scottish Concert Band Festival (SCBF). Studies by Dr. Costa-Giomi have shown that, as a musician, the necessity to read music can improve mathematical ability due to	Instrumental music provision	2. 2639	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	As a parent with a son at Bathgate Academy, I am appalled that the council would consider removing or decreasing the provision of music instructors to schools. This is a valuable service for children studying music at Nat5 and Higher level, and also those children with additional educational needs for whom music plays a vital part in their education. This is a very bad move by WL council!	Instrumental music provision	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal. All children will retain appropriate music provision through curriculum for excellence.
2640	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	The council has long been a strong supporter of the successful music service in West Lothian. How can the teaching of instrumental brass, woodwind, etc be achieved as an integrated part of the mainstream curriculum? This is a specialist area which requires the input of specialist teachers. Does this mean therefore that this service will become a paid service only available to those who can afford to pay? How will the council make instrumental music accessible and available to all children?	Instrumental music provision	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal. 2641	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Every child should be given the opportunity to learn an instruments and reducing provision will increase cultural divisions between children in the poorest families and those in the richest as middle class families seek middle tuition privately. All pupils will experience Instrumental Music Tuition in Primary School through the Youth Music Initiative. It is proposed that some access to tuition will remain. 2642	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Don't agree at all with reduction of music provision in the schools, having seen the positive effect of this on the young people taking part. Do we really want them out on the street corners , bored and causing trouble rather than learning a skill which will stay with them for the rest of their lives, and importantly, within a like minded group of friends. This is an appalling idea. The impact of the music teachers ,even part time, is way beyond the comparatively modest saving to be made.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2643	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	The loss of additional services, such as the Instrumental Music Service, could be hit hard and would be detrimental and have an impact on the curriculum. 2644	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	As a parent with a child who wants her positive destination when she leaves school to study music the saving I most object to is the reduction in the instrumental music provision . West Lothian Wind Ensemble last year won a platinum award at the SCBF which was recognised as an achievement in WLC stellar awards. This would not be possible without the current model and the dedication of the current instrumental teachers . Instrumental music is not something that can be integrated into the mainstream curriculum as pupils rely on the one to one tuition from suitably qualified teachers to get to a position to be able to play their instrument well and with confidence . This would be an unfair burden on class teachers in primary school who don't have this background .This one to one tuition then allows them to move on to play in a school group situation , then on the area instrumental programmes . Music has proven benefits for learning of other subjects as already detailed on the WLC page . Within the school curriculum it encourages team work by pupils taking part in school bands . Within the area ensembles it gives children a place to develop their talents and also gives a positive location for them to be during week nights . The current curriculum does not even reach the entry requirements for most music colleges to reduce it further would be hugely detrimental to children with this career development path . There is no consideration in this consultation to reducing any other speciality teaching why has instrumental music been singled out ? The redesign of the support functions and central educational services are something I would support.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2647	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I think the Schools should investigate modern manufactured instruments that are cheaper than traditional manufactured ones. e.g. I am aware that schools in other councils in the UK are providing plastic instruments for new starts, which can be cheaper stepping stone for parents to manage than going straight into traditionally made instruments at higher rental costs. 2650	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Music is fundamental to a good education and influences other areas of the curriculum in a positive way, e.g. Maths. Class teachers cannot be expected to deliver teaching in this area unless they are offered a comprehensive music training course, which could cost more than retaining properly trained music teachers. There is little enough in the curriculum at the moment so it would be a really detrimental step to remove trained music teachers altogether.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2652	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Central region charged for instrumental services in the 1980s. 2654	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Putting instrumental services into general music services is not feasible, it is simply not possible for a music teacher to be able to also provide a range of instrumental tuition, just like a French can't suddenly start teaching German. The consequence will be that music will be greatly downgraded and music teachers will stop in West Lothian high schools. Presumably that is the outcome hoped for(?) although that goes against lots of research about improving education and attainment, so not really in line with the supposed priorities.	Instrumental music provision	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	All pupils will experience Instrumental Music Tuition in Primary School through the Youth Music Initiative. It is proposed that some access to tuition will remain. 2655	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	There is a danger of children missing out on opportunities such as learning a musical instrument and therefore missing out on a great opportunity to learn and develop as individuals. As someone who benefitted from musical instrument lessons at school in West Lothian I know the benefits it can bring. I have made amazing friends and had incredible experiences through learning a musical instrument and studies have shown that learning a musical instrument can help in brain development as it makes you think in different ways to standard learning such as maths and English. 2656	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Very much against reduced instrumental music provision. Once dismantled this service will be very difficult to rebuild & the expertise of music teachers lost to the detriment of many children. 2657	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I've been told schools nearly always have underspend in their budgets. 2658	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Learning a musical instrument has been proved in many studies to improve attainment, well-being and life chances. It promotes skills for learning, life and work such as perseverance and resilience. West Lothian Council's Instrumental Service is, without doubt, one of the best in Scotland. Over the years, the various bands have won national and international competitions. This shows the quality of musical education being provided. I am now a music teaching working within West Lothian. I would not have achieved this without the input of the IMS in West Lothian. I feel strongly that instrumental music instruction should be available to all children, irrespective of their economic background.	Instrumental music provision	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal. 2659	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Instrumental music tuition plays a vital role in the attainment and should be preserved within schools at all costs. As someone who receives tuition within school, I believe that the A's I achieved in both national 5 and higher music would not have been possible without the excellent tuition I received. 2660	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Having reviewed the 'Transforming Your Council' Guide issued by West Lothian Council I am particularly concerned about the reduction of the Instrumental Music Service and integration of this into the Mainstream Curriculum. This is a most highly valued service amongst the children currently receiving expert musical instrument tuition and will be a great loss to the generation of young musicians coming up behind them. The instructors are experts in their own instruments - a key factor in successful instrumental tuition. The children not only receive quality instrumental lessons, but also the opportunity to play in bands and orchestras both within their school cluster and across West Lothian thanks to the dedication and commitment of the instrumental teachers. These bands and orchestras provide the children with fabulous experiences of creating music together as a team, striving to improve through dedicated practice both individually and collectively. The concerts and school events they participate in are a fantastic opportunity for them to represent their schools and showcase their achievements and are an absolutely crucial part of school life. Without the Instrumental teachers, these events would be unlikely to continue. I also have grave concerns about the practicality of integrating instrumental teaching with mainstream classroom music tuition. Playing a musical instrument is a very technical and specialist skill and in my view cannot effectively be done by anyone other than a specialist. Classroom music teachers are naturally able musicians but are not necessarily highly trained in the vast range of musical instruments currently taught by the Instrumental Music Service in West Lothian. I understood that the Council were considering cuts to non statutory obligations. I am not exactly sure that the Nat 5 and Higher Music Curriculum fall into this category. To pass these exams, students require to be able to perform an 8 minute programme at Nat 5 and 12 minute programme for Higher on 2 instruments at an intermediate / advanced level. Removing the instrumental music service will require students wishing to study music to Higher level to pay privately for lessons which is not an option for many of our children in West Lothian. There has been a huge amount of research undertaken showing the benefits of playing a musical instrument. These include: Improved maths skills by understanding beat, rhythm and scales a child is subconsciously learning about dividing, fractions and recognising patterns and sequences. Improved language skills reading and comprehension are both developed whilst learning to read music Creates responsibility, perseverance and a sense of achievement Benefits	Instrumental music provision	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal. 2661	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	It is also very surprising that there would be reduced instrumental music provision. I believe that this is a very backwards step as it is proven to have a very positive effect on attainment.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2662	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Instrumental music provision cannot adequately be provided for within the classroom. Teachers only see each class for 50 minutes per week, so clearly cannot provide 30 minutes of 1-2-1 tuition to each pupil in a class of 30. Music provision should be considered within an overall cultural planning strategy, in a similar way to current community planning groups, where the value of the arts and culture is understood and valued for its intrinsic and instrumental value to society. Given the recent outcry over the leaked proposal to close the City of Edinburgh Music School, it should be clear to West Lothian Council that this proposal to remove instrumental teaching from schools will not be accepted by constituents. Elected council members should be educated on the value of the arts and culture and consider their contribution to West Lothian's unique culture and to arts development more broadly. With this proposal, all instrumental teachers would lose their jobs. There would be no more school concerts or regional concerts, which benefit audiences as well as participants. Young people would lose the opportunity to learn a musical instrument for free. Without this service, professionals who are currently working in the sector such as myself, as I grew up in the area, would not be doing what they do, which is educating and providing further opportunities for individuals to learn and perform music. The broader instrumental effects of music and the arts on learning are well documented (see Sistema Scotland reports). This proposal shows a fundamental lack of value placed on the arts and culture by West Lothian Council, which will not be tolerated in our modern society.	Instrumental music provision	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal. 2665	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	To create a reduced Instrumental music service must be approached with careful consideration. If you cut this too much there won't be all the ensembles the councillors like to roll out at all the important events. It's a service to be proud of. Yes, there's are improvements that could be made, particularly within the performance and professional commitment of some of the instructors. However, there are many staff who do make a huge difference to young people and to remove this will be a huge mistake. Look at the number of young people involved in the Spring Concert Series. That would no longer happen. The benefits of learning musical instruments have been proven time and time again and yet councils continually put these services under threat. By devolving this service to head teachers, the provision of instrumental music is at the mercy of a head teachers preference. Please ensure that this service is not left so vulnerable that it disappears. This would be a significant loss to our young people.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2666	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I have first hand experience of seeing the benefits of one to one instrumental instruction in schools. Taking this provision away or diminishing it is short sighted and I disagree with this option. Class music teachers do not have the expertise and knowledge in these specialist subjects, therefore to maintain the high and respected standards West Lothian are used to, it is imperative to keep this service funded as required.. 2668	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	For some children, who are not particularly academic, musicianship can be such an important subject. Some kids will not have any other opportunity to use an instrument or even see/hold one let alone what it actually sounds like. Class sizes are increasing due to staffing cuts so what's the chances of effectively encouraging children to take up a musical instrument without much disruption in a class of over 30 kids? 2679	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I do not agree that the instrumental music service should be reduced and integrated into the mainstream curriculum. I believe that the music provision in West Lothian is second to none in Scotland. The experience that both of my children have had through music has been the highlight of their school journey which they are now coming to the end of. Music allows children in West Lothian to grow, in a non-competitive environment, and teaches them discipline and commitment. Having the experience of ensemble music offers so much more than private music lessons outside of school. Maybe a fair charging system should be introduced for music, but it would be a very sad day if the Spring series concerts were no longer possible.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2680	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	The instrumental music provision we have known has been driven by the dedication & inspiration of the teachers/tutors and the hours of work the self motivated students give to practicing. This has undoubtedly ensured the various bands have been National Award winning bands, any cut in the Services or removal of tuition will devastate the very essence of a subject which crosses all barriers of ability, culture or belief, skills and knowledge. Personally over the past 16 years my 3 children have gained much life skills and confidence in their own belief to achieve beyond any hopes or standards they may have set themselves. Musicianship opens the gateway to so many opportunities far beyond the school years. I would be concerned about the affect on the young pupils currently having tuition. The loss of this extra music support would reduce their ability to succeed in exams and development of their socialising skills to take part in competitive experiences. It would demoralise the staff left in post and silence all school music depts. I would rather see a universal increase in Council Tax per household as ultimately most households have a younger generation being educated and using the service.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2684	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Please reconsider cutting instrumental provision. Surely it makes sense to introduce some sort of fee structure for those who can afford to pay. How does this fit in equality of opportunity for students from poorer backgrounds? 2685	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	As a music teacher in a West Lothian secondary school, the role of Instrumental Music Service is imperative to the job that I do. They work in groups with children, giving specialised instruction which supports all of the work that they do in the classroom. They prepare pupils for SQA exams, enable them to contribute to the extra-curricular activities within the department and represent the school at both community and national levels. Having grown up in West Lothian and come through the Instrumental Music Service myself I know first hand the amazing opportunities that it gives to the pupils. I was prepared for all of my exams, sat grade exams and was prepared for university auditions thanks to my amazing instrumental tutor. I wouldn't be in the career I am now if it weren't for the IMS of West Lothian Council and I am absolutely gutted at the thought of it being reduced both for my own school pupils and my future children. There are so many examples of research based evidence which highlight the benefits to pupils of learning a musical instrument. It gives them confidence, independent working, team work, communication skills and helps to develop their social skills. I truly believe a reduction to the instrumental music service would be a devastating loss to the schools and pupils of West Lothian. With the increase in class numbers, integrating the music provision into mainstream curriculum would have a negative impact on all of the pupils within the class, as they would receive less practical input from the class teacher. As I work in a school with very high deprivation rates, the majority of pupils' parents could not afford private lessons, therefore pupils would not receive specialist instrumental tuition. 2687	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Also, support for the arts in the form of music provision in the schools sector must be maintained. A country is greater with culture and this starts in childhood. It might be appropriate to ask parents to contribute- perhaps musical instruments are loaned to pupils on the understanding that after e.g. 2 or 3 years they should be expected to purchase their own, thus freeing up the local stock of instruments to be available to the next group of pupils. There can be discretion in cases of hardship. Perhaps an advantageous pricing structure could be obtained with the improved bargaining power of a regional authority. We could also amalgamate with the other Lothian music authorities to increase our purchasing power even further. We must be careful to avoid creating a two tier culture where the richer families can have what they can afford and larger or less well off families miss out. A huge amount of talent will be missed if this restriction is allowed to develop.	Instrumental music provision	6. This is a positive suggestion. Officers will consider how this could be developed. 2688	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Maintaining music provision in the school sector is important. A country must be cultured and music is an essential part of this. We should create an expectation that pupils will be loaned instruments for 2/3years until they can provide their own. We should amalgamate with the other Lothian councils to negotiate to obtain the best purchase prices for instruments from manufacturers, and apply for charitable funding for less ably financial pupils. Schools locally can bulk purchase music and rotate them amongst departments.	Instrumental music provision	6. This is a positive suggestion. Officers will consider how this could be developed. 2690	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I believe that WLC should NOT try to integrate a reduced instrumental music provision into the mainstream curriculum in any way. Music currently in the mainstream curriculum gives a ground base into the world of music. However, the instrumental music service offers so much more than that. Students involved in this have opportunities to develop as an individual and as part of a group, over a number of years, by learning an instrument. It teaches them discipline, communication skills, performing skills, confidence, character building, plus much more, particularly music skills they wouldn't receive in the main classroom environment. Being part of music lunch time clubs/after school orchestras/bands etc., as well as the regional ensembles, are often the one aspect that keeps many children focussed through school. They make friends through the instrumental music service, more often than not, friends for life. They get to travel, whether it be to perform in a local competition or performance in the community, or for a residential weekend away of rehearsals, or to tour either in Scotland or places all over the world. For many, students who are involved in this, may never leave West Lothian or the surrounding areas in their life without the instrumental music service - they are able to see parts of the world they have probably never dreamed of. This should not be taken away from these students or any future generation. Without the instrumental music service in West Lothian, I would not have represented my school, local authority and county in countless events worldwide. Whether it be playing at Christmas Concerts, Awards Ceremonies, Parents Nights, Church Services, Memorial Events, Ceilidhs, Spring Concert Series, Dinner Events for Officials, Stellar Awards Ceremonies, Celtic Connections, Burns Suppers, St Andrews Day events, P7 Transition events, West Lothian Twinned Cities events in West Lothian, Texas and Germany. All of which occurred whilst I was receiving violin lessons through the West Lothian Instrumental Music Service. Without this, none of this would have been possible as I would not have been able to afford private music tuition. The instrumental music service has unlimited positive affects. Academic attainment results, general health and well-being (for participants and those in audiences), inclusion and recognised achievements. Equality and equity would not be in place in schools without the Instrumental Music Service. Don't take this away and deprive people of it. This is the one thing in West Lothian Council that should remain unaffected. It is the one thing that keeps some students going. Don't take that away from them. This isn't about saving money, it's about removing	Instrumental music provision	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal. 2691	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	At the same time the reduction in investment in creative activities such as free music lessons is counterintuitive. Much of future employment will be in creative industries (as other jobs are automated). The focus should be on addressing the gap in attainment so reductions here will not address this. 2693	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I believe that integrating a reduced instrumental music provision will be detrimental to the education system in West Lothian. As a former pupil and member of several orchestras and groups, I have experienced first hand the many benefits of learning a musical instrument. This not only includes the skills of being able to play an instrument (which is an excellent skill) but also the development of communication skills, time-keeping skills, and integrity as well as the positive emotions that materialise from being involved in an amazing achievement. The excellent Instrumental Music Service in West Lothian has allowed me to travel far and wide to places that I otherwise would never have managed to see. This includes United States of America, all over Europe as well as Britain. I, amongst many others would not be where I am today if it weren't for my experiences as I know that my family would not have been able to support me with music if it had not been free. This has allowed me to become part of choirs such as National Youth Choir of Scotland and pipe bands such as National Youth Pipe Band of Scotland. All of these would again not have been possible without the benefits of the IMS in West Lothian. I will forever be grateful to the service for the influence it is had on my life. I have now recently graduated with an upper second class honours degree for music at university. This again highlights the importance and effect the opportunity of music tuition at school can have on someone's life, enhancing social skills and perseverance skills to name but a few. One of the main factors in education just now is that of closing the attainment gap and how social justice and inclusion supports this. I think, therefore it is important to consider how free music tuition enhances this for many families in West Lothian. There are a number of areas in which families cannot afford to pay for school books, never mind the expense of private music lessons. Therefore, removing free music tuition will eradicate an excellent opportunity for many students who have a very special skill. This will, I believe, have an effect on the level of attainment possible for many children. The Curriculum for Excellence is supported by a key child protection policy named, GIRFEC, which stands for 'Getting It Right for Every Child'. This aims to provide a co-ordinated and appropriate approach from all external services and agencies who are involved in supporting children and their families and is underpinned by the 'SHANARRI' values and principles. 'SHANARRI' stands for 'Safe, Healthy, Achieving, Nurtured, Active, Respected, Responsible and Included'. Music tuition has a major influence on the 7 factors of the 'SHANARRI' and epitomises the Health and Wellbeing	Instrumental music provision	2. 2694	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Instrumental Music impacts directly and massively upon the attainment of learners in a school environment. There is wide scientific and educational research from across the World which proves that learners who are involved in Instrumental Music tuition achieve better in core curricular areas such as Mathematics and English. It is essential that those making the final decisions on the cuts review this material before doing so. They should additionally read the research of Professor Sue Hallam on the subject. Whilst Instrumental Music provision may seem like an easy target or even a frivolous expense, the phenomenal impact it has upon the educational attainment, development and personal well-being of West Lothian's young people cannot be overlooked. Unless you are involved in the system as a pupil, educator or parent, it is very difficult to appreciate this but it must be highlighted. If a further cut must be made to Instrumental Music provision, it could be to reduce the management structure of the system to one person. Currently I believe there are three people facilitating the service at Council level. Whilst it would be a terrible sadness, it may also be an idea to reduce or even, in the worst case, remove the Local Authority IMS Ensemble programme and concentrate funding on the teaching of pupils in the schools. All West Lothian schools provide ensemble playing opportunities for learners and, whilst this would be a very blatant dumbing down of the service, I believe that the teaching of Instrumental Music in schools during the day is the most important thing. Many local authorities have introduced charges for Instrumental Music with varying success. Whilst, as a parent, I would not wish this to be the case as I believe whole-heartedly in our free-for-all, non-elitist education system, I would be able to deal with this situation if it meant that the provision would remain. The Instrumental Music staff of WLC are outstanding people and the contribution they make to the lives of the young people they work with and to the families and communities is immeasurable. I speak passionately as someone who came through Instrumental Music provision in another local authority. This provision shaped my life and opened so many doors. I think it would be a travesty for it to be cut further. As a parent bringing up children in West Lothian I would be devastated if my children were to have this opportunity. I beg the decision making Councillors to leave their desks and visit IMS provision to see for themselves. Speak to the pupils in receipt of lessons - that's surely proof enough for anyone. I also plead with them to read to aforementioned data on the impact of instrumental music on overall attainment.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2695	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	West Lothian has always been a trailblazer for instrumental music. As someone who has benefited from this directly I urge WLC to consider the detrimental impact on our children of removing or reducing a service which has proven year on year to add value to children's education and learning. Have you considered the number of West lothian pupils who have actually secured places at university or careers of their choice as a result of being able to play a music instrument as well as having gained the associated skills and attributes that being part of music's groups provides. It is difficult enough to for pupils to obtain places at university and college and removal of an additional vocational service would make any kind of attainment even more difficult. 2700	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I object to the above proposal. I received instrumental music lessons from primary 4 to the end of S6 and I am certain that it made an invaluable contribution to my life. The service provided me with a skill and a passion for music. Not only this, it has helped me build confidence in many areas including performing, given me a platform to challenge myself and helped me recognise the results which can be achieved from hard work. Additionally, having lessons at school helped me be more organised and balance my studies. The lessons also contributed to my high grades in SQA exams. I cannot speak highly enough of my teachers' dedication and professionalism. I have also met many friends as a result of the groups I was part of. Together we were able to travel to other countries and experience other musical cultures. The concerts we took part in were amazing - it was great to also see other groups perform and show off their talents both in school and within the wider community. In my lessons, groups and at concerts the hard work by the IMS staff was evident which is indicative of their love and commitment to instrumental music itself. The opportunities I have been granted as a result of the instrumental music service should be offered to all pupils and it is well known that the art of playing an instrument provides endless benefits. The high standards produced by the IMS in West Lothian sets our county apart from many other areas in the country and is something to be proud of. I am indebted to the IMS within our schools and if West Lothian is a forward thinking council, to reduce the instrumental music service is a backwards step.	Instrumental music provision	2. There is also evidence that Music tuition helps children with their exams, one being Maths. 2707	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Instrumental music tuition should remain in West Lothian Schools as it should not be a luxury for the wealthy but should be accessible to all. Countless research projects have identified the strong links between tuition on an instrument and improved attainment. If West Lothian is to continue to strive to improve attainment amongst all of its pupils, surely these findings are of significant importance. Having come through the Instrumental Music Service as a pupil, I would not now be in the occupation I am, if it wasn't for the time, effort and opportunities I was given. It would be a travesty to think that future generations would miss out on these life enriching experiences.	Instrumental music provision	2. In attending school concerts over many years, I have constantly witnessed and felt the joy, excitement, and pride from music provided by pupils. I can see first hand the feeling of well being and excellence throughout the entire audience, the school, and its senior management team. To resort to one particular example, in isolation, I would quote the song 'Auld Lang Syne' written by Robert Burns some 250 years ago - this exquisite example of music is worldwide to this day and spells out perfectly the power of Art. 2710	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Having a child who is in P6 in Linlithgow Primary school and who has recently started orchestra after learning viola for a year, I am very concerned in particular by the idea of reducing the music provision and integrating it into mainstream curriculum. My older son also benefited hugely from being part of the orchestra and, as a family, we all enjoyed the Spring concert and happily paid for tickets for everyone to see this amazing display of young people getting to be part of something really special. I've seen the effect of being part of an orchestra for my children - so much more keen to practise in the house and to take opportunities to play in school also. The benefits to all these young children, whose parents may not be able to afford private music lessons, are huge and children who might not otherwise get a chance to appreciate music, are given this opportunity, based on their aptitude for music. I was shocked and disappointed to hear that this might all disappear after being such a positive experience for my children.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2711	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I am disappointed in the proposal to reduce funds to the instrumental music service in West Lothian. As a former school pupil who was taught to play the violin through the service, I would be heartbroken if this proposal jeopardized any other child's opportunity to do something so wonderful. The wide range of experiences I gained just through playing an instrument in school are now invaluable to me as a young adult. I made new friends, grew more confident in myself and by abilities, and acquired many skills beyond just moving a bow across a string. I think these things should be of utmost importance to the council and local community - who also benefit greatly from children being able to express themselves through music. In the type of world that we live in today, no child should be robbed of such a beautiful thing.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2712	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Devolving' the instrumental music provision or 'reducing' it to schools is essentially a service cut. Children who currently have the chance to play instruments and within the numerous school and local authority bands throughout West Lothian would not have the same opportunity if the council make this decision. There are proven links and studies between raising attainment and those who play musical instruments. The skills these youngsters develop is truly tremendous. Everytime there is a school concert, Council function or National Competition, the response is always the same from parents, friends, carers, school staff and head teachers: They were amazing. That is hardwork, dedication and a love for music right there from the performers. By removing the current provision, in any form, will reduce the opportunities that these young people have. Many of the school and local authority bands are run by members of the IMS, West Lothian will lose that expertise if there is a reduction in service. I am genuinely concerned that West Lothian council are even considering this proposal. The Music Leader programme implemented at West Calder High School in particular, very similar to the Sports Leaders programme, is providing young people with an award at SCQF Level 6, the equivalent to a Higher. This is currently being backed by the Royal Conservatoire for Scotland. The IMS staff have been instrumental in supporting the young people in this pilot programme, again any reduction in this service means a loss of expertise and a loss of opportunity for young people in West Lothian. How can we raise attainment by taking away opportunities from young people? In addition to this, the social skills many young people develop and gain is truly phenomenal. For some music is a lifeline and it allows them to meet other people and develop their social network. The IMS really encapsulates the 4 capacities of Curriculum for Excellence, don't reduce something that is going to have a negative impact upon attainment.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2713	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	My main area of disagreement however is the plan to reduce instrumental music provision. My son plays in the West Lothian Schools Pipe Band which has reached a high level performance under the tutelage of PM Gordon Bruce who has unfortunately just left this role. This band finished 4th at the World Pipe Band Championships this year and has grown in reputation winning many accolades in the process. This band are a great ambassador for West Lothian Council and the many young talents that lie within. The bands and the feeder system are working very well and it would be devastating to lose all the hard work that has gone into setting them up. On a personal level the skills that my son has gained both musically and socially through playing with the band are tremendous. We are already starting to feel the effect of the cuts within the band as the advert for the new Pipe Majors post was advertised as fixed term for 1 year. As a result of this I understand only approximately 12 people applied. I know that a recent similar position for a school that was not a fixed term had 40 applicants. I realise it may be an easy hit to reduce the music provision but I really think this is a very narrow minded idea and those proposing it can not understand the implications of their ideas and how it will deprive young individuals of becoming more rounded humans which is surely what we are striving for within West Lothian. 2714	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	This is a positive proposal - all efforts should be on improving attainment for all pupils. I strongly support the instrumental music provision measure - this can still be delivered as part of the mainstream curriculum. Instrumental music is a good service but is mainly used by pupils from the most wealthy families so the current service is actually making the attainment gap worse.	Instrumental music provision	1. 2715	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	There was an outcry in Edinburgh when a specialist music department was under threat of being cut. Surely West Lothian Council can see what a devastation it would be to lose or change the Instrumental Music Service. This is one of the best opportunities for young people and should be expanded rather than reduced. It is very shortsighted to just see the finances for this rather than the bigger picture of what it represents for young people. The Council should be very proud of this fabulous service and dedicated staff. What would become of classroom music and school concerts if the orchestral instruments were not taught? It makes school just about academic subjects and reduces experiences for talented kids. Spring Concert Series and Scottish Concert Band Festival showcase these talents and are highlights in the year. 2716	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Reducing instrumental music provision is a completely impersonal and ill-considered proposal. Thousands of students benefit massively from the skill and social aspects involved with performing as part of musical groups. These musical groups have allowed hundreds of kids to travel to different countries, connect with other schools and has increased their social diversity as they become part of a huge community. Learning musical instruments not only improves the skill set and educational diversity of a pupil, but dramatically improves the confidence of every participant.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2717	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I believe that the proposal to reduce instrumental music provision is completely wrong. I have taken part in the instrumental music program since I was 7 years old (I am now 18 years old), and I would not be the person I am today without it. Children from poorer backgrounds (like myself) should not have less opportunities to experience, create and learn about music; it is one of the most fundamental cogs in society. You most likely have listened to some kind of music today; without these instrumental programs, in a few years down the line, music will become soulless; a privilege to only those who can afford it. This will be a fatal loss to society. Do we really want exclude children (who have no say in their circumstances) from these opportunities? Regardless of background, young people need music in their lives as a hobby, to build a career from, to give back to society.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2718	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	If you as a council want results you can't cut services within schools. 2719	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	West Lothian is rightly seen as being one of the exemplar authorities in the provision of music, music teaching, orchestras and extra curricular services. The reduction throughout West Lothian of this vitally important service should be resisted - this service provides a valuable outlet for children who perhaps do not have the ability to express themselves in other ways (such as academic or sport say). It certainly provides real confidence to our children throughout their time at study.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2722	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	The instrumental music provision should absolutely not be reduced. It is a horrific thought that West Lothian Council would even consider these reductions with the immense effect the various music programmes have both within and out-with the schools across West Lothian. Many children may struggle with attainment at school and have difficulty with written aspects of school, however practical subjects can help those children who are struggling enjoy school and prosper. With extra-curricular programmes like instrumental music, can assist children who may be struggling and help young people build and develop new skills that cannot be taught in the classrooms. Team-working, confidence building, leadership skills and communicational skills, time management and build responsibilities are just a few in the extensive list of skills which programmes like the instrumental music provision can help build in young people. Most of these programmes are completely voluntary to pupils whether they want to take these opportunities or not, with the instrumental music programme there is no lack of interest. As a pupil still involved in the instrumental music programme I have benefitted greatly by developing my skills, especially with confidence, communication and leadership. On top of the instrumental music programme the music leader programme is another opportunity being taken up by pupils to achieve a qualification with a level 6 award, as well as being completely voluntary it helps to further develop skills by focusing a major part on developing leadership skills as well as management of people and time. There are numerous articles and documents proving the importance of extra-curricular activities and how they can benefit children within and out-with schools, so it is puzzling and very frustrating to why West Lothian Council would propose to reduce and/ or cut these extra-curricular activities such as the instrumental music programme. As a pupil currently involved within the instrumental music programme I would be extremely disappointed to see the programme reduced. Already I have developed a large quantity of skills through both the Junior and Senior Wind Bands which have helped me to develop not just practical skills but life skills, such as dedication. Without receive this programme I would not have been able to make new friends, increase my confidence, mature and develop the wide range of skills that I am continuing to work on. Through this programme it has changed me and help develop me, without it I would not be the person I am today. Throughout schools in West Lothian parents support their children in these programmes such as the Instrumental Music Programme by supporting them with buying their instruments for	Instrumental music provision	2. 2723	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I am particularly concerned about the reduction of the Instrumental Music Service and integration of this into the Mainstream Curriculum. Particularly the vague way this is referred to above. This is a most highly valued service amongst the children currently receiving expert musical instrument tuition and will be a great loss to the generation of young musicians coming up behind them. The children not only receive quality instrumental lessons, but also the opportunity to play in bands and orchestras both within their school cluster and across West Lothian thanks to the dedication and commitment of the instrumental teachers. 2724	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	West Lothian must do all it can to protect the Instrumental Music Service within schools. The service is key to not only raising attainment and results but also directly impacts Young peoples Health and Wellbeing and supports them in reaching positive destinations. The instrumental music provision should not be further reduced within schools however if the service cannot be protected and savings must be made to the service, the council should look at how they can use the school's existing structures to support the ensembles side of the service. This was discussed and options were put forward during Delivering Better Outcomes. These should be revisited to see if they can assist in making savings. The management side of the service is important in ensuring its quality and sustainability and the instructor side of the service is paramount in ensuring that instrumental music tuition is delivered within the authority and the council must do all it can to protect this service which directly feeds into its priorities. 2725	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Whilst core educational subjects are crucial, other areas also give the chance for those who are gifted to shine. As long as there are still opportunities for all kids in music then I would support the move. Mental health is a real issue with kids and if the proposed change led to less access to counselling and psychology services I would not support it.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2726	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	To reduce or lose instrumental provision in schools would be a disaster for West Lothian. At the moment West Lothian are able to provide music for all occasions when ever necessary. This would stop. The bands in West Lothian are fantastic for the young people and being involved in the bands changes lives. Mental health is a huge issue and I believe that losing this provision would be to the detriment of hundreds of our kids. I think it would be an extremely unfair set up for head teachers to decide if they have instrumental teachers in their school as not all of them are musically minded. Not all pupils are academically gifted and music can be a life saver. Universities accept more pupils with a musical background as they know that these pupils show real commitment. Itâ€™s not just about weekly tuition, itâ€™s about a lifestyle. How can we be getting it right for every child if this is taken away.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2727	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	West Lothian has one of the most recognised instrumental music programmes in Scotland and was what attracted me to apply to work here. It is pupils in the instrumental programmes in schools who produce the highest quality of music making in the school and without this programme school concerts, assemblies, shows etc. and the actual attainment in our schools would be devastated. I refuse to believe West Lothian is shortsighted enough to support the erosion of music for its schools and wider community, even in the attempt to save money and high quality performances by our pupils would no longer be available for council events. The quality of the young people who make up our award winning ensembles, whether in school or one of our exceptional standard Area groups, does not merely happen by chance but because of the hard work and dedication of its staff supporting the development of the young people, by sharing their expertise; encouraging the young people to be great team players, to be motivated, engaged, confident, organised. These qualities and life skills learned will transfer into every area of their life and school curriculum. As it has been proven time and time again by endless studies, there are many benefits to playing a musical instrument and therefore it is no surprise to witness that pupils who experience the benefits of receiving instruction- not just those who can afford it- are those pupils who become school captain, prefects or Dux of our schools. They are the future of West Lothian. However in addition to such pupils, I have also prepared pupils for a career in music, taught pupils who played for sheer enjoyment, those who chose the subject because as instrumentalists it is an exam they perform well in and its a subject they will most likely achieve an A in. I have taught pupils who come from the poorest backgrounds and those who need support in their learning- a wide spectrum. There is something for every child; an even playing field where each child is given the chance to develop at their own pace, without competition to be better than another but to be the best they can be. Please don't deny them of such an opportunity. I value my opportunity as a builder of confidence and as someone who can offer something that at times is forgotten elsewhere in the curriculum. By playing an instrument they are expressing themselves and not just being taught how to answer questions for an exam. A forward thinking council will value what is to be gained by keeping instrumental instruction and the quality of its staff. I appreciate money has to be saved but would welcome that, if the council decides to keep the service in some way, they discuss it with someone knowledgeable in the subject about how the service can be maintained	Instrumental music provision	2. 2728	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I'm actually appalled at the decision to cut instrumental music provision to schools. 2730	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	West Lothian is renowned for its instrumental music provision, personally I feel that it would be criminal to reduce this service. There are proven links between music education and improved attainment, increased positive destinations and reduction of social issues. Reducing the service will remove access to specialist tuition to all pupils, returning it to an elitist school activity where only the more affluent pupils are able to excel through parental investment. This would increase the gap, not reduce it!	Instrumental music provision	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal. 2731	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Concerned that music in schools may be seen as an easy cost saving without realising what an important contribution music departments make to the life and culture of our schools. Schools must not become factories to deliver only a limited number of narrow academic subjects. Music puts many of the other subjects e.g. maths and physics, into practical and accessible use. 2732	On behalf of a Group/Organisation	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	We would like special mention of the Schools musical services/band & would like to try & save the free provision our students currently enjoy. West Calder High school have an excellent musical programme and this is because of the years of excellent tuition the pupils have received. Music has been proven to help young people to learn and therefore cutting this would ultimately impact on their overall learning. Mainstream teachers would not be able to teach music to the level that that music specialists can and therefore we would end up with a society of xylophone or drum players and not woodwind, brass or string players. 2737	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Reducing the instrumental music provision in schools would be a tragic loss to the current excellent education system that West Lothian provides for it's children. From personal experience, 4 of my 5 children have gained valuable skills and become more confident individuals thanks to learning to play an instrument and playing in school and local orchestras. As a single parent, I wouldn't have been able to afford to give my children private lessons. Removing or reducing instrumental provision will simply make the skills and confidence my children have achieved only available to rich families. A broad education is a fundamental right of all children from every background. Please don't take this away from poorer children.	Instrumental music provision	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal. 2738	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Not sure what it means by â€œreduced instrumental provisionâ€œ™. 2740	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I believe that education should be the number one priority for the Council so I do not think that music provision should be reduced in any way. I know the Music Service is renowned and there will be a knock-on effect on Music as a subject and for post school opportunities at Colleges and Universities if this is impacted. I have a child currently in the Instrumental Music Service and know how much it is valued and how much work is done by pupils and staff. This is specialist teaching which cannot be done in the normal music classes. Evidence, if any is needed, is in the performances at the Spring Concert Series. The Council should be proud of this unique service and opportunity for our children.	Instrumental music provision	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	All pupils will experience Instrumental Music Tuition in Primary School through the Youth Music Initiative. It is proposed that some access to tuition will remain. 2741	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Instrumental tuition is not the same as curriculum music lessons. How is a school music teacher (who may be a trumpet specialist) supposed to provide music tuition on a wide range of instruments (such as violin) whilst teaching the SQA exam courses. Instrument tuition is crucial for the SQA exams, otherwise the standard of playing required will not be met. In addition, removing music tuition will have a knock on effect on all the orchestras and bands that exist in all the schools. Over 1000 children benefit from music tuition and enjoy the extra curricular activities associated with it such as concerts and competitions. Surely this must be something that should be encouraged and not abandoned.	Instrumental music provision	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	All pupils will experience Instrumental Music Tuition in Primary School through the Youth Music Initiative. It is proposed that some access to tuition will remain. 2742	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	This is again a reasonable proposal but must be implemented very cautiously. I have first hand experience of this as I was removed by the Instrumental Music Service myself in order to achieve a budget saving in 2016. On the first day back from the Summer break the remaining teaching staff were given brand new Apple iPads at great cost and even apparently had 3 left over - presumably bought for the staff that had been removed over the summer. I wonder who has them now? Many of the teaching staff have no need for this equipment and I believe they are used for home entertainment more than for teaching.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2743	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	From working outside of the instrumental music service I now have an enhanced contact and dialogue with my classroom colleagues, my PTCs and my Head Teachers. 2744	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	The IMS has, over the years, worked against the desires of schools and driven a wedge between the requirements of the school and the "standards" of the service. The service itself needs a major re-design in order to achieve parity between the provision received by schools and between the quality of teaching currently provided by the service. In most cases, there are incredibly passionate, talented and dedicated instructors that work their proverbial hind legs off and receive little or no recognition for that work while propping up the work of less successful teachers. The less successful teachers have always received, like all of the instructors service, poor in-service training and virtually no money spent on their Continuous Professional Development. If proof is required of this, have a browse over the staff feedback from in-service training over the years. In some cases, I have been working beside instructors who were teaching 4 or 5 people over a course of one day's teaching (13 x 25 lessons - they should be teaching an average of 21 pupils a day minimum) whilst I was having to refuse tuition to new junior pupils due to the high demand of students sitting SQA music exams, playing in regional ensembles and moving on to study either music performance or music associated technology. Meanwhile, the teachers sitting literally getting paid to do NOTHING receive no support or redesign of their working week in order to achieve a more positive outcome for their pupils and their school. The reason why? It's HISTORICAL! Obviously I feel very strongly about this as you can tell.	Instrumental music provision	4. The council is already doing this. 2745	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I do feel elements of the IMS such as the Area Ensemble programme should be retained as much as possible but again a greater degree of parity is required. The amount of time, money and effort given to the regional Brass and Pipe bands makes virtually no sense in a community that has some of the greatest Pipe Bands in the World(!) and some of the greatest Brass Bands in the U.K. and Europe. This is duplication at an enormous level. Greater outcomes could be achieved within an area ensemble programme by stepping into the 21st century and encouraging more popular music, collaboration between different styles of ensemble and enhancing some of our already great ensembles such as the Big Band or Wind Ensemble. It is no surprise that the core number of pupils that make-up these groups come from our hardest working and most successful I.M.S. instructors.	Instrumental music provision	6. This is a positive suggestion. Officers will consider how this could be developed.	All pupils will experience Instrumental Music Tuition in Primary School through the Youth Music Initiative. 2746	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I feel the day to day handling of music instructors by school management could be a bold and exciting step forward for music in our schools and community at large. Staff could then receive proper training from ground level education specialists. They could also be consistently monitored for quality of teaching and development and quality control. In my 16 years working for the I.M.S., I received no more than 2 (!) casual observations from my head of service. This does not and should not happen to any other aspect of our education system. Particularly not classroom teachers, pupil support staff or senior management. I feel strongly about this provision as I myself made life long friends and colleagues due to my music experiences at school and I would like to think that my own children could also do so if offered the chance. The way that school pupils, staff and visiting staff come together and learn collaborative skills to achieve positive outcomes for the pupils and their communities is, in many cases, absolutely outstanding and often utterly astonishing! All pupils will experience Instrumental Music Tuition in Primary School through the Youth Music Initiative. It is proposed that some access to tuition will remain. All children will retain appropriate music provision through curriculum for excellence.
2747	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	The proposed reduction of the service will come at a huge cost for not only our current pupils but for generations to come. If instrumental staff for example are redeployed into other services within the council they will struggle as they have had such appalling development, training and support over the "historical" life of the service. However, the service can't continue to plod along following an outdated 1970's model wherein the sole aim is to produce a once a year concert series whereby councillors and officials can enjoy a free ticket to enjoy the fruits of (some) instructor's (and to a lesser degree, some manager's) labours and the dedicated hard work of pupils from EVERY background, race, age or gender. Meanwhile many schools and it's pupils and stakeholders are crying out for more support whilst there are some teaching staff literally employed to do nothing and the choices available to "wealthy" parts of the County are maintained while those areas at the bottom of the socioeconomic scale are being squeezed more and more. 2749	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	The instrumental programme and the lessons and bands provided help to improve the lives and help so many children who are apart of them including myself. As well as learning how to play an instrument it teaches you to have self-discipline, timekeeping and it has (for me) helped me learn how to socialise and make friends far more easily than I ever would have been able to without it, both with my peers that I play with in the bands, and it has helped me form close bonds with my teachers. It has helped me make friends with people I would have never been friends with before and I think it would be an extremely horrible thing to lose it, as it helps so many people. 2750	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	West Lothian is rightly proud of it's musical heritage and it's reputation for exceptionally high quality music teaching. This has allowed all pupils the opportunity to learn an instrument, which has enhanced their life. The skills children learn through playing an instrument, including: self-discipline, time management, team skills, enhancing coordination, improved reading and comprehension skills, self expression, self-confidence, sense of achievement, are transferable and lead to the development of fully rounded citizens. Added to that, the success that West Lothian has had on a national scale, through performance, competitions, many outwith school time, demonstrate the essential nature of this service. It would indeed be a tragedy if this exceptional service was to be reduced or completely cut.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2751	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	West Lothian schools have an outstanding record and reputation for music over decades, both in Scotland and overseas. The support for musical education has made West Lothian Council stand out and it's something that has benefited generations of families, including my own, as musical education has given pupils the support and opportunities to develop their talents, learn new skills, extend their horizons and produce better students as a result. I appreciate that cuts have to be made alongside increases to Council Tax, but I'm firmly opposed to any reduction in instrumental music provision as I feel this would be a huge loss to not only the authority but also the many pupils who currently benefit from this excellent resource. Is there perhaps a way that parents could contribute to the music provision? Perhaps paying a subsidized price for music lessons?	Instrumental music provision	2. 2752	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I have played a musical instrument for almost 7 years now, and it has been a wonderful experience which I am proud to have. I have had 3 music instructors, all of which were (and are) lovely, lively and enthusiastic people who have made playing the violin an absolute joy for me. My confidence has grown and I have met some lovely people through it, please don't deprive younger children of the opportunities I have been so lucky to have had by reducing the instrumental music provision. It makes so many people so happy, and West Lothian would truly be at a loss without it.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2754	On behalf of a Group/Organisation	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Reducing instrumental music provision is a concern. Some children and young people would never see a musical instrument if it weren't for opportunities in school, and sadly that would mean specific/potential skills/talents would go un-nurtured. Music promotes so much positivity from well-being, confidence, self-esteem, skills, belonging to something, achievement, as well as being a means of following other more detrimental pathways. We have some excellent examples of award winning bands etc. in our schools, we do not want to lose this talent. Understanding the financial pressures of this work, again perhaps joint funding applications, fronted by the third sector, to agencies such as Creative Scotland can assist to the contribution of music services within schools. The Youth Action Project has a successful music service, having worked in partnership with schools / Burnhouse, the Council's Art Services and community based informal music groups. We, and I am sure other external agencies such as ██████████ could be involved in assisting this work, securing funds outwith the council.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2755	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Without the support of the West Lothian instrument service my children would not have attained their abilities in music. 2756	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	There should be no reduction in the provision of music service in West Lothian, music is proven to help concentration and aid academic attainment. The provision allows all children access to an instrument whom otherwise would not get the chance to learn a lifelong skill and craft. It also gives a safe out of school hours activity that is fun, rewarding and makes up for the lack of other outside youth clubs that are majorly lacking in our area of West Lothian.	Instrumental music provision	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	All pupils will experience Instrumental Music Tuition in Primary School through the Youth Music Initiative. It is proposed that some access to tuition will remain. All children will retain appropriate music provision through curriculum for excellence.
2757	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I can't explain the difference the music provision has made to my child's life. It has given her the confidence, a whole new sector to make friends and has supported her transition to high school so well. It would have a huge detrimental impact of her and those of her music colleagues for this to be removed.	Instrumental music provision	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	All pupils will experience Instrumental Music Tuition in Primary School through the Youth Music Initiative. It is proposed that some access to tuition will remain. All children will retain appropriate music provision through curriculum for excellence.
2758	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Teaching a child to learn an instrument is expensive. For well off families this will always be an option regardless of whether the council offers this service. For the children of everyone else they will quite simply grow up without having had the opportunity to learn. This is a vast waste of human potential and in the end deprives us all of the potential talents present in our communities. There are a number of key distinctions between council run music tuition services and private tuition 1) private tuition is generally one to one whereas council provision is one to many making it more affordable. 2) council tuition takes place in school time whereas private tuition is outwith school making it much harder for families to fit tuition into their busy lives. 3) private local orchestras/music groups are much harder to organize without the organisational structures of the council to facilitate the running of these groups. I recognize that council budgets are getting tighter all the time. To continue to provide this vital service I would make the following suggestions: 1) Increase council tax by 3% as council tax freeze is now over. 2) Allow for provision of cost sharing where parents of children receiving tuition are asked to contribute something financially to music tuition costs. While charging for tuition will have an impact it will still be much more affordable for families than private tuition allowing many more children the opportunity to learn. This would also allow for the community to keep the three benefits described above.	Instrumental music provision	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	All pupils will experience Instrumental Music Tuition in Primary School through the Youth Music Initiative. It is proposed that some access to tuition will remain. All children will retain appropriate music provision through curriculum for excellence.
2759	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Secondly, I am quite frankly dismayed at the proposal to integrate a reduced instrumental music provision into the mainstream curriculum. This will mean the demise of the renowned and successful Instrumental Service that West Lothian have had for at least the past 50 years! I therefore, strongly object to this proposal! West Lothian has a proud heritage of the instrumental provision and I myself, other family members and my own children have benefited from this over the years and not to mention the many hundreds of thousands of school pupils over the years. If we are all about raising attainment then why would this even be on the table for consideration? Research has shown that, when a child is afforded the opportunity to learn a musical instrument, it helps to develop the brain in a powerful way. It is widely considered as one of the most effective ways to "train" the brain. Playing an instrument stimulates the brain and increases memory. " Einstein once said, "Life without playing music is inconceivable to me. I live my daydreams in music. I see my life in terms of music... I get most joy in life out of music". (Psychology Today-June 25th 2014). There are numerous articles written about the benefits of playing a musical instrument. Why are we taking this away? I cannot possibly include all the benefits that playing a musical instrument can provide, but here are just a few. It teaches self-discipline and excellence in both organisation and time management skills as, a pupil learning an instrument, finds a way to manage their study time to a high degree. I am sure that if exam results were analysed, the highest achievers in West Lothian, quite probably play a musical instrument as part of the Instrumental programme in school. There is a relation too to ability in maths being enhanced through pupils playing an instrument. Furthermore, playing an instrument in many of the West Lothian groups, bands and ensembles allows pupils to gain further skills as it sharpens concentration and enables them to take responsibility. They are also given the opportunity to develop confidence in self-expression and it can, and does, relieve stress! Performing in these groups allows pupils to develop strong social skills and they will have a real sense of achievement after each and every performance. I myself have benefited from this, over 40 years ago and my daughter experienced the same until very recently before moving off to university.	Instrumental music provision	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	All pupils will experience Instrumental Music Tuition in Primary School through the Youth Music Initiative. It is proposed that some access to tuition will remain. 2760	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Let's consider briefly the four capacities of the Scottish curriculum - A Curriculum for Excellence: Successful learners:- Not only can playing an instrument increase attainment across the board, we must also consider the level of skills that individual pupils can reach as part of the instrumental timetable from just a 25 minute lesson as part of their timetable each week. These pupils, including my daughter, have acquired skills in their field to an extremely high degree and which transfers to their Music attainment in SQA exams. Confident Individuals:- learning to cope with the stress of giving assured public, concert, festival and exam performances. So many skills (too many to mention) for learning life and work acquired for the future. Responsible Citizens:- Learning to take responsibility for balancing study and practise, organisation skills in attending lessons, catching up on the small amount of classwork missed and ensuring practice time throughout the week. Attending regular weekly rehearsals for Bands and Ensembles both in school and West Lothian show key qualities such as reliability, dependability and responsibility. Effective contributors:- Pupils give of their free time to perform at school concerts and functions. Those who play in school groups, bands and ensembles and those in the West Lothian equivalent, have promoted both their schools and indeed the Council in both the local community, but also across the country in a positive and significant way and thus, have gained recognition for what goes on in West Lothian. Who will the Council turn to for this if this is taken away? We must also consider that Universities, colleges and employers are all looking for the "well-rounded" candidate who can demonstrate they have the ability to balance their school life with interests effectively! Playing an instrument is certainly an area that demonstrates this. Finally, playing an instrument promotes happiness, health and well-being and, when one considers there are genuine concerns in society about mental illness in young people, surely ensuring that positive opportunities such as learning an instrument as part of full time education should be considered for all children to help them avoid falling into this feeling of despair? We should be increasing provision, not taking it away!	Instrumental music provision	2. 2761	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Furthermore, the reduction in Musical tuition is going to deprive many young people the opportunity to flourish in an area otherwise not accessible to them. Mainstream class teachers already have a packed curriculum. When are they supposed to fit in Musical tuition? Where are all the instruments required going to come from? 2762	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I strongly believe that music is SO important for everyone and something which all children should be exposed to, including the opportunity to play an instrument- particularly at primary school stage. I'm thinking about the success of Raploch, Stirling and 'the Big Noise' project. I don't believe there is a real need for kids to be going on many school outings - but not sure how much cost saving would result.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2763	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	This would overall be detrimental not only now but in the future. Music and instrumental services provide not only a lifeline for some children, but they inspire creativity, which can lead to so much more in both an academic and musical sense. It teaches discipline, encourages team work and bonding, develops confidence, patience and determination and is so rewarding to all involved, be that as a musician, teacher, parent, listener etc. These are all crucial skills for our children, probably even more so in the current age where human interaction is being overtaken by technology. I feel very strongly against this proposal.	Instrumental music provision	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal. 2765	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I do not agree that we should have a reduced musical provision. Music helps to train our brain, memory, helps to build confidence and social skills and so much more. These are at the heart of some of the 8 priorities you have set as a council! 2766	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Reducing instrumental music tuition would have a devastating effect on the curriculum at the moment. Personally, during my school years, this was a way to express myself, and in fact due to this tuition, I attained my highest exam score of any subject in the field of music, an A at advanced higher. I feel this was a way I expressed myself personally and emotionally, and was a source of enjoyment and relaxation for me. It also led to many very good friendships through a variety of projects I was involved in, such as the WL Schools Big Band, Percussion Ensemble, and Wind Band. To remove this opportunity from young people today would be unjust, and embarrassing for a country that prides themselves on their culture, and arts.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2767	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	We understand the difficult choices the council has to make however we feel very strongly about the proposed cuts to instrumental music and the proposal to bring this into the mainstream curriculum. We have found and studies have found that learning a musical instrument has a positive outcome to academic performance and a young person's behaviour. It teaches young persons how hard work, perseverance, dedication and discipline (all essential qualities for success in the young persons' academic and working life) results in a successful outcome. Being part of the wind band teaches team work and provides a safe and nurturing environment for personal development outside of school. Reducing music tuition and bringing it into the mainstream curriculum reduces the number of instruments available that can be taught; reduces opportunity for young persons to progress and excel in music as there will be insufficient time during class to devote to individual young persons' musical learning; the resulting reduction in instrumental tuition will mean that the West Lothian Youth Concert and Wind Bands would be under serious threat and this would be extremely sad as the bands have been a source of success and pride for the West Lothian area on a national level. Without specific instrumental music tuition this puts a severe strain on music teachers currently covering the music curriculum and worsens the position of the shortage in music teachers currently within the West Lothian area. 2770	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Music is so key to young people in improving study, behaviour, feeling proud and being part of something that the community appreciate and support. Linlithgow has a strong association with music through the school bands, orchestra and the local Reed Band. Music teachers don't have the in depth knowledge or the time to teach specific instruments and although they are valuable to children's education it is specialist music teachers that allow the bands and orchestras to flourish. I hope the council reconsiders the impact of withdrawing this service will have.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2771	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Instrumental music was a huge part of my life growing up in west Lothian. I was not hugely academic and music was the place I fitted in. I was given lots of opportunities through music at school and went from being an extremely shy and quiet child who lacked self-esteem and confidence to a child who could stand up in front of everyone expressing themselves through music. Music was the place that made me a better version of myself. I was part of a huge musical family. I got on better throughout School due to this opportunity as I felt happy and settled in school life. I may have left school earlier if it wasn't for music that kept me going. So many people benefit from instrumental music throughout their life. They may not go on and study it but music provides them with so many things that help in their future life. Health and well-being is a massive one. This day in age is especially difficult with social media, mental health problems and deprivation. Music can help with all of this and has been proven to in many studies. Instrumental can give these kids a place to escape, excel and be happy. To just fit in. It keeps kids off the street cos let's face it there isn't many other places for them to go so instrumental music can give them a place to be with others, work together in a team and socialise. If charging is ever thought about then I would say that it would become an elitist subject where those less privileged would not have an opportunity to realise the music potential within them. This is not what West Lothian is about. I still live in west Lothian and want my 2 kids who are still very young to have the opportunities as I did. I value their education so much and feel they need to have all these opportunities available them in school. The skills they can gain from playing instrumental music is vast-team-work, resilience, determination, confidence, self-worth, healthy mind, motivation, good work ethic, independent learning, to name but a few. It is such an important part of west Lothian and always has been. Don't lose it from schools.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2772	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I am writing to express my concern that the provision of Instrumental Music in West Lothian schools may be under threat due to budget savings having to be made by the Council. Two of my 3 children have been fortunate to benefit from instrumental tuition whilst at school - [REDACTED]. The fact that this service may no longer be provided just does not bear thinking about. My son and daughter have got so so much from their instrumental tuition. They have been able to play at school concerts, play in Concert Band Festivals, Brass Band Festivals, Brass Ensemble Championships (my son's ensemble were Scottish Champions in their age group in 2015), take part in the wonderful West Lothian Council Spring Concert Series, National Youth Wind Ensemble of Scotland and Edinburgh Youth Orchestra. The highlight for both of them was playing at The Scottish Concert Band Festival Finals in Perth in March last year with the fantastic West Lothian Schools Wind Ensemble who received a Platinum award for a magnificent performance. My son is nearing the end of his time at school but he would be extremely upset if the chance to play his instrument in school or with the Big Band and Wind Ensemble came to an end. West Lothian Council has one of the most progressive and comprehensive Instrumental Music Services in Scotland please don't allow that to be destroyed. There are over 2000 young musicians who participate in activities offered by the Instrumental Music Service - to silence them would be devastating. I am pleading with you to continue the instrumental music service as it stands and to continue the West Lothian Schools Area Bands & Ensembles programme as they stand at the moment so that my son & daughter can continue to enjoy this magnificent service and more importantly so that future generations of children & young people get the opportunity to benefit from this wonderful service. 2773	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	As a Secondary School teacher and a parent of a 7 year old and a 4 year old, I strongly disapprove of any cuts to instrumental tuition. Knowing the value of children being allowed to learn an instrument and be part of a band in school I would not want to have my children to be taught in an education system where this avenue has been cut-off to them and one where they can only learn an instrument if they have enough money to pay for lessons privately. This surely goes against every principal that West Lothian Council has proudly stood for since its conception. One of the few shining lights from any local authority is their contribution to a strong IMS which WLC have already built up and are renowned for throughout Scotland. I want my children to be part of that not excluded because my income does not allow for private tuition. I fully understand that cuts have to be made and it is difficult. Many of the proposals for cuts can be reintroduced further down the line when hopefully the monies become available - once IMS has been taken away it will not and cannot be reinstated. Once this vital service to education is removed WLC reputation and tradition as a leader in free music provision will go with it. I wouldn't want that on my copy book and the current administration I would hope don't want that on their record either.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2778	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Music is one thing we all love. It lifts us emotionally, spiritually and can make us really happy. Most music like sport has no social barriers so I'd like to see a modern approach to music in schools which I believe can lead to better equality, improved mental health and social integration. Now that ticks (early years, improved health, equality), so a redesign of music in schools would be my suggestion.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2779	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	If more control was given in relation to funding I don't think that reducing music provision will help the situation. A number of kids are not academic and prefer to learn through music and taking this away would not be a good idea. 2780	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Education is a vitally important priority for the future of our children. I am extremely concerned at the proposal to reduce instrumental music provision. Having been through the process at school myself and with a daughter about to reach the age when she is eligible for school lessons I am very concerned that she might not have the opportunities I have had. Music is a release from the more academic subjects and learning an instrument lasts a lifetime. The Council's Music Service is well-respected and renowned and opens up so many opportunities for young people. I have regularly attended the Spring Concert Series where the pupils' talents are showcased. Even primary school age children, who have not been learning long, take part, the standard is very high and a fantastic amount of work is done. The pupils and staff should be commended and the Council should be very proud of its Music Service. Our children should not lose out on this lifelong opportunity and so I absolutely strongly oppose any proposals to impact on this.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2781	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	. However I feel that cutting the music provision is not a wise idea. Hundreds of children benefit in so many ways from the music provision, they get to perform as a group increasing their skills, confidence and making them part of something very special. Should you not look at options that other authorities use such as parents contributing to the teaching cost? Surely you could also save millions by means testing for children who receive free school lunch (primary 1 - 3) and also the breakfast provision. I would think parents would be happy to contribute towards this rather than lose other valuable services.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2786	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Please keep music lessons as music has been proven to support cognitive development. A reduction in music lessons could translate into an increase for other services to try and provide the same mental stimulation. 2788	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Currently music education is low in our primary - without the fantastic job of the instrumental service this would be lost. The opportunity to play a musical instrument is a gift we must continue to give children. It promotes confidence, teamwork, self-motivation whilst also improving numeracy and literacy skills. The reduction of this service would be a definite negative in our society!	Instrumental music provision	2. 2789	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I believe that the instrumental music service should not be reduced, as this is a very important part in Education. My two daughters were given the opportunity to play violin throughout the time they were at school. They now both work in Education and I believe they would not be working in Education if they had not been given this opportunity.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2790	On behalf of a Group/Organisation	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Our parent forum have grave concerns over proposals to stop musical instrument tuition in schools which undoubtedly results in withdrawal of the orchestra and band provision. We represent parents with children at all stages who have reaped the benefits of our fantastic instrumental music service which has been built over many years to a fantastic standard and reputation and opens opportunities for children in school and the wider community. Evidence tells us music aids child development and gives opportunities other than sport where children feel part of something and grow in confidence, working in a team setting. There is whole school benefit that is very apparent at both public and school performances. These opportunities are also hugely important for our young people forming personal statements when applying for further or higher education, and employment as evidence of their ability to persevere, commit to group work and learn time management and performance skills. This may be their only extracurricular activity. Children from financially insecure backgrounds will miss out on their only opportunity to realise these benefits and develop their talent. The message from our parent forum is very much that where they can, parents are willing to contribute financially to keep this service and it would be a travesty to lose this service without first exploring this option. We would propose means testing provision along the lines of free school meals and pupil equity funding. National proposals to give Head Teachers more freedom and choice for curriculum and funding will save councils on business support however cutting support and administration staff as well as school budgets will make this incredibly difficult for our Head Teachers who are already dealing with reduced budgets and support staff. We have seen evidence of this already in a school with high parental engagement which in itself can only do so much.	Instrumental music provision	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal. 2792	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Astonished at 2 of the proposals! Regarding instrumental music provision in schools then calling it a reduced provision is beyond ridiculous! General music teachers cannot take on instrumental teaching at that level - it is two different things, just like a French teacher can't suddenly start teaching German. Really what is being said is that West Lothian council do not think instrumental teaching has any educational value (opposing a lot of research) and see no point in pupils taking music higher, as that will be the consequence. Very sad!	Instrumental music provision	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal. 2794	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	he proposal to decentralise the Instrumental Music Service is enormously short sighted, and potentially very damaging. The outcomes for pupils who learn a musical instrument in school have been shown to be greatly improved in many studies. This is shown not only in better exam results but in generally improved post-education destinations, because awakening a passion in a young person gives them a drive and enthusiasm for achievement which can't be taught any other way. This passion might be art, history, maths, swimming or football- but for many pupils it is music. Discovering the joy of making music together with other people is the main motivator for improvement for children learning an instrument. The Local Area Ensembles, which can only be organised by a centralised service, are an essential component of this, allowing pupils to meet others from different backgrounds, and allowing pupils to reach their full potential. Instrumental music education has always worked in a pyramid system, with many groups at a low level of ability (school bands), fewer of a higher level (local authority bands), still fewer at the national level (National Youth Orchestra of Scotland) and then very few internationally (EU Youth Orchestra, Verbier Festival- whose players regularly go on to work in top orchestras). By removing a slice of this pyramid, the council will actively prohibit any talented young person in West Lothian from progressing their talent beyond the most basic, school, level. West Lothian bands are award winning (World Junior Champion Pipe Band 2017, European Brass Band Champions in past years, nationally recognised excellence for Wind Ensembles) and tour internationally. Currently, pupils pay nothing to take part in these activities, as it is council policy not to charge for lessons (as encouraged by the Scottish Government). Is it council policy now to destroy the service entirely? Because passing control of the service to individual schools will destroy it, as head teachers will always seek only to maximise exam results per pound spent. Instrumental music provides a series of educational outcomes that are not measurable by exam results year on year, because maturity, independence, adaptability and resilience are all things developed best by young people while they are outside the classroom. However, they are an essential part of our children's education. Any savings the council makes by cutting this provision will be swiftly swallowed up by increased costs to social work and crime prevention, as more and more young people leave school immature and unprepared for the demands of living as an adult. 2795	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	The instrumental music provision should not be removed from the curriculum, those most effected will be the children from less well off parent(s) who are not in a position to provide an opportunity for their children to learn an instrument also the programme in the form of school bands encourages integration of pupils of all classes to work along side each and work as a group. This can be considered as working alongside the Councils anti poverty policy and encouraging social inclusion.	Instrumental music provision	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal. 2796	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	More cuts to instrumental music were made in the last round of cuts (DBO) than were required and further cuts now would be catastrophic for the cultural life of West Lothian both now and for future generations. This is already a county that is seen as culturally 'less' than other counties close to the main cities (Borders, E/M Lothian, etc) and to Edinburgh, Stirling and Glasgow. To diminish the cultural education even further would eventually condemn the area to becoming a place of a lower social/economic demographic. A dangerous spiral!	Instrumental music provision	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal.	All pupils will experience Instrumental Music Tuition in Primary School through the Youth Music Initiative. It is proposed that some access to tuition will remain. 2797	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Difficult to comment when the text is so vague. I have no idea what "integrating a reduced instrumental music provision into the mainstream curriculum" means. If it means that Head teachers would decide what instrumental music provision is available and how it is disseminated than I would ask you to look at the model of primary music specialists in West Lothian. Not a success story.	Instrumental music provision	3. The respondent advised that they had no comment to make.	All pupils will experience Instrumental Music Tuition in Primary School through the Youth Music Initiative. It is proposed that some access to tuition will remain. 2798	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I have worked as an instrumental music instructor and then in a management role within instrumental music in West Lothian for over 30 years and have experienced first-hand the impact that playing an instrument and the membership of a music ensemble can have on a young person. I know that the young people I taught and provided an ensemble experience to, were able to explore different pathways and choices in their lives compared to those of their non-instrument playing friends. They were equipped with a confidence, a self-belief, and an ability to problem solve that gave them an edge over others. They made friends for life and participated in major events the positive impact of which will be with them for life. It has brought joy to their lives and for many a route out of poverty. The effect of removing instrumental instruction on the young people, their families, their community, the tertiary education providers, National music organisations, employers and indeed Scotland itself will not be felt straight away. But give it time. Local authority instrumental music provision is the food for most of the areas mentioned above and the life blood for some. Without the local authority Instrumental music feed they will wither away and some may die. Ultimately, reducing the quality of life for people in Scotland, and having a negative impact on the Scottish economy. The national music bodies and tertiary education providers will comprise of the chosen wealthy few who have been lucky enough to access private tuition. Scotland will become a nation of unfound talent and young people not realising their full potential. A country without the future Tommy Smiths, Annie Lennoxs, Evelyn Glennies, Dougie Viponds, Nicola Benedettisâ€¦A country without all those who maybe would never be famous but whose own lives, and the lives of many others, would be improved enriched and enhanced by instrumental music. A very bleak picture. Below are some quotes and a research link (please copy and paste) relating to instrumental music. â€œMusic is especially effective at helping to raise the self-esteem and attainment for those not normally motivated by the education system.â€œUnknown. â€œIf a child is holding a musical instrument then he or she is not holding a cigarette, a joint, a knife, a needle or a gunâ€œBramwell Tovey â€œEverything that can be counted does not necessarily count; everything that counts cannot necessarily be counted.â€œAlbert Einstein http://static1.1.sqspcdn.com/static/f/735337/25902273/1422485417967/power-of+music.pd	Instrumental music provision	2. Although my career doesn't involve music, the support and confidence that gave me was key in getting me where I am now. Please don't take that opportunity away from future students. 2805	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Referring to point 1 b, I see the importance of continuing free instrumental tuition for the sake of myself, classmates and teachers. Since joining my lessons for the first time 4 years ago, my life has improved immensely and extremely quickly. My music lessons have given me the opportunity to visit Germany, take part in the Young Musician competition and join many musical clubs. I have made several new friends, who have also made friends through these clubs. Since I play the violin, I sit exams which can help give me practice for my school exams. My life would be horribly different without my music lessons, and I would not be nearly as happy as I am today. I am not completely sure how much fun my life would be without my music lessons, and it would be really hard to see my friends that I made and think that where we started off was gone. I am considering a job with music but without my lessons, this would be very difficult as I would not know what way to turn. My relationship with my teachers is very strong and it would be much harder if I couldn't see them because they give me advice for the future with my music.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2806	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Education is of the utmost importance and integrating/reducing educational services will certainly not lead to quality or effectiveness. The Instrumental Tuition is of the highest standard in West Lothian Schools e.g. The West Lothian Schools Brass Band has achieved/won Scottish, British and European Championship Titles over the past few years. This Quality of Musicianship should be allowed to continue and prosper.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2807	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I do not think any cuts should be made to schools. It is abhorrent that the council wants to reduce music provision, the curriculum is already overcrowded. 2808	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. 2809	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Reducing the amount of music provision is a hard choice to make as this often affects primaries more than secondaries but I feel that it is the right thing to do, along with closer monitoring of provision and results to make it as cost effective as possible. 2810	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Reduced funding to music is not acceptable as many school pupils will miss out on learning essential life skills. Learning to play an instrument helps to improve confidence, builds resilience and determination as well as many other important skills. Cuts to music will result in pupils not getting the education they deserve. The cutting of music teachers will result in failure to teach children properly and not properly prepare them for the future.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2811	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	It worries me when I hear "reduced" Instrumental music provision. My children have been involved in the Instrumental programme offered in West Lothian. It is managed by a team of teachers who are dedicated greatly to the service it provides, and they all go beyond the call of duty of teaching.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2812	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I learned to play a musical instrument while at school, and it was one of the most profound positive experiences in my upbringing. I learned the joy of creating music not just by myself but also as part of a band, I learned to contribute my small piece of something into something much larger, and the massive effect I could have on something through my own individual contribution. Playing alongside fellow students taught me about teamwork and collaboration, and discipline and striving for excellence in something. I honestly believe I wouldn't have grown into the person I am today with the positive and life-affirming benefits of playing music with my fellow students. Please don't rob our younger generations of the opportunity to experience this.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2813	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Education is hugely important for every child in West Lothian. There must be resources and opportunities given where possible. Music plays a huge part in some children's lives and reducing the music services would be to the detriment of these children. All pupils will experience Instrumental Music Tuition in Primary School through the Youth Music Initiative. It is proposed that some access to tuition will remain. 2814	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Instrumental music provision has many benefits to children from all backgrounds - social and educational benefit. Rather than reducing provision it should, if anything, be increased to offer a wider range of instruments at primary level to suit a wider range of pupils. However the council doesn't have to pay for it all. Many parents (myself included) would be willing and able to contribute financially to instrumental lessons and activities, allowing the cost to be subsidised for those families who are already eligible to benefits such as free school meals etc. This happens in other areas. 2815	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	A reduction of any instrumental instruction is almost criminal. The young people of West Lothian deserve the opportunity to develop socially and academically and music is the perfect vehicle for this. West Lothian used to be the pinnacle of instrumental tuition in Scotland and despite numerous cuts in recent years the service have still provided opportunities for young people to thrive, given opportunities for children in West Lothian's most deprived areas to succeed in their learning and helped our young people to express themselves in a positive way. Cutting this service is just not an option.	Instrumental music provision	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal. 2816	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Reduction in musical provision and advisory approach seems counter intuitive for the long term. 2817	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I understand that there have to be priorities but there are a thousand or more ways to save money. In connection with the proposal to remove the instrumental music provision from schools, this will have a negative impact on a number of areas! Pupils who have a love for music are being disadvantaged against pupils who are academically clever. Every pupil should be given the same teaching and support to gain their goals. Attainment levels in the schools will drop, pupils social skills will also drop, as no school bands which have proven to increase confidence levels and social skills in pupils who attend. Pupils learn commitment and the school then benefits from this as the pupil channel their energy and support back into the school through concerts and in the later years of school assist teaching staff, assist with the planning of shows and concert which in turn raises funds for the school. The council have to seriously consider this decision and take a look at the bigger picture and not just the Â£ sign of savings in the initial years!! If we do not invest of the children of today and provide them with the help, support and learning initiatives, then such things as school bands, young musicians will soon become a thing of the past which is a great loss. 2818	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Why does cuts always have to be around kids, youth and students who are looking to make a career in drama or music!! There are a number of other areas that could be looked at. Only yesterday it was announced that the NCL's sponsor had withdrawn their support and would no longer be able to offer a degree in Musical Theatre / Drama, this is outrageous!! This means that only students that can afford to pay thousand of pounds will be able to progress, how and where is the equality in this! Once again it comes down to wealthy kids will survive but those who have talent but parents do not have extra funds will not be able to progress. We continue to divide this world The government and council need to look at the bigger picture	Instrumental music provision	2. 2831	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I am sending this email in regards to the proposed cuts in 1B to the reduced instrumental music provisions which I hope you agree are absolutely ludicrous. I believe that integrating a reduced instrumental music provision will be detrimental to the education system in West Lothian. As a former pupil and member of several orchestras and groups, I have experienced first hand the many benefits of learning a musical instrument. This not only includes the skills of being able to play an instrument (which is an excellent skill) but also the development of communication skills, time-keeping skills, and integrity as well as the positive emotions that materialise from being involved in an amazing achievement. The excellent Instrumental Music Service in West Lothian has allowed me to travel far and wide to places that I otherwise would never have managed to see. This includes United States of America, all over Europe as well as Britain. I, amongst many others would not be where I am today if it weren't for my experiences as I know that my family would not have been able to support me with music if it had not been free. This has allowed me to become part of choirs such as National Youth Choir of Scotland and pipe bands such as National Youth Pipe Band of Scotland. All of these would again not have been possible without the benefits of the IMS in West Lothian. I will forever be grateful to the service for the influence it has had on my life. I have now recently graduated with an upper second class honours degree for music at university. This again highlights the importance and effect the opportunity of music tuition at school can have on someone's life, enhancing social skills and perseverance skills to name but a few. One of the main factors in education just now is that of closing the attainment gap and how social justice and inclusion supports this. I think, therefore it is important to consider how free music tuition enhances this for many families in West Lothian. There are a number of areas in which families cannot afford to pay for school books, never mind the expense of private music lessons. Therefore, removing free music tuition will eradicate an excellent opportunity for many students who have a very special skill. This will, I believe, have an effect on the level of attainment possible for many children. The Curriculum for Excellence is supported by a key child protection policy named, GIRFEC, which stands for 'Getting It Right for Every Child'. This aims to provide a co-ordinated and appropriate approach from all external services and agencies who are involved in supporting children and their families and is underpinned by the 'SHANARRI' values and principles. 'SHANARRI' stands for 'Safe, Healthy, Achieving, Nurtured, Active, Respected,	Instrumental music provision	2. 2832	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	As you know, West Lothian schools have an outstanding record and reputation for music over decades, both in Scotland and overseas. The support for musical education has made West Lothian Council stand out and it's something that has benefited generations of families, including my own, as musical education has given pupils the support and opportunities to develop their talents, learn new skills, extend their horizons and produce better students as a result. I appreciate that cuts have to be made alongside increases to Council Tax, but I'm firmly opposed to any reduction in instrumental music provision and would like to know your opinion on this. 2833	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I am writing, as a parent, and as an individual to express my deep concern at the possibility of the Instrumental Music Service (IMS) activities being absorbed into classroom music lessons, as suggested by the ongoing "Transforming Your Council" consultation. West Lothian has had a world beating service in it's music education, which is the envy of so many council areas. The concept that a classroom teacher, no matter how dedicated and skilled could provide the specialist knowledge associated with such a wide range of practical skills associated with the performance aspects of such different musical instruments as there are, to such a level as to be able to prepare students to be able to participate in an orchestra, wind band, brass band, jazz band, pipe band, fiddle band, accordion group, traditional music group, rock group is ludicrous. Even if an individual school had 6 classroom teachers in its music department they would not be able to scratch the surface of such a diverse subject area, and I very much doubt that there are ANY music departments with that many whole time equivalents. And that is just for the knowledge - not the time required to train and encourage the individuals at a level they would require. The benefits of music education, and participation in music performance are innumerable and transferable; there are gains in terms of language development, interpersonal relationship building, skills in working individually or as part of a team, team dynamics and leadership skills, foreign language skills, mathematical skills, physical education abilities, coordination and cognitive ability, not to forget the benefits in raising self esteem and confidence. The extra benefits of having the IMS being able to advise schools and coordinate performance ensembles, the supporting of school ensembles, and being able to provide a conduit to further education in specialist environments such as the Royal Conservatoire of Scotland, or the Royal College of Music is unparalleled. The benefits to children and young adults using this service are huge, giving them opportunities they might never otherwise aspire to in: performance, help in gaining qualifications, gaining life skills, being able to participate in a (not necessarily competitive) team environment, being ambassadors for West Lothian and Scotland in music festivals and exchanges around the world. There is also an aspect of local and national pride in identity which can be defined and enhanced by the music an individual has the chance to learn and perform. Many of these students may not be able to do this in any other way because of pressures of family, finance, interpersonal abilities, or background. There are also benefits for West Lothian.	Instrumental music provision	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal. 2834	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	However, I was and am deeply concerned about the proposals laid out in section 1b of the explanatory pdf - namely "integrating a reduced instrumental music provision into the mainstream curriculum." I strongly urge the Council to reconsider making cuts to any music and arts provision in schools. Whilst I am not a resident of West Lothian, members of my family, and many of my friends and colleagues reside in this area. It is for them that I am writing to you, and other members of the Council. My family and many of my friends' children are growing up in West Lothian at a time when the county is held up as an impressive example of world class music tuition, education and ability. Indeed, it has had that reputation for many years, due to the foresight of previous Councils and leading lights in arts and education such as the late Mr Brian Duguid. I myself have seen the children of friends growing in confidence, maturity and happiness since taking up music at secondary schools in Livingston. I have attended productions of school shows where school orchestras and bands have played seamlessly with professional musicians drafted in to help. I have seen the passion with which the children participate in musical events. I know how dedicated your music staff are to assuring the success of the students in music. I am sure that I do not need to impress upon you the importance of the arts and the immeasurable benefits that music provides to all children and young people - improving people's quality of life and their mental and emotional wellbeing and behaviour, learning of empathy, providing an outlet for expression, emotion and creativity. Cuts to the programme would deny students a wonderful, often life-changing experience in learning music. As I said, I am sympathetic to the Council's issues. Modernising and streamlining in areas can be hugely beneficial. However, I simply urge the Council to protect one of its most amazing and irreplaceable assets.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2835	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I am writing to you to express my grave concern over the proposed cuts to the Instrumental Music Service in West Lothian. Whilst I fully recognise that savings have to be made across the council, cutbacks to the Instrumental Music Service would be disastrous in so many ways. West Lothian's Instrumental Music Service is a widely recognised innovative specialist service which has led the way in Instrumental Music, with many of its pupils going from playing in School and Area groups, to playing in National Ensembles, studying at Music Colleges and going on to have a career in music. Instrumental music provision in schools is vital. Numerous studies have shown the benefit children and young people have in all aspects of their life from learning a musical instrument - higher attainment, improved social skills, much higher self esteem and confidence - great benefits musically and educationally to name but a few. As a person who received instrumental music lessons at school, I cannot stress enough how much I gained through this opportunity - much more confidence and many, many lifelong skills including being able to work independently as well as part of a team from experiencing this at an early age. This service is vital especially for children and young people who have very few other opportunities in their lives due to their family / financial / social circumstances, as well as being so important to pupils with additional support needs. This opportunity to have specialist small group lessons can help integrate them into mainstream education. Instrumental lessons have a massive impact on raising attainment in SQA Music exams as well as playing a large part in the wider school life with concerts and performances. This opportunity for children and young people to 'unlock' their inner talents is priceless. I would strongly urge you to demonstrate your support to this service to the council, as people cannot measure the benefit that the young people gain from this opportunity - not just academically, but also mentally and emotionally. 2836	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I heard with acute dismay that the music instrumental service in West Lothian is under consideration for radical cost saving measures- even possible closure. I feel that I must write to ask you to not to take such a damaging measure and to preserve the excellent instrumental service that has been such a jewel in West Lothian's crown for many years. I well remember the late Brian Duguid and know how much he prized and promoted this service which was, even then, noted for its excellence. I understand that making savings is never easy and that no one ever wants a reduction in the status quo, however I truly believe that the value of instrumental music extends far beyond the technical ability of making musical sounds. Learning an instrument has an important civilising / social benefit. 1.Instruments have distinct individual voices but are appreciated more when they are played together in ensembles and create a more complex whole than solo playing can achieve. However playing together requires certain commitment from each player to achieve the common aim; each has individual value but is reliant on the other- none should dominate, therefore musicians learn to be aware of their fellow instrumentalists and to work in co operation with each other. 2.Playing together requires a sense of responsibility and discipline. Players need to prepare to perform together - failure to practice has implications for the entire ensemble. Unlike other forms of subject learning, music is not a medium where players can do their own thing- there are clear rules and failure to co operate harms the achievement of the other players. 3.Playing co operatively but with instruments that offer different voices enables musicians to appreciate the skills and achievements of their fellow players. They learn to respect and to value each other. 4.Instrumental teaching requires a good relationship between instructor and student. Mutual trust brings out the best in the student, and, in particular, can enhance confidence. For some students this focused attention of an adult is a new and encouraging experience. These factors - commitment, shared responsibility for the success of the whole, co operation, awareness of others, discipline, valuing of the skills of others - are vital to good education. Musicians learn to approach their training seriously and quickly learn that they have individual, valued parts to play. This musical discipline is, I believe, known to help children in their approach to other subjects on the curriculum- in short, they are, through instrumental teaching, trained to know how to learn efficiently and to work co operatively. Learning an instrument gives a skill that may be enjoyed	Instrumental music provision	2. 2839	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	To whom this may concern, I am writing to you today on behalf of [redacted] and [redacted]. One of the proposals set by West Lothian Council, to save £73m over the next five years, would seriously affect our school's music department, one which we are highly involved in. I play the tuba in the school's senior band and hope to go onto the Conservatoire to study this, and Connor is the leader of the school's orchestra. Your plan to get rid of Music Tuition, and try to integrate this into the mainstream music curriculum, is an impossible proposal; the Music teachers have so much work on their plates already, and are often not qualified to teach individual instruments to the high, specialised standard that Music Instructors are. This is a pressing issue that we feel very strongly about. We would like to arrange a meeting with the relevant people as soon as possible. [redacted] and [redacted] have all benefited so much from free music tuition service provided in our school, and with around 160 children [redacted] alone taking part in the Instrumental Music Service, it would be a tragic loss to the community to have to go through with this. 2841	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	The instrumental lessons and orchestras are extremely important to school. Not only does this even up inequality for children who could otherwise not afford it, it is also an integral part of school life at Linlithgow academy. The orchestras led by instrumental teachers is fabulous and benefits almost half the pupils at the school. In addition, it has been proven that learning a musical instrument has a tangible positive impact on children's educational achievement. I would urge council members to attend either of the band concerts in December to witness the wonderful achievements of the pupils, facilitated by instrumental teachers. 2842	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	These are viable and difficult decisions and proposals. I would urge the council not to scrap or gravely harm the work of Instrumental Music Education. The difference this service makes to young people, and the positive impact it has on wider attainment is well documented. The positive effect it has on school ethos, integration of pupils, and attainment of pupils in all subjects is recognised and makes it a very good investment. It is a grave concern that should this service be decimated or conveyed to a 'skeleton' service, then the good work and solid music making heritage that has existed in West Lothian for decades could be irreparably damaged. Such a blooming music environment cannot be turned off then back on later. If damage is done, we may lose our musical heritage for good.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2846	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Activities such as music, allows children to compete in annual SCBF competitions, which is a very positive experience and along with Christmas concerts etc, gives these individuals a reason to want to succeed, and is a very rewarding experience. Receiving these awards gives the performers a sense of pride and makes all their hard work worth it. I can speak from experience when I say that getting my school lessons and being a part of 2 bands has improved my confidence and made me continue to want to study music. Without this, I doubt I would have chosen to study music at national 5 and higher level (both of which I achieved an A in, and for my higher I achieved full marks in my main instrument, of which I would have never begun to play if it wasn't for the instrumental program that schools provide), and I would not be the person I am today. My eldest child has benefitted greatly from Instrument Services, he has become a very talented musician and looks to be pursuing a very positive line in employment in the music industry when he leaves school. My younger child has just started playing saxophone in the school orchestra. 2858	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	A reduced music provision I feel is not fair on children who have been learning instruments from a young age such as strings in P3/4 and then with budget cuts are going to be told they can no longer do this. Is this making the curriculum accessible for all or is this developing a culture of if you can afford to pay for it then you can do it. Not all children will be able to do this and I feel this is disadvantaging the children. If this was to happen in secondary, will this also mean a drop in exam attainment? As I know lots of students who have attended different musical specialists to get the most from their knowledge and experience. What about the jobs such as Education Officers and Heads of Service - do they maximise their time efficiently to justify such a huge salary?	Instrumental music provision	2. 2859	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Music/ instrumental tuition is a right for all pupils as is quality PE instruction. Children who are not academic and not wealthy need more opportunities and support to be the best they can be. How can you have a priority of positive destinations yet cut libraries music pe art etc. Shame on you for thinking about these.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2860	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	As for music provision, although it is not possible to maintain the old 'recorder lessons' we all remember as children, we need to ensure that music lessons are not only accessible to those who can afford to pay for them and the instruments. The potential of a gifted child must never be missed, especially if they are not academically gifted as is often the case.	Instrumental music provision	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal. 2861	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I don't think this is up to people without children to fund. This has been an on going problem for years but we need more schools for a start and not music lessons.	Instrumental music provision	1. The respondent advised that they agree with the proposal. 2862	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I feel a instrumental music provision is to some students one of the most important aspects the the council and school provide and to reduce this in any way more that it already has been would be very detrimental. Music and playing an instrument has so many benefits to young people and may miss out on it currently due to the lack of funding available, and so cutting this would have some very negative effects.	Instrumental music provision	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal. 2863	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Being myself very involved in the music program in both my school and council organised bands I am well aware of how fantastic some of the opportunities that music has given me and others I know well. For some people their music tuition is one of the main reasons they enjoy coming to school and some are looking to persue a career in this. The experiences and what can be learnt from playing an instrument and instruction is increadibly beneficial to young peoples development in general as countless studies yet even as it stands many students just are not luckily enough to be able to take part in this due to lack of teaching resources and instruments, and so to cut this anymore than it has been would be even more detrimental. 2864	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Instrumental music is incredibly important - it seems very shortsighted to impose a reduced provision rather than allow parents to contribute towards the cost of the lessons - this could be done on a means tested basis to avoid disadvantaging less well off. The council is proposing contributions towards social care so why can't something similar be implemented for instrumental music to protect the service?	Instrumental music provision	2. 2865	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I think the reduction of music provision is very short sighted - haven't you all read the evidence that learning a musical instrument improves attainment across ALL parts of education It is probably one of the most cost effective ways of engaging kids and making them more rounded learners. Check out the Sistema projects in the Raploch and in Glasgow and Aberdeenshire. I strongly disagree with cutting back the music service.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2867	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I would like you not to effect the music department at secondary and primary schools like teachers coming into teach us certain instruments such as strings brass wind and percussion. Things like this really help with gaining confidence I know this because I was a bit quite when it came to big public events but now I am more confident. I have got my exams after the new year how will this effect me I have been playing guitar and bass for four years now and my prelim for music in December	Instrumental music provision	2. 2868	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Not quite sure whether pupils have to pay for music tuition in West Lothian but I am aware they have been charging for music tuition in other councils for a long time.	Instrumental music provision	6. This is a positive suggestion. Officers will consider how this could be developed.	All pupils will experience Instrumental Music Tuition in Primary School through the Youth Music Initiative. It is proposed that some access to tuition will remain. All children will retain appropriate music provision through curriculum for excellence.
2885	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I strongly disagree with reducing instrumental music provision in the mainstream school curriculum. I believe that music education is very important and should be available to all children, not just those whose families can afford private tuition.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2886	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I totally disagree with reducing instrumental music provision! I was fortunate enough to get tuition at school and went on to continue playing in an orchestra after leaving. My son who is in P7 has been unable to have a chance to play an instrument yet due to his year size and is very much looking forward to playing something in the Academy! Individual tuition is critical to successful playing and the teachers simply don't have time or expertise to do this within music classes! Linlithgow academy has a reputation for being a good school and performing arts is a part of this! Instead of cutting money for this, why don't you stop giving out free school lunches to kids that don't need it!!	Instrumental music provision	2. 2887	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	The instrumental music programs offered by West Lothian council gave me some of the best and most worthwhile experiences of my educational career. As a student now studying Music Business, I believe that these programs to have been fundamental in directing the path my studies chose and have changed my life enormously. The opportunities these lessons provide pupils is so superior to WL's neighbouring councils and gives them a reputation for being a fantastic hub of budding musicians. Even for students who do not go on to be musicians, I am in contact with many former pupils who remember the experiences as some our fondest moments of high school. These lessons and bands developed me as much as anything - in some cases more - on the school curriculum and it did not affect my grades or studies.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2888	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I feel that music and learning an instrument are key areas to educational development. 2890	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I am filled with horror at the idea of "reducing" music provision. I am the daughter of a (now deceased) jazz musician + music teacher + musical instrument repairer. I myself learned to play 2 instruments. But at Springfield Primary & Linlithgow Academy, my younger son discovered music and that changed his LIFE! He learned violin & guitar, joined the orchestra, formed a rock band, made a record & went on to do an Honours degree in music technology. He learned so many other skills through music; studied more, practised hard, socialised, became a much more rounded individual. He blossomed. 2892	An employee of West Lothian Council	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I would not like to see cuts in music (or sport) provision as I believe it is important for children to engage in sport and music in their formative years and that this should be actively promoted and supported through education. I believe that children who have a sport and a musical instrument in their lives are less likely to engage in anti-social behaviours.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2894	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I am personally biased on the issue of reducing the music provision. It is unfair that this module is continually targeted when it comes to budget cutting, in my previous school the resources were already at a poor standard. I don't see how this can improve the school curriculum as it inhibits a lot of pupils from getting access to the best resources for their music classes and potentially affects their results. 2897	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Proposing to move instrumental tuition into the mainstream curriculum is incredibly narrow minded and detrimental to all those children who benefit greatly from the music lessons they currently receive. Linlithgow Academy has a wonderful music department and produces exceptional concerts. This wouldn't be possible if the pupils weren't to receive those lessons. Music is hugely beneficial for the children and helps them both at school and outside and sets them up well for later life. Please don't take this away from the aspiring young musicians. 2898	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I very strongly disagree with integrating instrumental tuition into mainstream curriculum. This will not work. 2902	On behalf of a Group/Organisation	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Some young people grow up in environments where music is their only coping mechanism and through experience of going through West Lothian's band progression scheme and remembering starting out at the age of 11 being so scared to talk and interact with others to now being a confident and interactive young adult today I can honestly say I wouldn't be where I am now if it wasn't for all the support and encouragement I received and continue to receive if it was for this wonderful opportunity and I just want all young people to get this opportunity as it would be a shame to lose such an opportunity	Instrumental music provision	2. 2903	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	As a school student receiving musical instrument lessons in school as well as higher music, I can say that these are two very different things, the music course is helpful towards more qualifications and the academic side of music and will help people get into musical courses at university, musical instrument lessons however, don't go directly towards qualifications, instead it gives students a chance to express themselves in a way that will be impossible without instrument lessons, if lessons are cut then it will deprive younger years of their ability to find something they could be very good at. Music lessons have helped me a lot and I urge you to find some other way of getting money.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2905	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	reduced instrumental music provision' West Lothian schools provide a fantastic instrumental programme which benefits pupils in immeasurable ways. From the challenge of learning an instrument in a small group to the excitement of playing in one of the many bands and orchestras in both primary and secondary schools, this is not something you can take away from our children. Learning an instrument in a whole class setting does not provide the same levels of success or motivation - I speak as a primary school teacher from a different council who watched a whole class learn brass instruments for 9 months and not one child continued with this when the year was over. Whole class learning of instruments does not work! The pace of learning is slow and those who want to learn get bored and give up along with the rest of the class. Please save our music tuition to give West Lothian children the opportunity to really make progress with music and develop their confidence and skills in a small group session. Thank you. 2906	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Instrumental music tuition within schools is a powerful and successful system that has an impact not only on the children who have the chance to take part and the wider school community. It would not be possible to provide the same quality and range of experience within the mainstream curriculum, and without school instruments and support there would be no school bands, orchestras, groups to feed into the musicians of the future. Please rethink this option.	Instrumental music provision	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal. 2907	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Instrumental music has been very important to me and without it I wouldn't be at the place I am with my music today. I plan on pursuing a career in music so I understand the impact these lessons can have on someone's life and I would be devastated if other people didn't get the same opportunity I have had with music. 2908	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	It's my opinion that instrumental lessons should be kept in place throughout West Lothian so that many children can benefit from the enjoyable and education free music lessons they possibly wouldn't have been able to take part in otherwise. They also help when considering applying for universities and help children to take part in a wide range of activities as well as making sure that learning an instrument is fun and worth the dedication, in a way that cannot be done in a classroom setting with usually around 20 kids to a teacher. 2909	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	This section of the document targets me personally. The instrumental music service has played an enormous part in where I am today and how I plan to create my future. Without my specialised lessons, I would never have found my love for percussion and wouldn't be attending the Royal Conservatoire of Scotland. Young people have a right to explore their musical abilities and that cannot be taught in a classroom. Taking away the instrumental services would also mean depriving students of taking part in school bands and West Lothian ensembles as there would be no one to lead them. Personally, I play in the West Lothian Wind Ensemble and that group alone has allowed me to discover my passion for playing with wind orchestras and am therefore hoping to go on to study that in further education. The instrumental services mean more to me and my friends than many of you can imagine and taking that away would be nothing shy if despicable.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2911	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I feel very strongly about our children having the opportunity to learn to play an instrument. My son lost a lot of confidence in primary school. (Diagnosis of dyslexia and ADHD). However in his 1st year of high school, his confidence had grown and he joined the school band. This has opened up new things to him and I strongly believe that he now has a feeling of 'fitting in'. Not everyone can afford private lessons, but it's not about that, it's about the children expressing themselves with their peers and forming positive relationships with teachers. Centralisation of Management and Governance support services can be managed. We can plan to wait for reports. We cannot afford to compromise our childrens' access to music, deprive each child of the opportunity to learn, develop and achieve from the benefits of music which go beyond their musical studies. 2913	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I have been learning violin in my school since I was in P5 and I have continued in high school. Learning how to read music has really helped me in my main music lessons and made music class a lot easier. I've also taken part in my big school production and being able to read music has made learning the songs a lot easier. I go to an afterschool orchestra group at Bathgate Academy for string players and it's an amazing experience and I get to perform an ensemble in front of an audience. Knowing how to play violin from the special violin teacher in my school could really introduce some amazing opportunities in my life that I don't want to miss. So many people who haven't had the chance to learn music want to and may never get the chance if you take away extra music. Please keep it!	Instrumental music provision	2. 2914	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Music is a creative subject and is enjoyed by many children in schools. I think the opportunity of having free lessons in schools is amazing and letâ€™s children be themselves and find something different to enjoy and maybe even still perform in adulthood. Many kids arenâ€™t good at academic subjects such as maths and physics but music is different and more enjoyable for some. There has been no studies to suggest that music is not needed which proves that itâ€™s an important factor for children. With the stop of instrumental lessons and clubs the actual subject taught in high schools may not last much longer. With children not playing instruments or gaining extra help many will not feel confident enough to do the subject and gain a higher or nat 5, therefore I do not think the subject will remain much longer with cuts which would be devastating. As I mentioned with making kids more confident, music teaches more than just how to play an instrument, it gives them the ability to follow instructions, be responsible, keep on top of studying by practicing and itâ€™s also a way for children to just be themselves and be creative. Therefore I think this is one area which the council should definitely not make cuts to.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2916	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Instrumental tuition is extremely important not only to the individual pupils, but to the teachers, the school, and the community. Free music lessons help expand the minds and the opportunities of hundreds of thousands of pupils across Scotland. If the free music tuition and school orchestra and band has to be cut, that means the adults of the country are screwing over the children for no reason. And think of the wonderful and generous music instructors who work incredibly hard to bring education to pupils who otherwise would not be able to afford music tuition. I love playing in the orchestra and I really think that everyone needs to rethink this awful decision. Please don't cut the school music budgets. I beg of you.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2917	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I had instrumental lessons every year in high school, it was my favourite part of school. I learned so much and it fed my passion for music that I have carried on at university. I know for me and many of my friends, school was hard and I started to get panic attacks and severe anxiety. My percussion lessons kept me in school and could therefore be part of wind band in school. I can't imagine what school would have been like without instrumental lessons. A teacher that is trained and skilled on that instrument is very important, not just a general music teacher. Please reconsider this proposal, as this thousands of students would be negatively effected by this and hundreds of instrumental teachers could lose their jobs.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2918	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Disagree with the reduction to instrumental music provision in schools. This is a valuable resource for our children and children who have already begun learning an instrument should be allowed to continue receiving instruction until the end of their school education. This is a major strength at Linlithgow Academy which represents West Lothian in music around the UK and abroad during performances and competitions. The current mainstream music teachers are already stretched and could not provide additional tuition to specific instruments and would not necessarily have the specialised training to teach brass,strings etc. It should also be noted that many families have been asked to buy expensive instruments with the expectation that their children will receive tuition through the school. Even if parents were asked to pay towards the service, this valuable resource should not be taken away.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2919	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I do not feel that music should be cut back from my tuition as it is very important to me and has impacted my life greatly. I am honored to have received the opportunities I have through music and would hate for pupils to be deprived of this. Most of my long term friends I have met in band, bonding with them over our love for music, so it would truly hurt to see that others could not do this, music is imperative to my life and I do not feel that private tuition, or extracurricular band should be cut as they show off everything West Lothian has to offer and the talent that it holds. 2922	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I believe that music in schools is a massively important thing, it is through the school system that I was introduced to playing the violin which has led to my love of music-something that I honestly don't know where I would be without. Yes, you can pick up bits and pieces of how to play an instrument on actual music classes, however, there are fewer instruments to chose from and nowhere near as large amount of benefit. For people who are taking exams in the music subject instrumental lessons are essential in order to pass the practical part of the exam since many cannot afford one on one lessons outside of school hours. I really hope that you do not cut this out since it will greatly impact now only students but the teachers too.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2925	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	By reducing costs in the instrumental programme will impact students greatly. This programme has good given many amazing opportunities to schools across West Lothian, from travelling to different countries and experiencing their culture and instrumental music life to developing strong friendships within bands and sections. Music gives students a higher level of responsibility and teamwork that is not offered in everyday school class rooms. 2927	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I am currently in [REDACTED] and have been playing the viola for the past 8 and a half years and the opportunities I have had through this have been incredible. I have played in four orchestras, a folk group and have had chances to do things play abroad. These are opportunities I would not have received without the instrumental music service. The mainstream music teachers are excellent but do not have the necessary training or ability to instruct individual instruments as most of them can only play a couple of instruments so most kids would end up playing the few instruments they could teach which would result in much less variety. Playing music has been a formative experience for me and without it school would not have been such a positive experience as I would have less positive relationships with teachers or other pupils involved in music. Playing an instrument has also greatly boosted my self confidence due to the large quantity of performances I have taken part in, even playing solos at some.	Instrumental music provision	2. Historically, WLC has shown an exemplary record in supporting the music programme bringing together children from all social backgrounds and levels of academic achievement. It is a vitally important area teaching children how to work together as a team, while developing their social skills. The music programme was something WLC has on previous occasions made clear they had no plans to cut, this is a backtrack on your commitments to our younger people and the community at large. 2932	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	The benefits of children playing musical instruments are well known. There is a direct link to their other academic attainment, personal development and good behaviours. The advantage of having a centralised instrumental resource is that the children get the chance to try more instruments, finding the ones that best suit them. Without a well resourced music service the attainments levels will drop, not only in music but in other subjects. The opportunity for young people to play together across schools, for example in the county ensembles, is incredibly valuable to their musical and personal development, nurturing their performance skills and confidence. Sit in on the concert series weekend in March and you can not help but be impressed by these young people, and by the dedication and commitment of the staff who make it all possible. If the decision to resource music tuition is on a school by school basis, some children will miss out, not only on that chance, but on the opportunity to learn an instrument at all and experience everything that music could offer them. West Lothian would be a poorer place. Other options must be available, even if it is for parents to pay a nominal amount for tuition, or for attendance at ensembles (with bursaries available so as not to disadvantage people who can't afford it). Decentralisation is rarely a saving, just a shifting of the expense to another budget.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2933	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Do not reduce the current instrumental music provision. From experience of several children passing through the music services over the last 15+ years it is something the council to be very, very proud of. Get creative and instead look to drop investment in the fads that come and go in education. What music gives people cannot be measured directly in results, but enhances the spirit of the pupils, builds bonds and helps create more rounded individuals.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2934	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	The idea to scrap music tuition and add this to the curriculum is ridiculous. Group tuition is far better than class tuition and frankly impossible in my eyes. As a previous pupil learning clarinet I wouldn't have managed to learn to grade 6 without specialised tuition. I want my son to have the same opportunities	Instrumental music provision	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal. 2935	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I specifically wish to object to the proposed changes to instrumental provision in schools. This type of provision often proves to be key for those children who participate, not just in musical benefit, but in many other ways, for individuals, and also for the whole school community, including those who do not directly participate themselves. For this to no longer be available is heartbreaking. For this to be delivered in the mainstream curriculum is just not achievable. While the need for budget rationalisation is clear, there is no evidence apparent to suggest that other options may have been explored, which could retain rich cultural provision and community capacity building, such as some form of cost recovery. While there may be some concern about such models in terms of potential inequalities, they must surely be preferable to effectively totally removing this aspect of educational provision and school community life. 2936	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Instrumental music provision already falls far short of what is necessary. There are not enough specialist teachers and not nearly enough time allocated to each student. Music tuition has been proven to help with concentration, commitment and modern languages and team work when in a band. Integrating a reduced service into the mainstream curriculum will not only take away a specialist subject but will also reduce exam results in other subjects and have a detrimental effect on the qualities that universities are looking for when the students try to apply for courses. While students are playing in bands and practising their instruments they are not 'hanging around the streets'.	Instrumental music provision	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal. 2937	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Not sure this is achievable if instrumental tuition is reduced and the reduction in tuition will potentially lead to more young people ending up not in education, employment or training.	Instrumental music provision	7. The respondent's comment was either not relevant to the question, inappropriate and/or contained personal and sensitive information.	The causal link between instrumental music tuition and requirement for MCMC support is not clear.

2938	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	This suggestion is ridiculous, not only will the quality of education fall once again lower than the standard needed for students to reach higher education (University) especially in music where the gap between advance higher and university first year standard is already wide when it should be equal. Specialist services such as the Instrumental music services are key to this. Furthermore, Children who excel in music will be short changed again. 2939	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	The council cannot stop free music tuition in schools! It may mean nothing to adults merely stopping instrument lessons in schools but for certainly most people in our school it would have a massive impact on our lives. It isn't just about learning to play an instrument it's so much more! My brother, sister and I have all had the amazing experience of learning an instrument through school. I have met the majority of my friends through this experience and it would unfair and a great shame to deprive others of this. My brother struggled to make friends throughout primary school and some doubted that he would be able to cope at the academy due to this. Taking up the saxophone meant he had something in common with others and he made a great deal of friends by playing in the school band and other music groups in the school which would not exist without our music tutors. He is now happily settling in to university and thanks to having the opportunity to learn the saxophone, he has met many new people by joining the university's band. Music tuition in schools give pupils more than a basic school music department can ever offer. Not only do I think that music lessons should not be stopped, but I believe learning an instrument should be highly encouraged in secondary schools because it leads to endless opportunities. For example, playing the flute has lead me to playing in the French Alps and given me the opportunity to perform solo in front of hundreds of people. As terrifying as it may sound I have gained massive confidence by playing in front of a crowd. Even if I stopped playing the flute in the future (very unlikely as it may be) I will never forget the friends I made and the skills I learnt from my music lessons!	Instrumental music provision	2. 2941	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	A reduced instrumental music provision is going to disadvantage a large number of young people who may have struggled to fit in with their peers who are motivated by sports. Access to musical instruments in primary school and the ability to develop skills and experience other instruments can benefit some young people enormously. As their skills develop and they join bands and ensembles they are then able to work with their peers and join a 'team' for the first time. This helps their confidence, self esteem, concentration and learning. I have a son currently in 5th year who has needed the educational psychologist and I can't imagine how difficult school life would have been for him without good, supportive specialised music teaching. The instrumental music provision is as important to many as physical education is to others.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2942	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Specialised music tuition should not be cut as it brings so many opportunities to people. As it says on the West Lothian website "Six West Lothian bands managed to bag themselves amazing gold and silver awards" at the Scottish Concert Band National Finals and this would simply not be possible if the music tuition was cut. So don't go giving your praise to these people when you just want to cut the programs that allowed them to have these amazing opportunities and excel musically and creatively. I think that it is outrageous that there would be any consideration of cutting the music programs, unless the general music education given improves.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2943	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Reducing music provision will have a detrimental effect on school children. Without the current inter schools music teachers and the chance to play in orchestras ,children will not be motivated nor in many cases have the chance, to learn a musical instrument and so fewer will take up music as a subject in school . Resulting in music at Nat 5 and Higher disappearing from the curriculum . Music is a creative subject and has proven to be important for children's learning . 2945	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	music instrumental lessons should not be taken away from students at school. students rely on the school to be able to play and perform their musical talents and do what they love. Denying children of doing something that they love so much may prevent them of having a musical career in the future. schools provide a happy environment in which students can learn an instrument as well as other skills that may help them with other school subjects and take with them through life. Learning an instrument is big part of many students school careers and they should not be deprived of being able to have these opportunities. The same would not happen in science or maths etc, so taking away music provision is incomprehensible.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2946	On behalf of a Group/Organisation	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I feel like the instrumental music program provides a lot for the children socially and mentally due to learning a new language in music and also learning how to develop and mature as a group. I feel like they also learn a vital skill through their one to one lessons and provide great results which wouldn't be provided if it became part of the curriculum, I play one of the hardest instruments and without the teaching one to one I would not be where I am today with my playing and performance skills. The instrumental music program also teaches you skills that are needed in future life such as performing in front of a big crowd and also team work and how in this situation you aren't always the most important person. It provides patience and time and effort in how we play outside and inside of school due to the staff and kids hard work. It wouldn't also give a broad range of instruments for the kids to play if it was in the curriculum itself and the learning of how to read music wouldn't be grasped as well and not as many people will go on to study music at a higher level in school and outside of school. 2947	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	It cannot be stressed how valuable instrumental music provision is to students. In the current jobs market, skills are valued just as highly as academic credentials, and the skills students obtain from instrumental music are as numerous as they are valuable. Some of them include the confidence developed from performing in front an audience; the dedication and discipline it takes to practice regularly and also the team working ability they gain from participating in all the outstanding west lothian schools ensembles. Providing the means to teach students those skills will greatly improve attainment and positive destinations for school children.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2948	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I feel that instrumental musical provision is never given the status it demands and almost always becomes the provision that is cut without looking at the wider impact of the decision. I would urge anyone to visit schools within West Lothian to see these talented musicians in action before making a decision. Without the provision of instrumental music lessons within school my 2 daughters would not have had the opportunity to learn a musical instrument. My daughters both attend Linlithgow Academy where they are involved in the schools senior Wind Band and have gone on to represent their school at concert festivals achieving great success. My eldest attends West Lothian Schools Brass Band which celebrates the talent we have within West Lothian in the Brass Area and they are an award winning Band in their own right. Please rethink any decision on a cut to these services. Every child should have the opportunity to access something that enhances their education and further enhances their community. Please do not reduce Instrumental Music Provision.	Instrumental music provision	2. The respondent advised that they either did not agree or did not believe the council should consider the proposal. 2949	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Music and all forms of expressive arts are extremely important to children and young people, music is a form of therapy and it encourages learning and sensory exploration. To rid this will cause many children and young people to miss out on many great opportunities which benefit most areas of development. My experience of west Lothian schools show that they lack expressive arts as it is. Getting rid of music will pretty much eradicate expressive arts in some schools.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2950	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I believe that reducing the instrumental service is not a good idea. As someone that has been taught by these amazing teachers I can say that they have had a great impact on my life as without them I wouldn't know what to do with the rest of my life and I would never of ended up where I am now. The service has helped me so much as it has given me experiences that have changed my life, playing in West Lothian bands meeting other people like me and being part of this fantastic vibrant community. It's not just the one tutor that taught me my specialist instrument, it's all the other teachers across brass, woodwind, and percussion that have taught me so much to do with life skills. These teachers don't just offer tuition, they are people that you can trust and even be great friends with. If this service is reduced then the West Lothian council will of lost their greatest asset when it comes to education and help for young people, as it gives so much more than it takes. 2952	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I believe that reducing the instrumental music services would be a huge mistake, this service provides young people with valuable life skills, it can improve confidence, team work, reading and playing music can help improve literacy skills. My son has had the privilege of receiving music provision and it has transformed him from a child who suffered from social anxiety to a confident young man who is involved in many local concert bands, orchestra's and ensembles and has now left schools and is studying classical music at college. Had west lothian council not been providing this excellent service when my son needed it I believe he would not be able to contribute to his community in the way that he dose. 2955	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Please do not cut instrumental lessons! They are one of the best things West Lothian has to offer and have given many children a wonderful opportunity. Having been a part of it all through school I have extremely enjoyed being a member of the Junior orchestra from P6-S3, then helping from S4-S6 and the string sinfonia from S2-S6. I have also had the opportunity to do many graded exams and be a part of the school orchestra and get involved with their annual music camp which everyone loves. To see all this go and the instrumental teachers who have committed so much of their time and skill to their work would be heart-breaking. I have had so much enjoyment in being a part of this amazing experience and I would hate to think that no-one will have the same opportunities I've had.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2956	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Instrumental lessons should continue in schools as it will benefit pupils future. It will give them more options at the end of secondary, by cancelling lessons this is denying children the option of pursuing a successful career in music. It is unfair that pupils who take part in music lessons could have this taken away from them as other pupils have the opportunity to take part in similar activities during class time such as school of rugby. 2960	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	As a parent of a child learning to play an instrument in Linlithgow, as well as a music teacher by trade in a different region, I wholeheartedly DESPAIR at your short sightedness on these proposals. It is a well documented fact that music helps with lots of other areas of the curriculum. The benefits which come from learning to play an instrument are colossal. Classroom teachers are not qualified to teach every instrument in the Classroom, neither do they have time to do this with increased demands on them. Instruments such as brass and woodwind require professional tuition from experienced teaching staff. By considering cutting this budget, you are putting many children at a disadvantage. GIRFEC certainly doesn't benefit from these crazy proposals- is this not something we are meant to be encouraging and developing within our classrooms? Children who choose to go to an instructor out of class during school and learn an instrument, or go to the various ensembles held are gaining invaluable skills across their educational experience. To be able to play a musical instrument is an invaluable skill that I would never have learnt without the tuition from the school. I play principal cornet in Linlithgow Academy's senior band and I also play in West Lothian schools brass band. Had I never the opportunity to begin brass in my primary I would never have had the experience of playing nationally or the opportunity to contribute to my local community at festivals, gala days etc. Playing a musical instrument has greatly enhanced my life and I believe the reduction of music tuition should not be seen as an easy cut as it enhanced not just my life but the lives around me and will continue to enhance the lives of our young community indefinitely. 2972	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Both our children have been through West Lothian schools from the age of 4 and one of the most outstanding aspects of their education has been the instrumental tuition and opportunity to play in their High School bands and orchestras. Children who play musical instruments have better outcomes at school regardless of socio economic background. This is 1 in 10 pupils at the High school our younger son attends. If these lessons are taken away from pupils they may lose interest in other subject as their favourite was taken away from them, which can lead to a future which wasn't expected due to this happening. Pupils who take instrumental lessons obviously have an interest in this therefore shouldn't be taken away from them. 2976	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I believe the music has been historically a part of west Lothian and its school and it give loads of children opportunity to learn an instrument and become part of one of the many school bands across west Lothian. That meet each week for rehearsal. They are committed children and teacher. Shall very sad if we have loose this for west Lothian and the children.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2977	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	As a parent of two children who are fortunate enough to receive music tuition in school, I am deeply concerned that their music lessons which they enjoy are at risk. I would be happy to contribute towards their lessons as I'm sure many parents would be. They are also members of the Bathgate string orchestra which I believe is also under threat. Why are cuts always made on the lower levels? Perhaps it might be more useful to look at pay structures in managerial posts.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2978	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I have had specialist music tuition from West Lothian Council for the past six years. During those six years, I have also taken Music right through school, currently studying at Advanced Higher level. As someone who has experience of both of these, believe me when I say that there is NO way that music tuition can be integrated into the mainstream curriculum. They are two completely separate entities. One is a general qualification, the other is a specific training on one instrument. Music teachers are not qualified to give in depth lessons to pupils; they do not have the time to do so, nor are they paid enough to cover the hours of work this would involve. The Music Instructors work SO hard, they are all incredibly talented musicians that this council is lucky to have working for them. If anyone from the Council was to actually sit down and witness the amount of talent and skill these teachers have, and how different these lessons are from mainstream music classes, then they would not even consider stripping this back. West Lothian produces excellent musicians, schools are packed with students in bands, orchestras, guitar groups etc. To take this away from a whole generation of kids is a tragic loss. It takes no effort at all to immediately find endless statistics on how music education can influence children in all areas of their life, inside and outside of school. I plan to study music teaching at the Royal Conservatoire of Scotland next year. Without the music tuition service that this council provides, I would not be able to do this...I would never have even learned to do the thing I love. Do not cut the Instrumental Music service, free music tuition to students in one of the greatest things that West Lothian Council provides.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2980	An individual	1b. 2985	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I find it absolutely outrageous that cuts to music in education are apparently â€œnot a priority to the councilâ€. Although yes, other areas of council spending are vital, the benefits that music can bring to school and the community are tremendous. As a student at West Calder high school, I have a first hand experience of the benefits that music can contribute to attainment as well as positive destination. For 6 years, which is not a long time in comparison to other peers that have benefitted from music, I have experienced the joys and challenges that music has brought to me. I have experienced incredible success; whether that be improving my attainment in my higher music and currently sitting my advanced higher music, or perhaps getting a platinum award (highest award) at a high level at the Scottish concert band festival, music has only contributed amazing things into the chances of my success in education and taught me vital skills of which I will carry with me for the rest of my academic life as well as life in general. Moreover, and most importantly, the relationships I have earned and built through music with my musical instructors should not go unnoticed. It is devastating for me to discover that my instrumental teacher, ██████ could potentially not only lose her career, but her life too. I cannot thank her enough for everything she has done for me for the past 6 years. She dedicates her entire life to music, and inspires, encourages and motivates all of her pupils, as well as supporting them with problems that may occur outside of the classroom or close to home. All I ask is that spendings are cut elsewhere. In terms of positive destinations, my sister likewise has experienced the joys and successes of music, and is currently studying music at university. 2991	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I believe that some of this should not happen as taking away the children's music lessons and bands is a bad thing to do. Some children depend on these things and find an escape in this. These also help children achieve more as you learn more in lessons and bands than you do in the classroom. Young people also find an enjoyment in it as these instruments help them to socialise with other musicians. Students also improve their focus as they focus on an objective when they strive to go to a competition and get the best result they can. The local community also benefit from children learning instruments as lots of schools will hold concerts for people to come to or go to care homes and shelters to play for them at different times in the year. So if you take away these wonderful lessons and bands you are going to impact not only the schools but the wider community too.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2992	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	The issue is where will it stop! Removing instrumental tuition in schools will therefore make the subject or music redundant. What will happen to the children who have exams in music and need to play 2 instruments. They will never reach the level needed possibly hindering their chance of higher education. What will happen to the children who need this to reach their potential in life. Would you dream of taking any sports teams away from schools? For creative people this is their team. The Scottish government cannot justify more cuts in the education system because they have failed. They WILL damage the future of millions of children. Who will play in our orchestra if there are no musicians. This will make it an elite activity widening the gap between the classes once more. Who will provide the culture?, and I don't mean Scottish culture as I have been made aware that pipes and drums will still get tuition. The sole purpose in my area is the gala day and orange march once a year in my dead end street! The knock on effect will be an irresponsible move. The effects this government has had so far are reversible but if more cuts happen the damage will be devastating. LEAVE OUR EDUCATION SYSTEM ALONE	Instrumental music provision	2. 2993	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I do not support the proposed reduction in instrumental music provision which is currently accessible to children from all economic backgrounds. Cuts and charging for services would mean the proven benefits of musical education would only be available to an elite who can afford to pay. Music education has many proven benefits to improving attainment across all other subjects/areas but importantly it also allows some children to engage with school successfully when they are not getting on in other subjects. The many outstanding school ensembles, orchestras and bands would suffer if cuts were made. The contribution of these bands to their schools and wider communities would also suffer. Almost every town in West Lothian has a band, playing at local gala days and events, that are supported by pupils learning their instruments at school. Introducing a policy that discriminates against pupils who cannot afford to pay for it should not be introduced.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2995	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I am totally and utterly against the proposal to cut specialist instrumental lessons; it is shortsighted in the extreme and has clearly been suggested without comprehension of the work of instrumental music teachers and what they and their pupils bring to schools and communities. Expecting a comprehensive instrumental instruction provision to be upheld by classroom music teachers is unrealistic in the extreme for several reasons: - classroom music staff are already required to do much more with far fewer resources than historically had been the case, particularly in the case of Curriculum Leaders who are already doing the jobs of several people, all the while struggling to keep up with a constantly changing curriculum. To require them to in addition provide instruction, even to the levels required by the SQA exam programme, let alone those required by dedicated instrumental performance assessment programmes, is foolhardy in the extreme and would be unworkable. - currently the specialist provision in place delivered by dedicated instrumental instructors covers all types of instrument, both orchestral and otherwise. That means that our pupils can be instructed in skills comprising, but not limited to: flute, piccolo, oboe, cor anglais, clarinet, all types of saxophone, bassoon, all types of recorder, pipes, drums, drum kit, timpani, all types of tuned percussion, all types of untuned percussion, cornet, trumpet, French horn, E Flat horn, trombone, baritone, euphonium, tuba, violin, viola, cello, double bass, piano, keyboards, guitar, bass guitar, harp, clarsach and all different styles of singing. Expecting a handful of classroom teachers to have between them the skills, never mind the time, to replicate all this provision in each school is unrealistic in the extreme. As such it is clear to me that those making the proposal must be aware that a comprehensive instrumental music tuition programme, such as that detailed above, is, in effect, being removed. This is NOT ACCEPTABLE. It is not acceptable that opportunities to learn all these skills will, as a result, no longer be open to our young people, with the knock on effect being that there will no longer be a rich and diverse musical life in our schools, and by extension, our wider community. It is not acceptable that classroom music staff will be put under further pressure to try to maintain some semblance of an instrumental tuition provision whilst also endeavouring to keep their performance in all other areas from decaying in quality as a result. It is not acceptable that this will effectively mean that the only students who will be able to pursue a programme of study in Music, be it on the SQA programme, through other means of assessment, or both, will become those pupils whose	Instrumental music provision	2. 2996	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I would strongly object to Reduced instrumental tuition. This is so strong in West Lothian and such a positive and effective element of education. Why compromise something that has been built up so strongly over the years? The critical media coverage this could, rightly, engender if this was cut could be very damaging to the council. This should be a flagship element of council spending and should be protected. 2998	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	This concerns me the most as a music teacher and a West Lothian parent of two children who receive instrumental instruction and benefit from the excellent bands and orchestras which are the pride of West Lothian. This quality of teaching could not be delivered through the mainstream curriculum. Classroom music teachers are not trained to deliver instrumental instruction to this level, nor do they have the time. The instrumental instructors in West Lothian are highly and specifically trained and their impact on music education is immeasurable. West Lothian council has a responsibility to "Getting it Right for every child" and taking away these opportunities for our young people would be devastating. Music education needs to be seen as fundamental and not an added extra or a luxury.	Instrumental music provision	2. 2999	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I really don't think that you should cut music lessons because they provide children with an opportunity to do and extra curriculum activity. It is also a coping mechanism for children and adults alike, it helps people control their emotions and it helps relieve stress. Me myself as a student learning woodwind at school, i feel if you take away music lessons, there is no point in offering music as a subject or any other expressive arts either because the equipment for classes like P.E for example isn't exactly the cheapest so why just cut music lessons, why not cut every expressive art class; so music, drama, P.E and art als a whole. 3001	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	Finally, West Lothian schools have traditionally had a culture of giving everyone the opportunity to learn to play an instrument and have had many successes over the years in competitions across a range of types of music. I myself in the 1980s had the opportunity to play with the West Lothian Schools Brass Band and as a result played in the Albert Hall on more than more occasion. The experiences I, and thousands of other West Lothian children past and present, had through learning to play an instrument in a West Lothian school were immeasurably in money terms and last with us throughout our lives. To reduce or take this opportunity away from future West Lothian children would be a huge step backwards.	Instrumental music provision	2. 3002	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	The West Lothian music service changed and improved my life from a young age - from primary 4 when I first started lessons, to now at 24, part of my local amateur orchestra. If West Lothian council removes this, children in the system will not only miss out on so many of the opportunities I had (representing my country in Texas, Spain and Germany; playing in the Usher Hall twice; entering competitions etc.) but will miss the chance to make friends for life. Just this weekend I have travelled for 3 hours to have a catch up with girls I would never have met anywhere other than orchestra. The key issue for me is that as soon as the service is gone, a huge rift of inequality in the system will begin - less well off families will not be able to afford private lessons, meaning kids will likely feel left out and let down. What will school Christmas concerts be without the brass bands? Or the award ceremonies without showcasing the strings? Don't ruin one of the few good and unique things left about West Lothian council.	Instrumental music provision	2. 3003	No Response	1b. 3004	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	The music service in West Lothian improved and changed my life so much from Primary 4 right up until now - being a part of a local part time orchestra in my area. I made friends for life, friends whom I have this weekend travelled 3 and a half hours to see - but also whom I would never have met if it wasn't for the opportunities I was given. I represented my country (but primarily West Lothian!) in Texas, Germany, Spain and other areas of Scotland. There are many kids in the system who rely on music to improve their wellbeing or nurture their talent, but there are also children who would not be able to afford private tuition - therefore equality is non-existent. What will school Christmas concerts be like without the brass bands? Or award ceremonies without showcasing the strings? I think West Lothian would lose one of the very few positive things it still has going for it, if it were to remove free music tuition in schools.	Instrumental music provision	2. 3008	An individual	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	I now wish to turn my attention to the provision of instrumental services. I believe there has been suggestion to cut this completely. I am absolutely shocked and dismayed to hear this. Having had a child go through the school receiving violin lessons and attending the west lothian junior and senior strings, I cannot stress enough the amazing opportunity this has provided. West Lothian has a phenomenal music service and this is reflected when sitting in one of the annual concerts given each year. I can fully appreciate that this is a very costly service and not used by every child, but please do not take it away. I believe the majority of people would be happy to pay, in a means tested way for this as already happens in most local authorities. I have always personally been amazed that I have not had to pay anything towards this amazing facility for all 3 of my children. 3009	On behalf of a Group/Organisation	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	music lessons are a very important part of my learning, as they are to most of my peers, too, by taking these away you would be taking away a child opportunity to discover a great love or an undiscovered talent. if i had never been given the opportunity to okay a brass instrument i would not have any interest in music of any form but this has helped me excel and so many other people have benefited from it. not everyone is academic in the traditional sense but i know countless people who are fluent in their instrument which is just as difficult and should be as praised as maths and english. it is underrated already and by taking it away it would be succumbing to the general public's view on musical lessons and brass/woodwind/percussion players will decrease until it is a rare occurrence to come across someone who can play an instrument and i hope to never like to see that day. music is necessary for me and i need it to stay	Instrumental music provision	2. 3010	No Response	1b. Rationalisation of Central Support to Schools	As I received instrumental instruction in school, I know that this cannot be integrated within mainstream classes. Not only do classroom teachers not have the ability to teach a number of instruments, there is also simply not enough time. This means pupils sitting national 5 or higher music could only perform on instruments they have been taught in the classroom, reducing their chances of achieving good results. Music has consistently produced a high number of As and allows many pupils to pass an exam or achieve a high grade which they would not be able to do in other subjects, opening up opportunities for them upon leaving school. This is due to their performance ability and without instrumental instruction they will have reduced opportunities. Instrumental lessons also greatly improved a pupils confidence by being able to stand up and perform, as well as answer questions in an exam. This helps to prepare them for future presentations in university or jobs as well as improving interview skills which will be very beneficial in future. Preparing for music lessons, performances and exams improves independence and initiative, also very beneficial for ones whole life.	Instrumental music provision	2.
